FEAR U. S. SHIP'S SINKING MAY BE A WAR PRETEXT

Capital Stirred Over Roosevelt Course.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Possibility that the sinking of the American steamship Robin Moor, presumably by a German submarine, will be seized upon by the administration as the pretext for taking this country into war caused a stir in official Washington today.

President Roosevelt at his press conference declined to discuss the matter because an official report of the occurrence has not been received. He said that the Brazilian freighter Ozorio, carrying 11 Robin Moor survivors, has not yet reached port.

The President, however, allowed to pass undenied the truth of the series of articles by the Roosevelt kinsman and White House intimate, Joseph Alsop, who said that Mr. Roosevelt hopes that the neutrality patrol "will produce an incident to serve as the pretext for really effective action by this country."

Quotes Talk with Intimates.

Alsop went even further in an article today in which he said that Mr. Roosevelt has told his intimates that "he cannot act without the pretext of an incident, preferably a German attack on an American ship in the Atlantic, which will pull the country together and simultaneously permit him to order the navy to fight back."

The Robin Moor incident is reminiscent of the destruction of American lives and property by German submarines in the world war on the basis of which President Woodrow Wilson asked and obtained a declaration of war on Germany. Because there have not been such incidents hitherto in this war, President Roosevelt, according to Alsop, feels that there would be much greater opposition to entry into the war than there was in 1917.

Old Questions Are Revived.

The same old questions that arose in each case of the sinking of an American ship in the world war come to the fore in the Robin Moor incident. One question is whether the Robin Moor carried war munitions in its cargo. The United States Maritime commission says that it did not, that its cargo consisted of automobiles, steel, and other articles of a nonbelligerent character.

If the ship was torpedoed without notice, the act was a violation of international law, which provides for search and seizure of any ship found to be carrying contraband, but imposes on the captor the responsibility of removing passengers and crew to a place of safety.

Another factor of the incident is the assertion by White House Secretary Stephen T. Early that the ship was sunk within the neutrality belt proclaimed by the United States and other American republics soon after the war began.

American Loss Undetermined.

Whether any Americans lost their lives in the sinking of the Robin Moor is not known. Some of the survivors in the one lifeboat found are Americans. The survivors were quoted in a radio message from the Ozorio as saying the Robin Moor was sunk "by a German torpedo." Three other lifeboats containing 35 passengers and crew members are still missing. The Ozorio is due at Pernambuco, Brazil, tomorrow night.

The Robin Moor sailed from New York on May 6 for Cape Town and other African ports. The maritime commission said the Seas Shipping company, owner of the vessel, received word from the Ozorio that the Robin Moor was torpedoed May 21 at latitude 6 degrees 15 minutes north, longitude 23 degrees 30 minutes west—about 950 miles northeast of Cape St. Roque, Brazil.

The survivors were reported picked up on June 8 at latitude 10 degrees 46 minutes north, longitude 23 degrees 30 minutes west—approximately 800 miles from the scene of the sinking.

A spokesman for the Seas Shipping company said large American flags painted on each side of the Robin Moor's hull made its identity unmistakable.

BOARD GRANTS DEFERMENT ON 'HARDSHIP' PLEA

Appeal Is Filed by State Director.

John Dungan Rigney, 26 years old, Chicago White Sox pitcher who was to have reported for army service June 20, has been granted a 60 day delay in induction because his River Forest draft board feels he should not be deprived of too great a percentage of his annual salary, which, with his bonus, is estimated at $12,000 or $15,000.

John Rigney.

This was revealed yesterday when Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, filed an appeal asking President Roosevelt to reverse the ruling of the River Forest board. The 60 day delay was granted at Rigney's request. He said that if drafted now he would "suffer unusual individual hardship" in that he would lose 4/11ths of his annual pay.

Delay Spurned by Greenberg.

Rigney's successful attempt to delay his army service is in contrast to the action of Henry [Hank] Greenberg, Detroit Tiger outfielder, who gave up a reported salary of $50,000 for the army's $21 a month and spurned even a 24 hour delay.

Cleveland's Bobby Feller announced two days ago that he would not ask for a deferment even if his club is in the middle of a hot pennant drive. Feller's reported salary is $45,000 yearly.

[Many Chicagoans who help support families denied draft deferment, survey discloses. Details on page 6.]

Rigney's father, Thomas J. Rigney, 632 Franklin avenue, River Forest, is a paving contractor. The ball player is engaged to marry Miss Dorothy Comiskey, treasurer of the White Sox. He will not be 27 years old until next October.

Told Not to Discuss It.

Neither Rigney nor Miss Comiskey could be reached late last night. Earlier Rigney announced he had been instructed not to discuss the case—he didn't say by whom.

A spokesman for the White Sox said the club believed the matter was entirely between Rigney and his draft board, and refused to discuss how other league teams, whose stars did not ask deferment, would feel about the effect on an already tight pennant race.

William Harridge, American league president, said the question was one for Rigney and his draft board to settle.

Rigney earlier had been granted a

POLL IN OZARK TOWN DISPUTES CLAIMS OF PRO-WAR SENTIMENT

Springfield, Mo., June 10 [Special]. —Doubting the conclusion of a Life magazine reporter, who wrote in a recent issue that there was a unanimity of interventionist sentiment in Neosho, a typical Ozark town of 5,000 in southern Missouri, the America First committee has completed a postal card poll of the town which returned a 69.6 per cent vote against United States entry into the European war.

Ballots were mailed to 3,153 persons listed in the directory. Ninety-nine were undelivered. Of the remaining 3,054 ballots, 994 were returned. A total of 692 voted no on the question: "Do you favor United States entry into the European war"; 276 voted yes, and 26 said they were undecided.

O. K. Anderson, a writer and member of the America First committee, who suggested the poll, said today that he believed the sentiment in Neosho is typical of the state and that he believed noninterventionist sentiment would run 5 per cent higher on the average thruout the middle-west.

Actors Equity Leaders Quit as Red Protest

New York, June 10 [Special].—Long simmering dissension within the ranks of Actors' Equity association, a union whose membership includes most of the famous names of the stage, reached the boiling point today and was climaxed by the resignations of two vice presidents and eight members of the association's council of 50.

Those who resigned are Florence Reed and Peggy Wood, vice presidents, and Winifred Lenihan, Muriel Kirkland, Claudia Morgan, Joseph Vitale, William David, Ben Lackland, Alfred Kapeler, and Lee Baker, council members.

In a statement they said that they resigned as a protest against what they called "communist elements" exerting a dominating influence in Equity affairs.

Action Follows Election.

The resignations, it was explained, resulted from the Equity election last Friday at which three independent candidates, one accused of being a communist, were elected to the council. The accused candidate, Alan Hewitt, denied he is a communist.

Making public a statement addressed to Bert Lytell, president of the Equity council, and to Equity's 4,000 members, the dissenters said that for years they had been fighting subversive influences in Equity and had seen it changed from a guild of professional actors working for the best interests of the theater as a whole to a labor union with decidedly different objectives. The obvious result, they said, was that Equity had lost the good will of the public.

Lytell Voices Regret.

After Lytell had read the statement to the council this evening, it was agreed no action would be taken immediately.

"The resignation of those valuable and experienced officers and councilors is an irreparable loss to Actors Equity association," Lytell said. "It came as a complete surprise to me."

The defection of the 10 actors and actresses was said to be the largest mass resignation since the actors' strike in 1919.

It seemed agreed that back of it all was the case of Hewitt, who was one of those accused a year ago by Representative William P. Lambertson [D., Kas.] of being a communist sympathizer.

TWICE FREED RAPE SUSPECT IS KILLED IN CROWDED COURT

Conroe, Tex., June 10 [Special]. — W. S. Cochran, wealthy Texas landowner, calmly walked over to the railing in crowded district court here this afternoon and shot to death Bob White, Negro charged with the raping of Mrs. Cochran.

The ninth juror had just been chosen for the third trial of White, whose death sentence had been reversed, once by the Texas court of criminal appeals and once by the United States Supreme court, when the killing took place.

J. R. Rodgers, attorney for White who was sitting near the Negro, said that he saw Cochran walk into the courtroom with a pistol in his hand. "I thought he was bringing the gun in as evidence," Rodgers said. "He walked down and leaned over to within a foot of the defendant. There was one shot, killing him instantly." The courtroom crowd stampeded.

Cochran then walked to Zimmie Foreman, special prosecutor and an old friend, handed him the gun, and surrendered to a deputy.

BILL TO LICENSE BOOKIES PASSES HOUSE, 89 TO 47

Springfield, Ill., June 10 [Special]. —A bill to legalize horse race betting in handbooks in Illinois was approved by the house today. The vote was 89 to 47. The bill is similar to the one vetoed by the late Gov. Henry Horner in 1935.

Should the senate concur and Gov. Dwight H. Green approve, cities of more than 10,000 population could license bookies and keep two-thirds of the revenue. The rest would go to the state.

Gov. Green has not taken a position on the bill but it was opposed today by his floor leader, Frederick W. Rennick of Buda. When the bill's sponsor, Emmett McGrath [D., Brookfield] had explained his measure, Rennick arose and referred to the Horner veto message and declared the house "shouldn't legalize gambling."

Rep. Warren L. Wood [R., Plainfield] declared:

"I should like to suggest that there are additional sources of revenue of this nature which the state might tap. It might, for example, license the man who wants to rob my house, or murder me, and get money out of that."

Claims Charity Lost Money on Mrs. Roosevelt

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—Representative Charles A. Plumley [R., Vt.] told the house today that when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke at a hospital benefit at Burlington, Vt., last week she charged a fee of $1,000 and there was no money left for the hospital.

At the White House the secretary who handles details of Mrs. Roosevelt's lectures told reporters that, by prearrangement, proceeds from her appearances are turned over to the lecture bureau which books her tours. Mrs. Roosevelt does not handle the money herself, the secretary said.

50 Per Cent Is Deducted.

The bureau then deducts 50 per cent of the fee, it was said, and mails Mrs. Roosevelt a check for the remainder. The fees she receives for her appearances, it was explained, are then turned over to charities after the income tax is deducted.

Plumley said Mrs. Roosevelt spoke at the invitation of the members of the Mary Fletcher hospital auxiliary of Burlington "ostensibly to help, aid, and assist the above named organization in its effort to raise a substantial sum of money for the support and maintenance of the hospital."

Benefit Is Failure.

"As a charitable venture to raise money for the hospital," he continued, "the affair was a minus quantity. As a revenue producer for the first lady it was a success to the tune of the $1,000 she charged the ladies of the auxiliary and which they paid her for her efforts to help."

"Obviously," Plumley asserted, "she believes that charity begins at home, meaning, in the premises, in her bank account. With Mrs. Roosevelt it would seem to be a question of how much she can get and take away, not how much she can do for the institution which sponsors her appearance."

British Let Duke of Aosta Visit Rome, Italians Hear

ROME, June 10.—The duke of Aosta, commander of Italian forces in Ethiopia who surrendered to the British, is reported to be in Rome on an eight day prisoner's parole granted by the British to enable him to see his family. This report, unverified by British sources, is credited in high Italian social circles.

SPEED PLANE PRODUCTION IN ARMY RULED FACTORY

CIO 'Holdouts' Vote 'Back to Work' at Massmeeting.

Inglewood, Cal., June 10 (AP).—CIO strikers filtered back to work at the North American Aviation corporation plant tonight with the army still in charge of the factory with its 200 million dollar backlog of warplane orders.

About 1,000 night shift workers entered the plant after a mass-meeting voted the back-to-work movement based on three conditions. One of these—that the men be allowed to march back in a body—was rejected by Lieut. Col. Charles E. Branshaw, in charge of troops in control of the plant area.

Each man was subjected to close examination, hence the return to work was slow.

"The army is not bargaining with workers," Col. Branshaw said. "They can come back individually. They have been invited to do so and requested to do so as patriotic citizens."

6,866 Back at Work.

Branshaw reported that 6,866 of the plant's 11,500 employés had returned to work on various shifts since 3,500 soldiers dispersed picket lines yesterday morning.

The normal day shift totals about 6,000 production workers and 1,000 office, engineering, and other nonproduction employés. The normal night production force is about 3,000. The remainder work the early shift.

The back to work agreement of the holdout strikers was reached after several hours discussion of a resolution which finally was boiled down to three essential demands: That they be permitted to return in a group, that there be no discrimination because of union activities, and that they be permitted to resume negotiations on their demand for 75 cents an hour minimum wages and 10 cents an hour blanket wage increases.

Two Demands Already Granted.

Col. Branshaw said there would be no discrimination. Continuation of negotiations and mediation already had been pledged by President Roosevelt.

Wyndham Mortimer, union executive, said the mass meeting first decided to demand that troops be removed from the factory as one condition of the return, but that this was abandoned in conference later.

"I told them it would be silly to tell the army what to do," Mortimer said. "The best thing for them to do is to return to work immediately."

Three planes for the United States army were flown from the North American runways in tests this morning. A fourth, a Harvard trainer built for the British, was taken to an unannounced destination. All were completed since the army assumed charge of the plant. Normal production of the plant is 10 planes daily.

Draft Consolidated Contract.

San Diego, Cal., June 10 (AP).—A proposed labor contract was drafted by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, and AFL machinists tonight for submission to the union membership Thursday. The development came while union employés of the company still were voting on a strike proposal.

Balloting on a proposal to authorize a strike if negotiations fail to effect a satisfactory contract ended at 10:30 p. m., but union officials said the ballots would not be counted until tomorrow.

Harry Malcom, federal conciliator, in announcing the drafting of the contract, said it could not be called an agreement unless the membership approved its terms at special meetings Thursday.

Officials of the firm, which holds 700 million dollars worth of defense orders, said 8,427 hourly paid employés are on the day shift, and 5,521 on the night and split shifts. Other employés are paid on a salary basis.

BILL FORBIDDING FIREWORKS SALE WINS IN SENATE

Springfield, Ill., June 10 [Special].—The state senate today passed the house bill of Representative William G. Thon [R., Chicago] which prohibits the retail sale or private use of fireworks in Illinois except by special permission of county or city officials. The house passed the bill six weeks ago.

After the measure is sent back to the house for concurrence in minor senate amendments it will be ready for Gov. Dwight Green's action. If he signs the measure it will become effective next January.

Congressional O. K. Near on Seizures to Curb Tieups.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—With one major arms plant strike settled, and one well on the way toward settlement, legislation empowering the government to seize and operate munitions plants for the purpose of breaking strikes today seemed assured of congressional approval, despite warnings in the senate and house that such procedure will not solve the strike problem, and is precisely what communist agitators want.

Senator Connally offers seizure plan.

Administration leaders urged speedy enactment of the plant seizure legislation because of doubts as to the validity of President Roosevelt's order taking possession of the North American Aviation corporation plant at Inglewood, Cal., yesterday.

Other Strike Actions.

Other developments in the strike situation:

2. Witnesses informed the Dies committee investigating un-American activities that the leader of the Cleveland strike is a communist. Details on page 7.

3. Prospects brightened for settlement of the strike of 1,700 AFL machinists at 11 San Francisco bay shipyards, which is holding up work on navy orders aggregating half a billion dollars. President Roosevelt said Harvey W. Brown, president of the union, had agreed to call a meeting of his executive council on Thursday and ask permission to order the machinists back to work.

4. The President at his press conference expressed a desire to return the North American plant to private management as soon as possible. He said this would be the policy with respect to any other plants which the government may commandeer in the future.

U. S. May Handle Pay roll.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated uncertainty as to the details of government operation of the North American plant. He assumed that pay roll checks would be made out by the company, altho he said it was possible the government would handle the pay roll. War department officials said the company would retain the profits.

Senator Tom Connally [D., Tex.] offered the administration's plant seizure proposal in the senate as an amendment to a pending bill authorizing the President to defer from compulsory military training and service all men who reach their 28th birthday before being inducted.

Scope of Seizure Limited.

The Connally amendment to the conscription act would authorize the President, during the existence of the "unlimited national emergency" proclaimed by him on May 27, to take over and operate plants upon finding "that the national defense program will be impeded or delayed by an existing or threatened failure of production at any plant as a result of a strike or threatened strike or other cause."

The exercise of such authority would be limited to plants equipped for or readily adaptable to the manufacture of "articles or materials which may be required for the national defense."

The conscription act already authorizes the President to take possession of plants whose owners refuse to accept and give precedence to government orders at prices fixed by the government. As in the case of this provision of existing law, the Connally amendment provides for the payment of compensation as determined by ordinary condemnation proceedings.

Byrd Blocks Passage.

The senate would have passed the legislation today but for a controversy over an amendment offered by Senator Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] condemning all strikes in preparedness

REMAPPING BILL FOR CONGRESS IS NEAR VOTE TEST

Gives Chicago Half of 26 Districts.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Maps on back page.)

Hugh M. Luckey.

Springfield, Ill., June 10 [Special]. —The first showdown on the question whether Chicago is to continue to suffer from lack of full representation in congress is expected in the Illinois house of representatives tomorrow or Thursday.

Ready for final consideration in that chamber is a bill that would grant Cook county the 13 congressional seats to which it is entitled, instead of permitting it to continue under the limited representation of nine districts and part of another which were allotted to it 40 years ago. Downstate Illinois now has 15 seats and a fraction of another, and under this bill would be cut down to 13 seats.

Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg, who has thrown his personal support behind the measure, said today that it will be called for final consideration in the house this week.

Gov. Dwight Green said that he thinks the redistricting plan has a fair chance in the lower chamber but, in reply to a question, said that so far as he knew nothing had been done yet toward obtaining favorable consideration for it in the senate. He has talked to several representatives urging their support, and has helped to straighten out some district lines.

Opposition by Democrats.

The bill's prospects were lessened somewhat materially by the Democratic caucus which yesterday determined to oppose it on grounds that in general it is a Republican scheme designed to increase the number of districts which will send Republicans to Washington.

Despite a mandatory requirement of the state constitution that the state be reapportioned congressionally—and senatorially [state legislature]—every 10 years the last redistricting was in 1901. An effort fathered by Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], in 1929 was enacted but knocked out by the state Supreme court because of its failure to meet constitutional demands for approximate equality in population and contiguity of territory.

The bill introduced by Representative Hugh M. Luckey [R., Potomac], chairman of the house committee on reapportionment, proposed an equal division of the 26 districts between county and the downstate area, a division dictated by the 1940 census.

Luckey's bill has been pending since March 13.

Defeat Motion to Kill.

What are thought to be the final changes were voted in the house last Thursday and the bill was advanced to third reading, the passing stage, where it now appears on the calendar. A motion last week to kill the bill was overwhelmingly defeated.

The 1940 census recorded the population of Illinois as 7,897,241, that of Cook county as 4,063,342 and that of downstate as 3,833,899. On the basis of these figures the quota—one twenty-sixth of the total—for the state would be 303,740.

On the 50-50 split between Cook county and downstate it would establish quotas for those respective territories at 312,265 and 294,565—still giving downstate a fraction of the advantage it now has of having 15⅛ of the present 25 districts.

That advantage was ignored, naturally, in the territorial split, and other inequalities in the districts now proposed are due partly to the necessity of following county lines.

Tabulation of Populations.

A tabulation showing the populations of the 26 new districts proposed and also—altho direct comparison is impossible because of the shifted lines—the populations of the present 25 districts, brings out the existing inequalities. The figures are placed in the same tabulation merely to present the contrast between the present and the proposed apportionments in as compact a form as possible.

Dist.	Proposed.	Present.

One of the bitter problems of the Luckey committee has been to redraw district lines in such a way that two sitting congresmen—particularly two Republican incumbents—would not face the necessity of opposing each other next year.

There are, however, some districts in which, if this bill passes, a Republican congressman and a Democratic congressman will find themselves in the same district.

In the new 23d there would be two—Congressman William H. Wheat, Republican, of the present 19th, and Congressman Laurence Arnold, Democrat, of the present 23d. The new 20th would include both Robert B. Chiperfield, Republican, of the present 15th, and James M. Barnes, Democrat, of the present 20th.

HOUSE VOTES BAN ON COMMUNIST PARTY BALLOTS

Springfield, Ill., June 10 [Special]. —The house of representatives today passed a bill to bar the communist party, Nazi or Fascist candidates from the Illinois ballot. The vote was 134 to 2, after lengthy debate. Edward P. Saltiel [R., Chicago], and Anthony W. Daley [D., Alton], voted against the measure.

Saltiel spoke from a prepared manuscript. He said this was done because he did not want to be misunderstood nor misquoted. He told of a visit to Russia as a tourist and his dislike for the communist form of government, adding that it would be better to keep communists out in the open where they can be watched than to drive them underground, to plot as Hitler and other Nazis did in a beer cellar.

Nick Keller [R., Waukegan], speaking in support of the bill, said it did not go far enough. Keller would bar "paid war propagandists who are running up and down our nation."

LISBON ASSURED U. S. HAS NO PLAN TO SEIZE ISLANDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull tonight assured Portugal the United States has no designs on the territory of any nation, but reserves the right to act as it sees fit in its own defense.

This statement was handed Dr. Joao Antonio de Bianchi, Portuguese minister, in reply to a request by Portugal for clarification of President Roosevelt's fireside chat of May 27.

In the fireside chat Mr. Roosevelt mentioned the Azores and the Cape Verde Islands as possible bases from which axis powers might launch an attack on the United States. He asserted that the United States could not permit axis occupation of those islands.

Portugal had declared its determination to defend its sovereign rights over the islands.

In the note to the Portuguese minister Hull said that the United States is viewing "with increasing anxiety the constantly expanding acts of aggression on the part of a certain belligerent power who now threatens the peace and safety of the countries of this hemisphere."

BILL FOR SURVEY OF TAXING NEEDS STIRS A TUMULT

G. O. P. Threatens Halt on Pegged Levies.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Speaker Schnackenberg.

Springfield, Ill., June 10.—Partisan clashes over the Schnackenberg bill for an investigation of financial requirements of the Cook county taxing bodies, threatened today to bring turmoil to the closing days of the legislative session.

Warfare carrying lasting overtones was declared on both sides — Republicans rallying to the support of Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg's measure, which he introduced for Gov. Green, and Democrats mobilizing against it.

When he heard that the house Democrats had bound themselves, in caucus, to fight the inquiry, the speaker summoned their leaders—William Vicars, Pontiac, the floor general, and Joseph L. Rategan, Chicago spokesman to his rostrum—and informed them that if the members were not released from their caucus pledge, the Chicago pegged levy bills pending before both houses would not move toward passage.

Bills Important to Democrats.

Involved in this ultimatum are the Chicago park and sanitary districts levies—vastly important measures to the Democrats. The sanitary district levy is in the house and the park levy in the senate.

By an agreement made last week, the sanitary district bill, pegged at $5,400,000 for 1941 and $6,400,000 for 1942, was allowed today to come out of the house municipalities committee, but it will be held on the calendar pending developments in the battle over the speaker's bill.

An effort to amend the levy to reduce the number of trustees from nine to three was defeated, 18 to 9, and a similar fate met an amendment which the Civic Federation of Chicago felt would simplify and improve budgeting and fiscal procedures of the district.

Last Saturday, under Mayor Kelly's leadership, the Chicago Democrats agreed to oppose Schnackenberg's measure, which would empower a joint legislative commission to sit continuously, if desired, as investigators of the financial needs of the taxing bodies which customarily come to Springfield every two years asking passage of pegged levy bills. They include the sanitary and park districts, the board of education and the public library.

Democrats Go Along.

Late yesterday, all Democratic representatives caucused and the downstaters agreed to go along with their Chicago brethren as opponents of the proposed inquiry.

Today, the governor scoffed at the Democratic contention that the inquiry would be purely political and "the opening gun in the 1943 mayoralty campaign."

"That idea," he said, "exists only in their minds. I am for this inquiry because it will make available to every legislator—and to me—information on whether pegged levies are proper.

"We need intelligent information on this subject. If pegged levies are right, certainly no one can have any objection to a responsible body investigating them, and the legislature is a responsible body. I would like such a body to turn to, for I have no one to turn to now.

"The mystery should be taken out of all these things. If they are right, we will be told so; if wrong, we will know that too. I believe the public has a right to know. My interest has been aroused because of the nature of the objections raised to the [Schnackenberg] bill."

Tells Purpose of Bill.

Speaker Schnackenberg elaborated: "The bill," he said, "is intended to produce an honest, impartial, thoro, and nonpolitical investigation of the tax needs of any municipality which may in the future come to the legislature asking for an increase in its tax levying powers.

"Now, no legal means exists whereby the legislature can inform itself officially as to the justness of any such request. The members and the governor therefore have been, on such occasions, lost in a mass of incomplete information, much of it furnished by the interested tax bodies themselves, and the whole situation usually confused by political charges and recriminations, having nothing to do with the real needs of the taxing authority or the interests of the taxpayers.

"Only those who fear an honest scrutiny of the future demands of taxing bodies can afford to oppose the bill."

Questions Motives of Measure.

Arthur A. Sullivan, Democratic state chairman, interviewed in opposition to the bill, lambasted both the governor and Schnackenberg.

"As I told the caucus yesterday, this is purely a political bill," he said, "because in the first place the commission would not terminate; it would continue thru elections."

Minority Leader Vicars told reporters, after Schnackenberg had delivered his ultimatum to the Democrats thru him, that "if the Republicans want a fight, they'll get one."

"A lot of administration appropriation bills are still before us," Vicars continued. "If the Republicans want them passed, they had better have all their members in their seats when they are considered."

SUPER ROAD BILL IN SENATE TODAY; FACES CHANGES

Springfield, Ill., June 10.—The Chicago and Cook county toll superhighway bill, passed by the house last week, is scheduled for consideration tomorrow afternoon by the senate sitting as a committee of the whole.

Gov. Dwight Green today said he will support an amendment to create a five man road building agency to consist of three persons appointed by the county board, the Chicago city council, and the governor, plus the state director of public works and the state's chief highway engineer.

George A. Miller of Oak Park and William Busse of Mt. Prospect, veteran Republican members of the Cook county board, urged Gov. Green to drop the five man idea and to support the bill's original provision for giving control to the Cook county highway superintendent.

Under the bill as amended in the house, thru the lobbying of Charles E. Deleuw, who is collecting fat fees as an engineer for the Chicago commissioner of subways and superhighways, there would be a two man agency to sell bonds, to build the superhighways, and to collect the tolls. One would be appointed by the county board and the other by the mayor.

"I told the governor," said Busse today, "that we wanted no such partnership with the city of Chicago."

Pupils Enlisted to Gather 'Defense' Information.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 10.—Fear of invasion, one of the big talking points of the war propagandists, is now being spread with realistic trimmings among school children in New York City and environs. Boys and girls are being made air raid conscious.

Pupils ranging from the first grade upward in the public schools of Westchester county, the suburban area adjoining New York City on the north and east, have been pressed into service by the county defense council. Each child has been given two questionnaires, white for men and green for women, to take home to the father and mother.

Questioned on Training.

After routine questions the parents are asked to state whether they have received "training or are adept in" activities such as the following: "Air raid warning, entertaining, firearms, fire fighting, first aid, house wrecking, police work, Morse code, radio, telephone service, sewer service, signaling, and water service."

Then the parents are asked whether they have a motor vehicle that can be called on for an emergency and if they are willing to donate their blood if requested.

At first the children came home with instructions from their teachers that parents were legally bound to fill out the questionnaires. Protests arose from the parents, who characterized the procedure as propaganda for whipping up war hysteria, and local newspapers printed items saying the project was entirely voluntary.

War Shelter Tried Out.

In New York City the Dalton school, fashionable private children's institution, already has adopted a war evacuation scheme. One hundred Dalton pupils and 15 teachers are living and carrying on their studies in a war shelter near New Milford, Conn.

Built at a cost of $75,000, the shelter is a development of the plan of the Children's Foundation, Inc., formed last summer by a New York group to determine how rapidly suitable war shelters could be thrown up.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, who also is director of civilian defense and chairman of the United States-Canadian joint defense commission, has plans for formation of an air raid warden service of 60,000 and an auxiliary police force of 15,000 for New York City.

Wardens will be drawn from employés of various city departments between the ages of 18 and 55 years.

BABY DIES AFTER MOTHER POISONS SELF, 2 CHILDREN

Florence Kalisz, 2½ years old, died last night in Evangelical hospital of an overdose of sedatives apparently administered by her mother, Mrs. Felice Kalisz, 29, in an attempt to end her own life and those of two children. The mother herself was in a grave condition in Psychopathic hospital. The three were found ill Monday night in their home at 5258 South Hermitage avenue. A son, Frank, was able to return home with his father, Walter, an upholsterer, after first aid treatment at Evangelical hospital. Notes found in the home indicated Mrs. Kalisz' intent, police said. Her husband told them she had been ill recently.

SENATOR TOBEY CALLS BOMBERS OF U. S. INFERIOR

Northampton, Mass., June 10 (AP).—Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] said tonight the latest bombers manufactured in the United States "are inferior to those of England and Germany."

Declaring that this country "is in no position to enter the war and that the real facts are being kept from the people," he asserted in a rally sponsored by the America First committee:

"We can't have national unity in an attempt to get this nation actively into the war by indirection, by ignoring the constitutional powers of the congress, the people's representatives, to declare war."

HONOR STUDENTS PAY A FESTIVE VISIT TO CHICAGO

62 Future Citizens Tell Aims on W-G-N Show.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Boys and girls who marveled at their first ride in a sleeping car and gazed in awe at Chicago's towering buildings—but told their ambitions with hearty American confidence to a city audience of strangers—were Chicago's guests yesterday.

They were 62 high school students whose achievements have won them a place on the honor roll of the W-G-N Citizens of Tomorrow radio program, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. There are 73 on that honor roll, but some were unable to leave the work by which they are earning their way and so were unable to accept the newspaper's offer to pay for their transportation.

Visitors from Five States.

The Citizens of Tomorrow came from all five states of Chicagoland—Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin. Altho some are Chicagoans or from the Chicago suburbs, 50 communities were represented in the assemblage. Twenty-five of the students have been awarded scholarships by colleges and universities of midwestern states.

The day was a memorable one for the boys and girls, and an impressive one for the audience which heard them tell their ambitions at the W-G-N studio in a program recorded for broadcast last night.

The students came to the microphone alert and poised, facing the problems of the future with confidence, to tell their plans for themselves and for the world in which they soon are to make their place.

Students Aim at High Goals.

Mario Andrew Fraccaro of Lane Technical High school said he intends to be an architect. Ralph Joseph Meyer of the Montefiore school came from work in his telegraph messenger's uniform to say he hopes to be a commercial photographer. Edward Lee Barnett of Moline said his ambition is to be a factory superintendent. Ruby Mae Watson's dream is to be a music teacher in her home town of Sheboygan, Wis., and to write a children's book on her grandmother's life.

These honor roll students' hopes are high. Many wish to become physicians, or lawyers, or artists, or authors. And all see in their life work the ultimate goal of helping a troubled world.

Welcomed by Col. McCormick.

They were welcomed to W-G-N by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, who told them:

"Many of you have been singled out for your high school achievements. You will find that in life, too, there are rewards for those who do their work well. It is doing well every little assignment that makes for your success. That success will not come alone in financial remuneration; greater is that feeling that you have been given a task and completed it."

Four hundred students of the Chicago Teachers' college and their president, Dr. John A. Bartky, were guests of honor on the program, which was the last of the Citizens of Tomorrow series for the season. David Nyvall Jr. led the college a cappella choir.

Leaders Join in Program.

A number of educational leaders and representatives of the institutions which awarded the scholarships took part in the day's program. Among them were Dean R. S. Nanz of Carroll college; Vice President W. Bradley Tyrrell, and Gene Wolfe of Beloit college; Dr. Benjamin W. Van Riper of Carleton college; Dean G. Herbert Smith of DePauw university; William V. Burger of Coe college; Bernard P. Taylor of the Illinois Institute of Technology; Dr. J. Scott Hemry of Stephens college; representatives of Mundelein college; President Frank H. Sparks of Wabash college; President Edward Everett Rall of North Central college; President Franklyn B. Snyder, Kenneth E. Olson, Fred D. Fagg Jr., Harry L. Wells, Addison Hibbard, John W. Beattie, and Jay Gerber of Northwestern university; Dean Martin J. Freeman of the University of Chicago; John W. Bell, high school district superintendent representing the Chicago board of education, and principals and superintendents of several Chicago suburban schools.

The honor students began the day by attending the convocation at the University of Chicago, where President Robert M. Hutchins delivered the convocation address.

Bishop Sheil Addresses Group.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago and founder of the Catholic Youth Organization, addressed them at a luncheon given in the Hotel Sherman by the Junior Association of Commerce. The association's greetings were delivered by Parker Ekren, president elect, and Wilbur J. Peak, executive vice president.

The students were dinner guests of President Snyder of Northwestern university at Abbott hall on the university's Chicago campus. Addresses were made by Dr. Snyder and Mr. Olson, who is dean of the Medill School of Journalism at the university. Music was provided by the university music school's double quartet. After the dinner the students heard the broadcast of the Citizens of Tomorrow program which they had recorded.

KANE COUNTY NAMES ZONER.

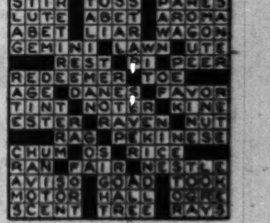
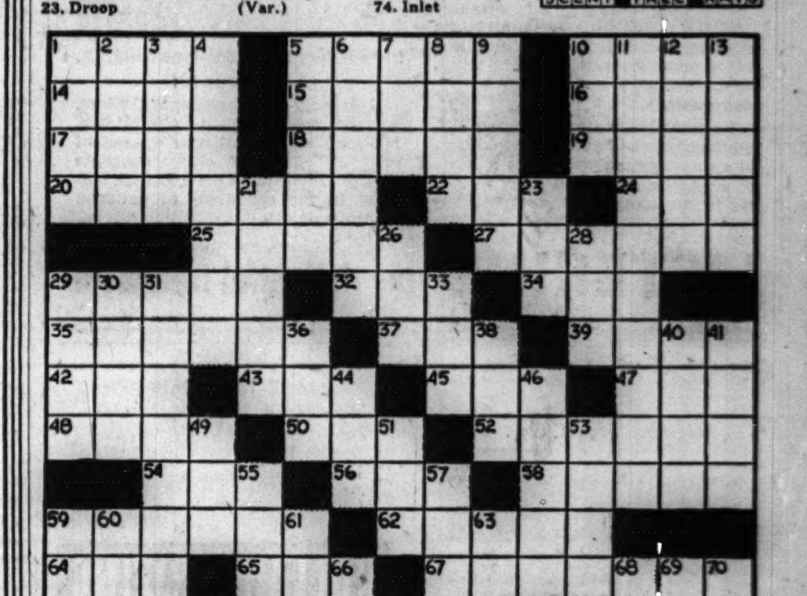
PUZZLE OF TUESDAY, JUNE 10, SOLVED.





CUSTER TROOPS MAKE A STAND, BATTLE FOR FOOD

Fists Fly as Hungry Men Discover a Feast.

Manchester, Tenn., June 10 [Special].—A series of incidents, some serious, some comic, have occurred in the last 24 hours to give concrete evidence of the slump in morale suffered by troops, which, lacking sufficient equipment, attempt to conduct simulated warfare. These incidents were observed among the forces of the 5th, 27th and 30th divisions, winding up the first phase of training exercises which will be continued thru June.

The incidents included fist fights over food, companies being lost in the woods at night, and the air corps' failing to carry out a mission because the commander thought an ordered attack was "only to be simulated."

The 55,000 troops, which have been in the field for a week, started back to their bivouac areas today and will pass the next few days preparing for the next phase of the maneuvers which will find divisions, instead of corps, opposing one another.

Hungry 5th Finds Food.

The fighting over food occurred at noon yesterday when a detachment from the 5th [regular] division came upon a detachment from the 153d [Arkansas] infantry which was assisting the umpires. The Arkansas troops were eating box lunches and the 5th division troops had been without food since early morning.

The Camp Custer men of the 5th became impatient waiting for their mess sergeant to arrive with their sandwiches and fruit and charged the Arkansas force. The fight became general, some eyes were discolored. The Custer force ate.

Private Conway West, Company B, 153d infantry, was found on guard this morning near Beech Grove, and Private Banks A. Fox, Company D, 105th engineers, 30th division, was stationed two miles away. Both said they had been posted at sundown last night and had been left without food until 10 a. m. They said they had only two sandwiches at noon yesterday. Fox said he had to beg food from civilians.

The Lost Battalion.

Two companies were reported to have been lost last night when engaged in a retreating movement. Embarrassed commanders did not care to discuss the incidents.

Thousands of troops and trucks were on the highways during the night and flyers based at Chattanooga, 70 miles away, were ordered to give the marching men a taste of war's realism by dropping flares upon the columns. The troops were warned that enemy aircraft might be hunting for them and all vehicle lights were turned off. Even smoking was forbidden.

The troops plodded and rode thru the night wondering what had happened to the air force. Inquiry today at flight headquarters revealed that the commander supposed the air attack was to be merely simulated so the flyers entered the order on their records and went to bed.

The shortage of trucks was felt keenly last night during the retreat. To get the three divisions moved on time a shuttle service had to be established. Trucks sped loads of men back to their base camps and then returned to the marching columns for more men.

Highest praise for conduct in the field went to the 27th [New York] division. Brig. Gen. Ogden C. Ross of Troy, commander of the 53d infantry brigade, said the division improved steadily during the week and rapidly was becoming proficient in the handling of trucks and other military vehicles, which he called one of the greatest problems in modern warfare.

730 GET ENSIGN COMMISSIONS IN NAVY TOMORROW

Seven hundred and thirty students in the navy's midshipmen's school on the downtown campus of Northwestern university will become ensigns at graduation exercises tomorrow at 11 a. m. in Navy Pier auditorium. They will be the third class to complete an intensive course of 13 weeks in practical and scientific naval studies there.

Rear Admiral John Downes, commander of the 9th naval district, and Capt. B. B. Wygant, commanding officer of the school, will preside at the ceremonies after which 578 of the new ensigns will be assigned to duty with the fleet. Each of the 48 states is represented by at least one graduate.

The school was designed to give students the highlights of the scientific and practical course Annapolis midshipmen cover in four years. The Annapolis curriculum, however, includes liberal arts courses that have been deleted from the intensified training here.

Ship with American Cargo of Food Arrives in Spain

CADIZ, Spain, June 10 (AP).—The Spanish steamer Motomar arrived here today from Baltimore on its way to Seville with a cargo of foodstuffs sent to Spain by the American Red Cross. The cargo consisted mainly of 450 tons of evaporated milk, 50 tons of soap, and 1,000,000 quinine tablets to be distributed in southern Spain where typhus is most prevalent.

MARINES FIGHT MANY FIRES AT BIG NEW BASE

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jacksonville, N. C., June 10.—On an 80,000 acre reservation, stretching from beyond the New river 17 miles to the sea, the fourth, newest, and largest of the continental marine bases is beginning to take shape.

Shape is used advisedly. Today construction is centered on the west bank of the river, where 6,000 marines eventually will be housed in a tent camp. This work, begun late in April after congress voted a 15 million dollar over-all appropriation, is expected to be completed by July 15. As soon as the plans are finished work will begin, probably before that date, on the main permanent barracks on the east side of the winding river. These barracks are to hold nearly 12,000 men.

Dust Brings Misery.

The scene is typical of any large construction job, but the choking clay and sand dust of the Carolina coastal plain makes life miserable here, as it does for the 11,000 draftees at nearby Camp Davis, 20 miles south. Wilmington, the nearest city of any size, is 51 miles south of the New river barracks. Jacksonville, a tiny village, has scarcely 1,000 population.

There are on the reservation a detachment of 200 marines, stationed on New river at Paradise Point. Some police the camp and guard it, but the main force has been working as fire fighters during the extremely dry weather. They have had fires almost every day, and the current weather forecast is for continued clear and hot.

"Most of the fires were accidental," said Lieut. R. P. Murphy, office manager at construction headquarters, "but some were set and the people were caught."

"Sabotage?" asked the reporter.

Lieut. Murphy said he didn't know. He admitted that there were some disgruntled persons among the 500 families whose land the government is acquiring, and who are being forced to leave ground which in many cases has been in one family for five or more generations. But he insisted that the great majority were glad to coöperate.

Only about one-third of the land actually has been bought by the government, but the land acquisition is continuing rapidly. What happens to the 500 families, many of whose farms have fertile agricultural lands?

They move to the best they can find. The Farm Security administration, according to Lieut. Murphy, is building 80 houses, each on a 2 acre tract, for some of the forced emigrants.

Problem of Cemeteries.

"And what happens to the cemeteries of these people?" asked the reporter. "There must be several."

"Several?" answered the lieutenant. "There are at least 200. Almost every family has its private one. But if you mention this, please make it plain that we have no jobs for grave-diggers."

ARMY RESERVES FACE EXTENSION OF YEAR'S DUTIES

Indefinite Stay in U. S. Service Expected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Reserve officers who were summoned for a year of active service probably will be retained at their posts indefinitely, it was learned today.

At the time the calls began about a year ago, the army sought to reassure reservists that the term of duty would only be for a year. There were some 120,000 officers subject to call originally. Of this number 20,000 were weeded out by physical examinations.

49,500 Now on Duty.

Of the remaining 100,000 half are on active service with more being called up daily. Records show that there were 49,500 reservists on active duty June 5.

The first indication of plans to hold over the reservists came recently with the issuance of an order that such officers attached to units which might be disbanded would not be released with these units but would have to fill out their year tour of duty.

Another order said that 50 per cent of the reserve officers with field units and 75 per cent of those with special units might be retained at their posts by special request of their commanding officers. Officers expect to hear shortly that this order is to be amended to take in 100 per cent of the reservists without any formal action by their commanding officers.

Guardsmen Also May Stay.

It is expected that National Guardsmen also will be called upon to serve beyond their expected year tour of duty with the regular army. This can be done by order of the President.

Holding of conscripts would be more difficult. Such action would require an act of congress.

Tentative approval was given by the senate today to a bill which would authorize President Roosevelt to defer compulsory military service for men 28 years of age or older. Final action on the measure awaited disposition of amendments to permit the government to take over strike bound armament plants. This would not alter present provisions of the law which require all men from 21 to 36 to be registered and classified.

BREWSTER URGES LINDBERGH BE SENT TO BERLIN

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—Senator Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.] suggested in a radio address tonight that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh be sent to Berlin as military attaché for aviation.

Supporting President Roosevelt's foreign policy but criticizing his handling of the Lindbergh affair, he said no one could be better qualified "to divine whether Germany is really building 400 planes a day as one returning diplomat reports."

Appealing for unity, he said:

"Up in Maine we have been brought up on the sea and when the ship gets out of sight of land we recognize that the captain is the boss. With breakers ahead and a storm raging it is not practicable to hold a town meeting every time we port the helm or reef a sail."

Out of the Past

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Victoria [Vic] Shaw, one of the rivals of the Everleigh sisters for the title of queen of vice in Chicago at the turn of the century, crept out of virtual retirement yesterday to testify at her trial in federal District court on a narcotics charge.

In a hoarse whisper she answered the questions of Miss Mary D. Bailey, assistant United States attorney, and told her story. Yes, for 22 years she had operated a 23 room "resort" for the entertainment of men at 2906 South Prairie avenue. During the time she had learned to take drugs but, she insisted stoutly, she had never sold any. Now, she said, her house is just a rooming house.

Fat, gray haired, 68 years old, with rouged cheeks and penciled brows, she watched the jury of nine women and three men intently as she spoke. Today the jury is expected to decide whether they believe her story is true.

FACULTY SLURS AT ILLINI PEACE STAND CHARGED

Berated by Aid-Allies Chief, Says Student.

Editors of the Daily Illini, student newspaper at the University of Illinois, were the targets of abuse from faculty members because they took an editorial stand against war and refused to print publicity notices from the campus Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, it was charged yesterday.

The charge was made by William H. Blatti, 24 years old, 6928 Cregier avenue, retiring city editor of the Illini. Blatti said the student editors were accused of being pro-Nazi, procommunist, half-baked, and half-witted. He said the abuse came from A. H. Lybyer, professor of history and head of the campus aid-allies committee; R. R. Barlow, acting director of the school of journalism, and Clarence A. Berdahl, professor of political science.

Quiz Demanded by Mothers.

Blatti's charge followed a demand Monday by We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America, Inc., for an investigation of the classroom conduct and teachings of Prof. Lybyer. The demand was addressed to Gov. Green; Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university; members of the university board of trustees, and members of the state legislature. The mothers' group charged that students have been intimidated from voicing anti-war sentiments because of fear of incurring the wrath of teachers. Dr. Lybyer said he had told his classes they were not obliged to agree with him.

Blatti, who recalled that a campus poll last fall showed that 69 per cent of the students were against war, said the editors of the Illini tried to maintain a middle of the road policy in their news columns.

Reporter Barred, Says Student.

"Prof. Lybyer was instrumental in forming the Aid-Allies committee last July," Blatti said. "The town papers were notified of the first meeting, but the Illini was not told of it. After the meeting the committee sent us its version of the meeting, which we refused to print. Our reporter was denied admission to the next meeting and was told the Illini was not fair. Later Prof. Lybyer telephoned and said he did not want the Illini to print an account of the meeting because the paper was pro-Nazi and pro-communist in its editorial policy."

Blatti said that after the Illini had printed an editorial against taking steps into the European war, he attended a class at which Prof. Berdahl presided. He said Berdahl addressed the class for 30 minutes on the theme that Illini editors were "half-witted young journalists attempting to speak with authority on questions about which they knew nothing."

Tells of Letter from Barlow.

Blatti said Barlow wrote a letter to the Illini condemning the paper's editorial policy and its failure to print the committee's publicity releases. He said Barlow referred to the editors as "pro-Nazi, communistic, and half-baked."

Blatti also told of a meeting at which Dr. Lybyer spoke and was told by an unidentified faculty member in the audience that he was going too far.

"The reason you're against war," Blatti said Dr. Lybyer told his heckler, "is that you have a son who might have to go."

"And the reason you're up there," the other retorted, according to Blatti, "is that you have daughters who won't have to go!"

FIND DRAFT TAKES MANY WHO HELP IN BREADWINNING

Hardships Bared in Study of Appeal Records.

Indications that the draft may be working a hardship on young men who contribute part of their civilian earnings to the support of other members of their families were seen yesterday in a survey of typical cases brought before Cook county's eight selective service appeal boards.

Some men upon whom aged mothers and fathers depend for part of their subsistence have been denied deferment, the survey revealed. Other men, whose working wives earn too little to maintain their present homes alone, have been placed in class 1-A [eligible for immediate military service].

Board Opinions at Variance.

Evidence of a wide variance of opinion among the eight appeal boards in their decisions was shown by the survey. For example, one appeal board deferred a draft registrant because he claimed that his wife, who earns $1,350 a year, could not subsist without his help, while another board denied deferment to a draftee who stated that he is the principal contributor to the support of a widowed mother.

The cases upon which the survey was based were selected at random from files in the appeal board offices at 105 West Monroe street by William H. King Jr., administrator of the eight appeal boards. Since the inception of selective service the eight boards have handed down rulings in 1,600 cases. Two hundred others still are pending.

Typical cases in which deferment was denied were:

Mr. A——, 32 years old, who earns $50 a week in sales work. A took his case to an appeal board after he had been placed in class 1-A by his local board. He claimed that he is the principal supporter of his widowed mother, who lives in another state. The mother owns a farm, but the farm did not earn even its taxes last year, according to A. During the last 12 months the mother herself earned a total of $75 and was given $400 by her son.

Father Partly Paralyzed.

Mr. B——, 25, a clerk earning $22 a week. B's father, partly paralyzed, earned $150 in the last 12 months and received an additional $500 from real estate. B's mother earns a few dollars each week by taking in lodgers. There are another brother and two sisters who do not contribute to the support of their parents. B claims that he gives most of his salary each week for their support.

Mr. C——, 27, earning $20 a week in a business of his own. C claims that he contributes his whole salary to help support his mother and minor sister. Another brother, also a draft registrant, contributes a like sum. The mother, who is under a physician's care, earns nothing.

Mr. D——, 25, an accountant earning $1,300 a year. D claims that his wife, who earns $1,000 a year, will not be able to maintain their home without his salary. He estimated that her weekly expenses if she tried to keep their $41 a month apartment would be $26.

Helps with $1,600 a Year.

Mr. E——, 23, a proofreader earning $32 a week. E claims that he has contributed $1,600 in the last 12 months to help support his mother and two minor sisters. His father earns $18 a week, one brother $20 a week, and another brother $21. E's appeal was denied on the ground that the father and two brothers could support the family.

Cases in which the appeal boards granted deferments include the following:

Mr. W——, 31, a hotel employé earning $1,350 a year. His wife, to whom he has been married six years, earns approximately the same amount. W claims that his wife is in ill health and because of this is absent from work several days a month. He also claims that her $1,350 a year is not sufficient to support her. The local board placed him in class 1-A, but the appeal board granted him deferment.

Wife Quits Work; He's Deferred.

Mr. X——, 30, a caterer earning $1,500 a year. X was married in November, 1940. His wife earned $15 a week as a stenographer until she quit her job three months ago, allegedly because of ill health. The local board placed X in class 1-A, contending that his wife is able to support herself, but the appeal board granted him a deferment.

Mr. Y——, 21, an electrical manufacturing company employé earning $19 a week. He claims to provide the principal support of his mother and an adult brother who is handicapped physically and who is completing his college education. His mother has earned $1,000 in the last 12 months as a temporary WPA worker, according to Y. Y asked deferment on the ground that, if he were called into service, his mother would be the sole wage earner and his brother would be unable to finish school. He was granted deferment.

DRAFT BOARDS WARNED 27 YEAR LIMIT ISN'T LAW

Local draft boards in Illinois were warned yesterday not to be influenced in decisions regarding older draftees by the new proposal to defer men over 27 years of age, which now is pending before the senate. The warning was issued by Paul G. Armstrong, state draft director.

In a bulletin to all boards Armstrong said administration of the selective service law is in no way affected by the proposal. He ordered the board not to let news of the effort affect the induction of men between the present age limits of 21 and 35.

Among 346 draftees who reported for induction yesterday at the Chicago induction center was a former circus trapeze artist, now bent on becoming a parachute trooper. He is Otho Pippin, 26, of 1316 West Cullerton street, a volunteer from board 110, who formerly was with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey and other circuses.

CONGRESSIONAL APPROVAL NEAR ON PLANT GRABS

Rush Bill to Make West Coast Seizure Legal.

industries as being contrary to sound public policy.

Assistant Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson appeared before the house military affairs committee in support of a plant seizure bill introduced by Representative Luther Johnson [D., Tex.] as a companion to the Connally measure.

There were intimations in Patterson's testimony and in Connally's remarks to the senate that the administration is doubtful about the authority for Mr. Roosevelt's plant seizure order of yesterday.

"We want specific legislation in case of an argument," Patterson told the house committee.

"This amendment means to make it clear and unequivocal that the President has the authority to do what he did yesterday in California," Connally told the senate.

Right-of-Way Sought.

So great was the administration's anxiety to obtain immediate approval of the legislation that Patterson indicated his willingness to have the administration's revolutionary and dictatorial property seizure bill temporarily sidetracked and toned down drastically by congress.

This dictatorship bill may be rewritten and passed later, administration leaders asserted, but if so it will specify the kinds of property that may be seized. As introduced, it gave the President absolute power to seize property of any kind or character, real or personal, tangible or intangible, for any purpose.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] expressed the belief that the North American Aviation corporation strike was "definitely and specifically inspired by communist influences" and was simply "our fifth column on the march."

"Now communism," he added, "is interested in the nationalization of industry. Communism, I assume, would figure that it had served itself if it forced the nationalization of industry, and what I am asking the senator from Texas is whether this amendment thus might inadvertently become a weapon for them to promote their own objectives."

Thinks Bayonets Effective.

Connally replied that the authority proposed to be vested in the President would be limited to the "period of the emergency." He expressed doubt that the communists would be willing to "have bayonets jabbed in their stomachs" in order to provoke government seizure of the plants.

"If the government steps in and takes charge of the plant, the government will say who shall work there," Connally added. "The government does not have to continue to employ communists, if any are there. The government does not have to continue the employment of radicals, labor disturbers, and troublesome individuals. The government can do a little weeding, a little combing, a little eliminating, and perhaps a little liquidating, if necessary to get rid of the troublesome individuals."

Connally agreed, in response to questions by Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.], that his bill is no cureall. He agreed that government seizure and operation of plants will not force anybody to work who does not want to work.

Work Because Protected.

Taft declared it was the protection offered by the soldiers that induced employés of the North American Aviation plant to return to work and not the seizure of the plant by the government. "If the men do not want to work, they are no more willing to work for the government than for the owner of the plant," he said.

Senator Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.] wanted to insert a provision requiring the President to return requisitioned plants to their owners after the resumption of normal production. Connally had said this would be done, and Maloney insisted that the words be written into law.

Connally finally accepted, and the senate adopted a modified version of the Maloney amendment providing that any plant taken over by the government shall be returned to its owners "whenever the President determines that such plant will be privately operated in a manner consistent with the needs of the national defense."

REBUTTAL WITNESS QUOTES BRIDGES AS ADMITTING HE'S RED

San Francisco, Cal., June 10 [Special].—Harry Bridges, alien CIO director in California, once admitted membership in the communist party and urged Harry Lundeberg, AFL maritime leader, to enroll, Lundeberg testified today in deportation proceedings against the Australian born Bridges.

Lundeberg, who once was Bridges' closest associate in maritime labor leadership, said he refused to heed Bridges' pleas and that after his refusal, five communists threatened "to get me." Sam Darcy, former California communist party leader, was present at the conference, Lundeberg testified, which was some time in 1935.

In Los Angeles tonight it was revealed that Richard T. Frankensteen, national director of the aircraft division of the CIO United Auto Workers had been subpenaed to appear tomorrow as a government witness against Bridges.

NAME RECEIVER FOR ORCHESTRA OF STOKOWSKI

Indianapolis, Ind., June 10 (AP).—The All-American Youth orchestra, on a coast to coast tour under the direction of Leopold Stokowski, went into receivership today.

A receiver was appointed in court here upon the complaint of Horace Kiser of New York. He alleged that Michael Meyerberg, manager of Youth Artists, Inc., owed him $709 in salary and expense money as advance sales manager for the orchestra.

Kiser alleged Meyerberg had hired him at $100 a week, but discharged him still owing him two weeks' salary and $509 in expenses. Meyerberg told him, he said, he had no money to pay him.

CHARGE LEADER OF ALUMINUM CO. STRIKE IS A RED

Alex Balint.
[AP Wirephoto.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Two witnesses before the Dies committee on un-American activities today testified that the man who led the strike at the Cleveland plant of the Aluminum Company of America is a member of the communist party.

The strike of 7,000 at the plant was one of those hampering production of arms in the nation. Its settlement was announced tonight by the National Defense Mediation board. The CIO leader labeled a communist is Alex Balint, Hungarian born director in the Cleveland area of the die casters union which was on strike. He came to this country in 1920. He said his citizenship papers "had been held up."

Last week the committee exposed Elmer Freitag, one of the CIO leaders of the strike against the North American Aviation company, now under army control, as registering as a member of the communist party in the 1938 elections. Freitag has since been suspended by the CIO.

Communist Card Shown.

Andrew Balunek and Mrs. Vera Abergis, the former one of the Aluminum company strikers, and the latter a former president of a CIO union in the WPA, told the Dies committee that Balint had repeatedly boasted of his communistic affiliations. Under the stimulation of a bottle of whisky he displayed his communist party card, to her, Mrs. Abergis testified.

Balint was subpenaed before the committee and appeared with an attorney. He denied he was or ever had been a communist. But he persistently refused to state that he disfavored communists as labor leaders altho the CIO went on record at its last convention as denouncing communists.

Mrs. Abergis said she organized and built up a CIO union in the Cleveland WPA until there were 900 members. Balint was then appointed over her head.

American Flag Removed.

"The first thing Balint did when he moved into the WPA office was to remove an American flag and to replace it with quantities of communist literature," she testified. "He told me he had been a member of the communist party since he was 14 years old. He urged me a number of times to join the party.

"On one occasion he ordered all members of my group to appear at an Earl Browder meeting"

Balunek testified Balint held forth frequently in "communist hall" in the Hungarian district in Cleveland.

Balint and his lawyer, Edward Lamb, counsel for the striking die casters, proved bellicose witnesses. They angered Chairman Joe Starnes, [D., Ala.], with an accusation that a committee investigator had searched all the personal effects of members of the strikers' negotiating committee while they were before the Defense Mediation board.

Starnes said he didn't believe this story but ordered inquiry.

PICK NEW MAYOR AT MINNEAPOLIS; FACED BY STRIKE

Truck Drivers Switch to CIO from AFL.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 10 [Special].—A new period of labor unrest with the likelihood of a general truck drivers' strike in the offing, was predicted here today as Marvin L. Kline, conservative Republican candidate, won the mayoralty election against a labor candidate and the powerful Minneapolis General Drivers' union transferred its allegiance from the American Federation of Labor to the radical Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The election and the swift and unexpected jump from the AFL camp to that of the CIO by the truck drivers are related according to observers here. The union, formerly local No. 544, is radical controler and has for years terrorized and pressured businessmen and city governments in Minneapolis. Kline's election presaged a termination of official favor for the union and its leaders, the brothers Myles and Vincent Dunne.

Investigated by AFL.

The union has for months been under investigation by AFL authorities who seek to stamp out ocmmunist influences. Hearings in Washington, Chicago, and Minneapolis have indicated that the union has been used to further communist party work in the Twin Cities, and Daniel Tobin, the AFL investigator, has been expected daily to take action outlawing the union and removing the Dunne brothers.

Also hanging fire is a threat by the union to cause strikes at 330 business houses in this area, where union members are employed. These houses range from transfer firms to coal, lumber, wholesale grocery, fruit, flour, and other milling concerns. Individually they are not large but collectively they represent a large proportion of the city's total commerce.

Notices that the union is prepared to strike at these business houses already have been filed with State Labor Conciliator Alfred P. Blair. Under Minnesota law there must be a 30 day cooling off period after the strike notices have been accepted by Blair, but the filing of the notices was formally made on May 22. Only 19 have been accepted but the others were rejected merely because of faulty documentation which is being remedied.

Promises to Clear Trouble.

Kline's entire campaign was waged on promises to straighten out Minneapolis' labor troubles. He repeatedly and bitterly attacked the Dunnes in speeches and asserted that the "hands off" attitude taken by city and state authorities in labor disorders in Minneapolis would end with his election.

The final returns from the balloting were not known until today but by last night the Dunne brothers were informed that their labor candidate, T. A. Eide, could not win. Today's final results, which gave Kline 80,359 votes against Eide's 74,497, confirmed the earlier projections.

Last night unexpectedly the Dunnes acted. At a meeting of 4,000 of the General Drivers' union of 6,000 men the Dunnes proposed to sever connections with the AFL and join the CIO. They reported that A. D. Lewis, brother of John L. Lewis, head of the CIO's original executive board and still leader of the United Mine Workers, had urged that the switch be made.

May Be Nation-Wide Switch.

"This proposal is the commencement of a CIO drive to take the entire nation's chauffeurs and drivers' unions into that congress," Vincent Dunne told the assembly.

The vote was thereupon taken by standing ballot, without giving members opportunity to consider the change or to debate the question.

The change in affiliation will terminate the AFL investigation, a court action to oust the Dunnes, and may give them the control of CIO labor unions thruout the state.

JAPS MAY REVIVE TRADE PARLEYS WITH EAST INDIES

TOKIO, June 10 (AP).—Japan may continue the stalemated economic negotiations with the Netherlands East Indies, it was indicated tonight by reliable informants, after a day of conflicting reports. Most high government officials were represented as favorable toward futher parleys while lesser officials were said to hold the view that the discussions should be terminated.

Domei, Japanese official news agency, which earlier in the day declared clamor was growing for immediate withdrawal of the Japanese economic mission at Batavia, changed its tone tonight and joined in suggestions that the negotiations might be renewed.

Koh Ishii, foreign office spokesman, who described last week's Dutch answer to Japanese proposals as "very unsatisfactory," said it was lengthly and involved and that Japan's response likewise probably would go into considerable detail. Japan is seeking more tin, oil, and rubber but the Batavia government has firmly rejected her proposals.

CLERKS FILE SUIT TO OUST 9 UNION HEADS AS CZARS

$910,000 Accounting by Caldwell Asked.

A suit demanding that Max Caldwell and eight associates, who have dominated local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, be ousted by court order and compelled to make an accounting of funds collected in the last few years—an estimated $910,000—was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by a group of rank and file union members. This group has been recognized already by international officers as the proper governing body for the local union.

The court petition described Caldwell as a "hoodlum." It charged that he and his associates had obtained control of the union fraudulently, intimidated both union members and store managements, arbitrarily set dues and initiation fees, and forced persons to buy tickets to dances on the fraudulent claim that the receipts went to a hospital and defense fund.

President Among Defendants.

The co-defendants are Robert Krueger, president of the local; Gerald Fields, vice president; Mike Savachka, secretary-treasurer; Mike Pollack, recording secretary, and Morton Schapps, Milton Marks, Anthony Polito, and Sidney Koonsky, minor officials.

The petitioners said in their brief that the defendants had never been grocery clerks and are "persons of no distinction whatever."

It was also alleged that the defendants had threatened employers with strikes unless the store operators satisfied "various and divers personal desires and financial demands of defendants."

Claim Revolt Is Spreading.

Attorneys Francis Heisler and Stanley F. Evans, who filed the suit, said more than 5,000 union members, a majority of those belonging to the local, had joined in the revolt against the Caldwell management and that they would be represented at a meeting to be held in the Midland hotel tonight.

The revolt started among union members employed in the Hillman stores, but has spread until it takes in employés of other large grocery chains, including the A. & P. and the National Tea company stores, the attorneys said. On Monday the international secretary of the union, J. J. Coulter, ordered the membership to stop paying dues to Caldwell and his cohorts.

PLEDGES OF AID SPUR RELIEFER WORK PROGRAM

Offers of coöperation from all sides yesterday spurred plans of Gov. Green's special relief committee to place the state's 83,633 employable reliefers back at work. Private employment agencies, personnel directors of industrial plants, and local relief bodies pledged their help in the program.

State Treasurer Warren Wright, who heads the committee, said the Chicago experiment to find jobs for reliefers thru employment agencies is a huge success.

COURTNEY WINS DISMISSAL IN DAMAGE SUIT

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney was found not guilty by a directed verdict yesterday in the $15,000 damage suit of Forrest Shaw, 55 years old, 7514 North Hoyne avenue, who accused Courtney and six other defendants of false arrest and assault. Judge John P. McGoorty also dismissed two other defendants, William Lynch, a former assistant state's attorney, and Jerome Crowley, a lawyer, on motion of Shaw's counsel.

Shaw charged that he was arrested and beaten by state's attorney's police May 15, 1937, and was held for six days on a charge of embezzling $31,000 in bonds from Miss Mayme McKinney, now dead. The case was nol prossed after a jury disagreement. Crowley represented Miss McKinney.

Defendants remaining on trial before a jury in the false arrest suit are Policemen Daniel Kenneally, Joseph Sponder, and Stephen Leddy of the state's attorney's police and Eugene O'Connor, a state's attorney's investigator.

COAL TEAMSTERS WIN PAY BOOSTS IN NEW CONTRACT

John Bray, secretary-treasurer of the Coal Drivers' union, local 704, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL], announced yesterday that a new one year wage contract with the Chicago Coal Merchants' association has been signed. The contract provides for wage increases of from 3 to 7 cents an hour for coal truck drivers and helpers.

Bray said the hourly pay of chauffeurs driving four wheel trucks will be increased from 92½ to 97 cents an hour and that of yard helpers from 60 to 67 cents. Hiker wheelers were granted an increase from 48 to 51 cents a ton. All increases will be retroactive to April 1. The contract also provides for overtime pay for work over the regular eight hour day.

BARRETT URGES LAWYERS EXPEL SELFISH LEADERS

Springfield, Ill., June 10 (AP).—Attorney General George F. Barrett today told the 1941 class of new Illinois lawyers to drive from their home communities "leaders who are willing to sell America short for personal gain or personal glory."

These men, he said, "are the Benedict Arnolds of our communities. They are the men who, consciously or unconsciously, use high offices or other positions of community leadership—not to promote Americanism, as these offices should be used, but rather to forward their own selfish interests."

LIBERTIES PERISH AS 2 DOMINIONS RUSH INTO WAR

U. S. Warning Seen in New Zealand, Australia.

The loss of civil liberties, the hamstringing of industries and the growth of burocracies in dictatorships imposed under the excuse of consolidating national war efforts were seen yesterday in an analysis of the governments now functioning in two British dominions, Australia and New Zealand. Many political and economic observers in the United States regard these iron controls as the end product of much of the New Deal legislation and threats against business.

At the start of the war in September, 1939, the Australian and New Zealand press, remembering the dictator tactics employed in the world war, were vehement in opposing a repetition. But the newspapers were unsuccessful and are now under rigid censorship.

Dictatorship Admitted.

Under a national security act urged thru the Australian legislature by Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies shortly after the war began, these dictator provisions were imposed:

1. Government control of any property except land.
2. Action against German aliens or German controled businesses.
3. Rigid regulation of exports.
4. Authorization to enter and search any premises without court warrants.
5. Price fixing.

In August, 1940, Menzies freely admitted that the bill set up a dictatorship over persons, their services and their property. The government may use them as it sees fit.

Labor Objection Overridden.

Joseph Curtin, Australian labor leader, tried to insert in the bill a provision that there should be no curtailment of industrial conditions unless by consultation.

"It would be humbug for a prime minister to say that these standards will never be impaired," Menzies replied. "How do I know what burden the people may be asked to bear in order that they may keep their land free?"

New Zealand, under Labor party government, had been regarded as a Socialist state for several years before the war. When it appeared the conflict was imminent, the late Prime Minister Michael J. Savage had decrees rushed thru to stabilize prices, to maintain censorship, and to control shipping. But, as one observer said, this was "as nothing to what came later."

"I want to make it clear," Savage said, "that even members of parliament are not going to be allowed to attack the government as they see fit."

Wide Powers Created.

He then had parliament give the government:

1. Power to control property, with the added authority to take over any property without compensation.
2. Power to control prices and to standardize and simplify commodities, practices, and processes.
3. Power to create corporate bodies, to set up new courts and prescribe their duties and jurisdictions, and to modify or suspend existing laws.
4. Right to enter private premises without warrants.

Free speech rights in New Zealand have vanished. Any one spreading a subversive report—the government has full discretion to decide what is subversive—is liable to arrest.

State Rules Reserve Bank.

The government has also taken command of the reserve bank. Any person's automobile may be requisitioned by the army, or the army may hire the car and arbitrarily determine the rate of compensation. A writer may not publish a book concerning the war unless the text is first approved by the censor. A person wishing to mail a letter out of the country must write his name and address on the envelope or it will not be sent.

Sidney Holland, leader of the opposition in parliament, recently charged the government had instructed the press not to criticize cabinet ministers or to mention strikes.

Peter Fraser, the prime minister, now has introduced a bill that would place persons, property, and services under even more dictatorial control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 10.—Maj. Harold Yorke Irwine of the Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., was fined about $62 in court today for having attempted to obtain rationed food "other than by means of a ration book."

The prosecution said Irwine wrote to a New York friend: "If you drop a hint among your millionaire friends with strong human sympathies that such articles as ham, bacon, butter, and cheese, when sent in the form of gifts, are allowed in this country, they would be greatly appreciated."

Irwine is said to have explained that the letter, which was intercepted by a censor, was intended as a joke. The magistrate, however, said it was a "serious offense."

PRINCESS JULIANA RECEIVES DEGREE AT HOPE COLLEGE

Holland, Mich., June 10 [Special].—Before a crowd of 5,000 persons, Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Hope college today at its 75th convocation here.

The princess was presented to the audience by Dr. Edgar F. Roming of New York City, past president of the Synod of the Reformed church in America. The citation was presented by Dr. Wynand Wichers, president of Hope college.

The crown princess was accompanied here by her husband, Prince Bernhard. The prince had arrived only yesterday in Canada from England on a flying boat.

In accepting the degree, the princess brought greetings from the "Holland people, to the Holland people in Michigan." It was her first visit to Michigan and the first time any member of the royal family of the Netherlands has been in Michigan.

German Plane Crashes in Ireland; 5 Aboard Die

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 10 (AP).—A German plane crashed in flames today near Churchtown, Carnsore Point, County Wexford, killing all five occupants, it was officially announced. The government also said a British plane made a forced landing near Kilmacthomas, County Waterford, about an hour later. The pilot was interned.

SHIPS ACQUIRED BY U. S., LINE TO QUIT OPERATION

New York, June 10 [Special].—The Southern Pacific company will retire from the shipping business in six weeks when the last of its fleet of 10 cargo ships is turned over to the government for inclusion in a 2 million ton pool President Roosevelt has ordered for the benefit of Great Britain and other nations he desires to aid.

Formerly operated as the Morgan line, one of the oldest in the United States, the vessels have been in service between New York and Baltimore, and Galveston and Houston, Tex. The company also operated a passenger service between New York and New Orleans until last March, when its liner Dixie was sold to the navy department.

Price Agreement Reached.

In announcing acquisition of the vessels in Washington, the maritime commission said proper compensation would be paid to the owners, but would not disclose the total amount paid for the 66,610 tons of shipping.

The commission said the vessels had not been requisitioned, but bought at an agreed price. Had the ships been requisitioned, the owners could have appealed to the courts for redress if not satisfied with the government's price.

Originally the commission sought only five of the ships and planned to obtain 27 others from various other Atlantic and gulf operators. Subsequently the company and the commission reached an agreement on prices to be paid and the company decided to retire from the Atlantic shipping business.

Vessels' Tonnage Listed.

The ships acquired by the government and their tonnages are: El Edmirante, 7,325; El Capitan, 7,325; El Coston, 7,740; El Estero, 5,270; El Isleo, 5,250; El Lango, 5,250; El Mundo, 6,850; El Occidente, 6,850; El Oceano, 7,900, and El Oriente, 6,850.

$100,075,000 Asked for Ships.

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—President Roosevelt asked congress for $100,075,000 today to buy 26 additional auxiliary ships for the navy and to accelerate the output of shipbuilders.

GERMANS BOMB HAIFA, OIL PORT IN THE HOLY LAND

Carry War to Palestine for First Time.

BERLIN, June 10 (AP).—German bombers raided Haifa, the oil pipeline port of Palestine, last night, DNB, official German news agency, said tonight. It said bombs hit a pier as well as one of the great tanks in which oil from the Mosul fields of Iraq is stored.

[A German wireless report heard in New York called this the first German attack against Palestine and the opening of war on the oil supply for Britain's Mediterranean fleet.]

This was the first raid by the German air force against Haifa, but it has been raided before by Italian bombers.

Hint Planes Based at Crete.

"A direct attack on the greatest and most important fuel supply center of the British Mediterranean fleet now has opened," DNB said. "Action of the German luftwaffe [air force] has spread to the British Palestine coast."

Altho DNB did not specify, the raiders undoubtedly took off from air bases on Crete, which is roughly 550 miles from Haifa.

[A dispatch from Haifa said the air attack lasted three hours, but that it resulted in few casualties and slight damage.]

Land on Coast of Lebanon.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 11 [Wednesday.] (AP).—Small British naval parties landed on the Lebanese coast to seize control of bridges and other vital points ahead of the allied troops advancing on the capital of Beirut, it was reported here today.

Some of these units were reported to have grabbed the bridge over the Litani river, 40 miles south of Beirut, when French troops tried to destroy it. They held it and facilitated the crossing of the British and "Free French" land troops.

Farther inland in French mandated Syria other allied columns were reported within sight of Damascus, the Syrian capital. Last reports said they were within 10 miles of the ancient city. "Free French" sources said the troops were expected to enter the city today.

Encounter Opposition.

The allied advance has not been a triumphal march, it was stated, for "some opposition" had been encountered.

[French reports received in Vichy from Syria said that the main British column advancing on Beirut had been held up by stubborn French resistance at the River Litani, north of Tyre. These advices acknowledged that British troops had advanced to within 18 miles of Damascus.]

The RAF announced its planes shot down five "enemy" aircraft while patroling over the British Mediterranean fleet off Syria. Nazi planes attempted to bomb a British motor transport at Sanamein and were driven off.

[London reported that the German controled Jeloey radio station of Norway had broadcast a report Tuesday that Cyprus, British island only 69 miles west of the Syrian coast, had been under a strong axis attack for 48 hours. This account said that axis airmen had bombed Famagusta, base for British warships, and Nicosia, the island capital.]

Raid British Warships.

The only German opposition to the advancing British and "Free French" has been from German planes.

Nazi bombers operating from Aleppo, Syria, attacked British warships operating off the Lebanese coast, the British said.

The British said also that thee German bombers attacking Haifa, Palestine, Monday night were based at Aleppo. The RAF counterattacked the Aleppo airdrome to start fires among grounded craft.

1,000 TOMAHAWK FIGHTER PLANES SENT TO BRITAIN

Buffalo, N. Y., June 10 (AP).—The Curtiss-Wright company announced today it had sent more than 1,000 fast Tomahawk fighters to Britain and demonstrated a faster, spike nosed pursuit plane. Officials of the company said they did not know how many Tomahawks had reached England or the Near East and had not yet received detailed reports of their performance in battle.

The Bell Aircraft corporation, which makes the P-39 Airacobra, said it had sent 11 of these cannon-carrying fighters to England, but that none had yet seen action.

Lyman, Wyo., June 10 (AP). — An army bomber, missing since Sunday, on a flight from Salt Lake City to Chicago, was found today on a Wyoming plain with its six occupants dead.

Ground crews from Fort Douglas, Utah, reached the scene late today. With the army men was Ted Syme, Lyman farmer, who brought back first word of the fate of the flyers. He said:

"They must have been instantly killed. All the bodies were huddled in the front end.

"The ship was broken in two. It seemed as if it hit a slight rise in the prairie while in full flight."

The craft was piloted by Capt. David N. Motherwell, commander of the 16th reconnaissance squadron at Boise, Idaho. Others in the plane were Lieutenants Lyman K. Harvey, copilot; Theodore F. Holsteen and John J. Gallagher, and Staff Sergeants Terence J. McGurgan and Dallas E. Hawley.

GREEKS SAY THEY SENT 15,000 INTO BATTLE OF CRETE

New York, June 10 [Special].—Fifteen thousand members of the Greek armed forces took part in the defense of Crete, according to a cable from the official press bureau of the royal Greek government in exile at Alexandria, Egypt, made public here today by Nicholas G. Lely, Greek consul general.

"Greek forces who took part in the battles of Crete amounted to 15,000 men, of whom 11,000 belonged to the army, 2,800 to the armed police forces, 300 to the military school of Evelpedon, and 800 to the air force academy," the message said.

GERMANS BLAME U. S. FOR BRITISH PUSH INTO SYRIA

Paper Says Washington 'Blessed' Campaign.

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 10. — The rôle the United States is alleged to have taken in events leading to the British invasion or French-mandated Syria was discussed today by the Boersen Zeitung.

Immediately after Vice Premier Jean Darlan and Adolf Hitler conferred and France indicated her decision to coöperate with Germany, said the newspaper, which is close to the foreign office, the United States Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, rolled out the problem of Franco-American relations.

Britain "Encouraged."

Hull's declaration, in view of subsequent events and the invasion of Syria, demonstrate the co-responsibility of the United States in the French misfortune, the newspaper stated. Before the invasion of Syria began, it added, the British action was strongly encouraged and blessed by the Washington government.

America's contention that everything has been done to allow France to maintain possession of her empire is hypocrisy, the Boersen Zeitung charged. Outside of Britain, it said, no other power has so threateningly reached its hands in the direction of French territory and strategical bases in the West Indies, Africa and Asia as the United States.

F. D. R. Leaves "No Doubt."

President Roosevelt, the newspaper declared, has repeatedly spoken of Dakar, in French West Africa, Martinique, in the West Indies, and other French possessions in a manner that left no room for doubt.

The Boersen Zeitung said Hull spoke month after month of alleged danger to the French West Indies representing a threat to the United States even after he had an agreement, "exacted from France with force in her hour of distress," in his pocket.

557 Killed, 123 Injured in 2 Raids on Alexandria

EX-NAVY YEOMAN NAMED A HERO IN SPY PLOT EXPOSE

Los Angeles, June 10 (AP).—Espionage charges against Al D. Blake, credited by the United States attorney's office as a hero in gathering evidence on which two Japanese were arrested in an alleged spy plot, were dismissed today.

United States Attorney William Fleet Palmer said he would ask the federal grand jury tomorrow for indictments charging Itaru Tatibana, 39 years old, lieutenant commander in the Japanese navy, and Toraichi Kono, 56, former major domo in the home of film comedian Charles Chaplin, with espionage.

Blake, 50 year old former yeoman in the United States navy, was declared by federal officials to have made two trips to Hawaii in his rôle of counter-espionage agent to gather evidence against the two Japanese. Tatibana was released on $50,000 bail. Kono was in jail in default of $25,000 bail.

There's rapture in fine music when it comes to you undimmed and undistorted . . . as on a Scott!

There are eighteen to thirty-three tubes in a Scott, for power, for balance, for the glorious range that has made Scott the synonym for perfection in radio.

There is a record player in a Scott which the recording artists themselves say provides a "living performance" . . . remarkably free from muzziness or surface noises.

There are mechanical features in a Scott which keep it years ahead of mass-produced radios, achieved with handcrafting methods that make the Scott different from any other receiver.

There is, as the purpose of all these things, a tonal fidelity that makes the Scott the choice of Toscanini, Barbirolli, Stock, Ormandy, Deems Taylor, Heifetz, Horowitz . . . and a long list of the musical great.

If you enjoy music, in any of its forms, you must hear a Scott. Do so soon, with your own records . . . and learn how it enriches and reveals old familiar passages!

If you have been hoping for a Scott . . .

I sincerely believe that this is an advantageous time to buy a Scott, or any other good radio. Advancing costs may be anticipated. I have protected against them as far as possible by placing orders for materials months ago. How long these will last is something I cannot guess. If you have been hoping for a Scott . . . enjoy it now, as you pay for it on a budget plan.

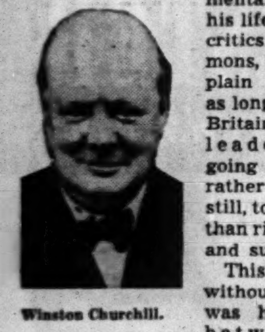
CHURCHILL VOWS ACTION AS LONG AS HE IS LEADER

Declares Six Months Will Tell Britain's Chances.

LONDON, June 10 (AP).—Winston Churchill, fighting the great parliamentary battle of his life before his critics in commons, made it plain today that as long as he was Britain's war leader he was going to strike rather than stand still, to act rather than risk inaction and surrender.



Winston Churchill.

This, he said without apology, was his choice between the "terrible alternatives" offered him on Crete and this would be his choice to the end.

He rejected, with a sharp "no," suggestions for the formation of an imperial war cabinet.

He said flatly that he could not and would not explain every British defeat — because such explanations would help the axis.

Turns on Hore-Belisha.

He turned sharply upon his chief accuser—Leslie Hore-Belisha, a former war secretary.

Churchill retracted his earlier statement that some German parachutists descending on Crete had worn New Zealand battle dress.

"I gave this report to the house, as it reached me from the commander in chief of the middle east, but he now informs me that a mistake arose from the fact that parachute troops after landing at one point drove a number of New Zealanders' walking wounded with them and before them in their attack and therefore the cry arose that they were in New Zealand uniform."

Crete a Costly Battle.

The disaster of Crete, the prime minister said frankly, was "a somber and ferocious battle" which had been costly to Britain—but to Germany, too. For, he said, the Nazis had lost 5,000 troops drowned, 12,000 killed or wounded and 180 fighter planes and bombers and 150 troop transport aircraft against British losses of 15,000 men killed, wounded, or taken prisoner.

He offered hope for success in the greater battles—those of production and those for control of the Atlantic.

British production of guns and heavy tanks, he declared, was 50 per cent higher in the first quarter of 1941 than in the last quarter of 1940 and the great struggle for the Atlantic is being well maintained.

In May alone, he said, 257,000 tons of axis shipping had been sunk, captured or scuttled to avoid capture.

Much Depends on Next Six Months.

Then, so moved that the clarity of language that had made him famous was much impaired, he concluded:

"I give no guarantee, I make no promise or prediction for the future, but if the next six months—during which we must expect ever harder fighting and many disappointments—should find us in no worse position than that in which we stand today and if, after having fought so long alone against Germany and Italy and all the intrigues and treacheries of Vichy, we should still be found in six months time to be the faithful and unbeaten guarding of the Nile valley and of the regions which lie about it —then I say that a famous chapter will have been written in the martial history of Britain and the British commonwealth of nations."

"Should Be Last to Criticize."

Hore-Belisha set off the great debate. He was tartly told by Churchill in response that he should be the last to criticize, having left production and supply in "lamentable" condition when he himself was war secretary. Then came a whole series of searching criticisms of the loss of Crete and of the conduct of the war in general.

Among others joining the attack was Arthur Baxter, a Conservative, who characterized the war cabinet as unwieldy.

Another Conservative, Earl Winterton, in expressing hope that Churchill would meet "the very substantial points" raised, said:

"There has been a tendency to think that because the government has won a debate we have thereby won a battle."

To meet all this Churchill arose with a defense that was in part an attack. He made clear that he had no intention of going into every detail of all that had happened.

". . . I have not heard that Hitler had to attend the reichstag when he sent the Bismarck on her disastrous cruise. . . . I have not heard any statement of Mussolini's for having lost two-thirds of his empire and having left about 200,000 prisoners in our hands.

Not Enough Anti-Aircraft Guns.

Britain, with Crete six months in her possession, did not construct numbers of airfields because the necessary anti-aircraft guns and planes were not to be had.

Everything was being done to build up the largest possible air force in the middle east, Churchill explained, but it was the lack of transportation that was the real "limiting factor."

There was a vast difference, he added, in what happened to Crete and "what might happen here," for Britain at home had great air power and "the scale of effort" for a German invasion would have to be many times greater than in Crete.

CLING TO NAZIS OR DIE, DARLAN WARNS FRANCE

Declares Nation's Goal Is Easy Peace.

VICHY, France, June 10 (AP).—Vice Premier Jean Darlan tonight warned the nation that France must cling to Germany or perish.

Jean Darlan.

By emphatic repetition, he indicated he believed eventual German victory was assured and that France must wholeheartedly play the rôle of loyal collaborator in order to merit a favorable peace settlement and a secure place in a Nazi-dominated new Europe.

The vice premier, in a broadcast to the nation, made no mention of the British invasion of French-mandated Levant states.

Three Big Tasks Listed.

He appealed for unreserved support in his collaboration policy and declared the government had three essential tasks: "To ease the present situation of the French people; to prepare for peace insofar as the vanquished can, and to prepare for France's future in a new Europe."

He gave no indication of a possibility of immediate formal peace with Germany. In fact, he made it clear that the sole purpose of collaboration from the French viewpoint was to make negotiations easier when Berlin decides the time has come to change the armistice into a final peace.

Frequent passages of the speech referred to "preparation for peace" and the creation of a "favorable climate for establishment of an honorable peace."

Better Conditions Sought.

Again and again he stressed that France's aim was to modify the armistice in order to better her present condition, particularly as regards food supplies and liberation of her prisoners in Germany.

"For France not to carry out the armistice loyally and to give the victor reason to denounce it would be equivalent to suicide for herself and her empire," Darlan argued.

CHURCHILL GETS MIXED RECEPTION IN LONDON PRESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 11 [Wednesday].—Prime Minister Churchill's speech in defense of the government received a mixed reception in the London press this morning.

The Daily Mail said "The criticisms were made because of deficiencies revealed in various departments. The debate will not satisfy the country that vigorous action is to be taken to correct the deficiencies."

The Labor organ, the Daily Herald, took Churchill to task for "not understanding the spirit in which parliament called for the debate." It claimed that parliament "in seeking the debate accurately reflected the desire of the public."

ITALY TO OCCUPY ALMOST ALL OF GREECE—IL DUCE

U. S. Is at War with Axis, He Tells Nation.

ROME, June 10 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today told the Italian people that his army will take over almost all of Greece and that the United States is at war with the axis in fact if not legally.

Premier Mussolini.

"By agreement with the German command, almost all of Greece will be occupied by Italian troops," Il Duce announced. "This places a very serious problem before us, especially from the point of view of food, but we shall face it, seeking to alleviate as far as possible miseries inflicted upon the Greek people by their governors subordinated to London, and having in mind that Greece reënters into Italy's vital Mediterranean space."

Calls Roosevelt a Dictator.

In effect, Mussolini defied the United States to declare war formally. He assailed President Roosevelt as an example of "a dictator in the pure classic meaning of the term."

The occasion was observance of the first anniversary of Italy's declaration of war. Mussolini spoke before the chamber of fasces and guilds, the Fascist style development of what once was the lower house of the Italian parliament.

"It should be known that American intervention does not bother us excessively," Il Duce said. "An explicit declaration of war would not modify the actual situation, which is one of de facto war if not de jure.

Sees War's Extension.

"American intervention, even completely employed, would be too late, and if not late would not change the terms of the problem.

"American intervention will not give Britain victory, but will prolong the war. It will not limit the space of the war, but will extend it beyond the oceans.

"It will transform the United States régime into an authoritarian, totalitarian régime compared with which the forerunner European régimes—Fascist and Nazi—will find themselves far surpassed and perfected."

Then Mussolini turned to Mr. Roosevelt personally.

Duce Draws a Comparison.

"When it is desired to recall a dictator in the pure classic meaning of the term, Sulla is cited," Il Duce said. "All right, Sulla appears a modest amateur in comparison with Delano Roosevelt."

[Lucius Cornelius Sulla, a Roman dictator who lived from 138 to 78 B. C., was noted for a policy of "blood and iron" and was referred to by his enemies as "half lion, half fox." He was the first ruler in Roman history to post in the public forum a list of outlaws and public enemies, a famed "proscription" which launched a reign of terror.]

SWORDFISH'S TRADE MARK.

The swordfish carries its identification mark where any one may see it—a long sharp-edged "sword" nearly half as long as the fish itself.

Find Ex-Medical Director of Industrial Board Dead

Dr. Samuel S. Graves, former medical director of the industrial commission of Illinois, was found dead of an overdose of sedatives in his apartment at 4923 North Hermitage avenue yesterday. Police said he wrote a letter to a brother-in-law indicating he planned to commit suicide because of financial worries. Dr. Graves was 65 years old. He was a past president of the Chicago Society of Industrial Medicine and Surgery. His widow is in a Milwaukee sanitarium.

Goes to Aid of Brother; Test Pins Crime on Him

The police criminal detection laboratory was instrumental yesterday in obtaining a confession from a suspect. Clarence Anderson, 35 years old, of 707 West 60th place, was first suspected of writing obscene notes to a 12 year old girl. His brother, Oscar, 39, came in and protested the prisoner's innocence. The police turned to Oscar Anderson, and, by comparison of handwriting and use of the lie detector test, obtained a confession that he was the author of the notes.

FINDS CAIRO GAY CAPITAL AFTER A BRITISH VICTORY

Money Jingles in Pockets of Fighting Men.

BY ROBERT NEVILLE.

[Copyright.]

New York, June 10.—Cairo in wartime is a gay colorful city on the surface. But beneath this exterior strong military undercurrents are prevalent. I gained this impression after a tour of the near east from where I recently returned.

I reached Cairo last Feb. 15. The British had reached Bengazi, Libya, on Feb. 6. The city was in a festive mood. The Libyan campaign "was over" and the nearest enemy was 800 miles away. British troops were on a furlough and money jingled in their pockets. There was much dancing, drinking, and love making.

[Axis forces again are in possession of Libya with the exception of Tobruk, having driven the British out of the Italian North African colony.]

Soldiers Jam Streets.

Here was a paradox. Cairo, the capital of a country not at war, was the headquarters for one of Britain's main zones of occupation.

Soldiers jammed the streets. In the desert they wore somber khaki, but not in the city. Cairo was gaudy with red, white, and green lanyards, the tartans of Scotland, the red insignias of the general staff, the silver capped shoulders of the queen's guards, and the cherry colored trousers of the 11th Hussars.

There were the blues of RAF and the British navy, the tall, black, fuzzy fezes of Palestinians, the oddly shaped turbans of the Pathans, the black beards and perfumed turbans of the Sikhs, and the tarbooshes of Egyptian civilians.

I first saw Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the British commander in the near east, at the Cairo race track. According to gossip, he bet on the horses consistently and lost almost invariably.

Horses Owned by Italians.

There was a small French jockey who saw Italian "fifth columnists" everywhere. He exhibited a racing program and showed me that most of the horses that ran that afternoon were owned by Italians "still at large" in Egypt, and that most of the jockeys were Italians. He was upset over the matter.

An Egyptian political commentator said that he considered the political situation in the near east to be far from favorable to the British. He said that Palestine was a thorn in the side of the Arab world, that Britain had shelved the only potentially democratic force in Egypt—the Wafd party—and that young King Farouk had been rubbed the wrong way by Sir Miles Lampson, the British ambassador.

Col. Gerald Brewer of the United States army air corps, who was in the near east as an observer, told me the British had allowed him to observe practically anything he wanted to.

Believe Blockade Will Tell.

The colonel agreed with military men in the middle east, whether American, British, or French, namely, that they could not see how Germany could be defeated in the field, but that the blockade of Germany would begin to tell in time.

The United States had at least a dozen army and navy observers in the near east when I was in Cairo. I hope Washington will listen to their advice.

One day I went to a tea given by the Egyptian Bedouin chief, Lallum Pasha, an incredibly rich man who dresses in a long cream colored silk robe, over which he wears a dark blue coat. On his left side he carries a dagger of gold.

The occasion for the pasha's tea was the recovery of King Farouk from his recent "indisposition." Gossips said the "indisposition" was a black eye administered by a British officer who had not recognized the man who ran into his car on a road south of Cairo one night. Apologies were tendered, and everybody in the city talked of the affair.

Picks Up Facts in Bars.

In the bars of Cairo details about the war in the near east were picked up. There was no time during my stay in Cairo when I did not have a fairly good idea about what was going on.

I knew when the Suez canal was bombed or mined and could get without much difficulty, details of the damage. I knew what ships were in Alexandria harbor, or in the port of Suez, or what units were fighting on most of the fronts at any one time.

I am certain Adolf Hitler knew at all times how many men and how much equipment the British had in Egypt. What he could not have known was what Wavell planned next. Just to confuse the issue the British deliberately spread false rumors.

Dancers Part

LOYANNE AND RENARD.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 10 [Special].—As the dancing team of Loyanne and Renard they were quite successful but as husband and wife it was another story. That was the statement of Loyanne today in obtaining an uncontested divorce from Renard and ending their marriage which began nine years ago after they had become a dancing team.

Altho they divided their earnings, the wife testified, she used her share to support their twin children, Diana and Donald, now 5, while her husband spent his money for his own amusements. The wife, who sued under her married name of Mrs. Lois Bailey, was awarded custody of the children.

Fire Drives Four Families to Street; Loss Is $3,000

Fire in a three story frame building at 3040 Lincoln avenue, which spread to the two story building at 3042 Lincoln, drove four families to the street last night, and did damage estimated at $3,000 said First Deputy Fire Commissioner Anthony Mullaney.

CLAIM NAZI ARMY WORKS 'SQUEEZE PLAY' ON RUSSIA

Tell of Troop Movements and New Demands.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 10.—Diplomatic circles here believe a large scale German military demonstration designed to compel Russia to accept certain political demands is in progress. Altho it generally is believed the Russians will accede to these demands or to a compromise, observers here see the possibility of a clash.

Informed circles declared today that by Sunday the Germans will have completed their military dispositions from the Black sea to Petsamo, Finland, for an eventual attack against Russia.

If by then Russia does not concede the points demanded, it is believed, a 10 day or two week delay will be granted Moscow, after which the Germans may attack.

New Political Demands Seen.

Exactly why Russo-German negotiations have entered such an acute stage is not known here, but, according to reliable information, Russia, after having accepted some Nazi economic demands, suddenly was faced with such important political claims that it deemed it necessary to refuse them.

Judging by the importance of the German military demonstration, these demands must have been of a very serious nature. Today it was rumored in diplomatic circles that Germany had asked the right of transit [at this point the telephone connection from Stockholm to Berne was interrupted].

More Troops Sent North.

No precise details on the German military preparations could be obtained here. Neutral circles said, however, that substantial reinforcements recently were sent to northern Norway and more than the usual number of German soldiers are arriving in Finland. However, it is believed here that the German pressure will have the desired effect and no conflict will take place.

The Russians are said to be desperately playing for time, to complete their preparations and to see the British air force increase in strength.

It was reliably learned that no demands had been made on Sweden.

FRANCE TO GIVE CHILDREN EXTRA RATION OF BREAD

VICHY, France, June 10.—The effect of food restrictions on the health of children is worrying the government. Babies already are receiving special rations of milk, rice, and similar foods. It now has been decided to grant an extra daily allowance of three and a half ounces of bread to all persons 12 to 21 years old.

An extra ration of a pound of sugar will be distributed before Aug. 1 to each person in a position to preserve fruits.

The government also is considering a census of consumers and revision of food cards to prevent fraud.

BRITISH CAPTURE VAST REGION IN ETHIOPIA AND ROUT 4 DIVISIONS

CAIRO, Egypt, June 10 (AP).—The British command announced today that "as a result of the battle of the lakes and the battle of the River Omo [in southern Ethiopia] a further 45,000 square miles of Italian territory has fallen into our hands . . . at least four Italian divisions have been destroyed or dispersed in these battles."

3,900 Italians Captured.

LONDON, June 10 (AP).—Authoritative British sources today said 3,900 prisoners were taken in the advance of two British columns on an Italian stronghold in the Jimma section of Ethiopia, southwest of Addis Ababa.

Italians Refuse to Give Up.

ROME, June 10 (AP).—The Italian garrison at Debra Tabor, in the Lake Tsana region of Ethiopia, 200 miles north of Addis Ababa, again has rejected British demands for surrender and is holding out against new attacks, the high command said today.

In north Africa, the Italians said, axis warplanes kept the beleaguered British garrison in the Libyan port of Tobruk under heavy attack and pounded the British railhead at Matruh in the Egyptian desert.

CONSIDER BAN ON CIGARET SALES TO LONDON WOMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 10.—A proposal to ban cigaret sales to women was under discussion by tobacco dealers' association in London today.

The ban has been urged on the ground that many idle women go from shop to shop and buy excessive quantities, thus depriving men of cigarets at a time when there is a shortage.

"The reason for the shortage," a retailer said "is the selfishness of the women. Many of them have taken up smoking since the war began."

Some dealers are reported to have restricted sales to a woman to 10 cigarets, whereas a man may buy 20.

French Women Quit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, June 10.—A league of French women who have given up smoking has been formed at Nice. The organizer said tobacco should be reserved for men. Other towns are taking up the movement.

BOMBER MISSING IN HUNT FOR LOST U. S. ARMY PLANE

PANAMA CITY, Panama, June 10 (AP).—A United States army bomber with seven persons aboard has been missing since yesterday afternoon, army officials announced today.

The bomber apparently was lost while searching for another plane, an observation craft with three occupants, which has not been heard from since Sunday evening. Officials said the bomber was lost in the vicinity of the army training base at Rio Hata. The observation plane was on a night flight from France field to Rio Hata.

One report said a white man was seen in the jungles waving to searching planes circling overhead and a ground party has been sent out to investigate.

100 U. S. PURSUIT PLANES ARRIVE TO HELP CHINESE

HONOLULU, Hawaii, June 10 (AP).—King Chau Mui, Chinese consul-general at Honolulu, today said he had received word from Washington, D. C., that 100 American made pursuit planes had arrived in China and were in action against the Japanese.

"Coming on the heels of reports that the Japanese army is near exhaustion," he said, "the 100 planes will be a real blow against the aggressors."

EFFORT TO PUT U. S. ON ERSATZ FOODS ALLEGED Dairymen Cite Cheese Plea and Oleo Order.

Members of two national dairy associations charged yesterday that government officials are trying to get the American people to change their diets to include artificial food substitutes so that larger quantities of highly nutritious dairy foods may be given Great Britain under the lend-lease bill.

They asserted that the appeal of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard for Americans to reduce their consumption of cheese came on the heels of an action by the food and drug administration giving oleomargarine manufacturers the "go ahead" signal to make their product as much like butter as possible and indicated a whole array of "ersatz" foods soon may be forced on consumers.

Here's Wickard's Appeal.

"Many families can substitute other foods for their ordinary cheese purchases and do this without lowering in any way the nutritive value of their diet," Wickard said. "Reducing the consumption of cheese to make more of this food available to the British is a real contribution the average citizen can make."

Officials of the National Dairy union and the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation expressed fear that Wickard's appeal and the action of Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, in approving a standard of identity for oleomargarine may give the butter substitute a chance to make "serious inroads" into domestic markets.

They asserted the department of agriculture had placed a floor under the butter market at exceptionally high levels which would tend to cut down butter consumption and open the way for wider markets for cheap butter substitutes. The officials said the department had asked Wisconsin dairy farmers to divert their milk away from butter plants to the cheese factories and the companies producing dried and evaporated milk, so that more of these products might be produced for Britain.

Heavy Exports Predicted.

Dairymen believe government agencies are encouraging synthesization of oleomargarine to provide a fill-in for large exports of milk products to Great Britain, a dairy union official said. He added:

"Milk trade spokesmen recall that leading nutritionists repeatedly have stressed the importance of strengthening defense at home by greater use of naturally enriched dairy foods. Now they feel that the government is taking dairy foods away from many home consumers and making ready to substitute a Hitler style ersatz diet."

The department recently removed butter from the list of dairy foods made available under the food stamp plan to the underprivileged.

Henry Goldstone.

Henry [Sonny] Goldstone, manager of the Colony club, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge Jay Schiller in the jury court on a plea of guilty of two charges of gambling. The Colony club, night life spot at 744 Rush street, was closed by Mayor Kelly after a police raid March 5. The Club Alabam, a night club at 747 Rush street, was closed at the same time after a police raid.

Four of Goldstone's employés previously were convicted on gambling charges as a result of the raid and fined $200 each. Four employés of the Club Alabam also were convicted as gamblers and fined a total of $900.

The plea of guilty by Goldstone, who has managed many cafés in the city, was made after a conference of his lawyer, Theodore Levin, and Assistant State's Attorneys Wilbert F. Crowley and Ralph O. Clare. In return for the plea of guilty the state waived one charge of operating a gambling game in a tavern and nonsuited another minor charge against Goldstone.

Child, 5, Unclaimed After Riding Here from Tennessee

The Travelers' Aid society yesterday hunted the parents of Lily Beth Blum, 5 years old, colored, who traveled alone by bus from Union City, Tenn., arriving here Sunday night. When no one appeared to claim the child at the 12th street bus depot the bus driver turned her over to Travelers' Aid. Both Lily Beth's name and age were supplied by Lily Beth.

Under Microscope

IT'S 100,000 TO 1 NEW MICROSCOPE GETS ITS GERMS

Electron Device 'Blows 'Em Up' That Much.

More than 100 Chicago scientists and physicians peered yesterday into a new supermicroscope, operating without light waves and based on radio television principles, that is capable—with subsequent photographic enlargements—of making extremely small objects appear 100,000 times their real size.

The device is expected to aid in conquering diseases that have baffled medical science because their deadly germs were too small to be studied microscopically, according to Dr. Vladimir Zworykin, RCA research expert, who explained it to Chicagoans.

Sold to University of Illinois.

This new instrument, the electron microscope was developed by the Radio Corporation of America. It has been sold to the University of Illinois and will be sent to Urbana today. Its cost was said to be about $10,000.

The electron microscope magnifies objects by electronic means 20 to 50 times as much as is possible with the finest optical microscopes in existence. Bacteria or other minute particles are magnified to 25,000 times their actual diameter and the new instrument's power of definition is so sharp that useful magnification may be increased up to 100,000 times the object's actual diameter by photographic enlargement.

Ordinary Limit Is 1,500 Times.

Ordinary optical microscopes cannot magnify an object more than 1,500 times its actual diameter in ordinary light nor more than 2,500 in ultraviolet light.

At 100,000 magnifications, it was stated, a particle of fine face powder resembles a big rock; a human hair would appear as big as a giant redwood tree, and an ordinary baseball could be "blown up" to a diameter of 4½ miles.

32 DIE AS FLOOD AND WIND SWEEP OVER SIX STATES

Kansas City, Mo., June 10 [Special].—Lightning, rain, and wind in the last two days have caused the deaths of 32 persons in six western states. Twelve of the victims were caught in a flash flood in Albany, Tex., this morning and drowned. Half a dozen others are missing.

Ten inches of rain fell at Albany between 1 a. m. and 5 a. m. today. Two dams, back of which the town's water supply was stored, broke and let a 20 foot wall of water down on the town.

The Missouri river was near flood stage here and at Nebraska City. The Kansas river, commonly called the Kaw, was rising rapidly under the load of water from rampaging tributaries.

Six inch rains were general over northeastern Oklahoma. Vinita, near the huge new federal Grand River dam, was surrounded by water. A transcontinental bus with 27 passengers toppled into a flooded ditch near Sapulpa. The passengers escaped uninjured thru an emergency door.

West of Sidney in southwestern Nebraska a new flood threat appeared as high water in Lodgepole creek routed lowland farmers from their homes.

84, Despondent, Shoots Himself in His Home

Considine Masters, 84 years old, was taken to Walther Memorial hospital last night after he shot himself in the breast with a .38 caliber revolver. Fillmore street police said he was despondent over ill health. The shooting occurred in Masters' home at 3326 Warren boulevard.

GRADUATES FIND JOB OPPORTUNITY BEST IN DECADE

War Boom Boosts Demand and Starting Pay.

College graduates have more opportunities for jobs at higher starting salaries than at any time in the last decade, heads of the placement bureaus at the University of Chicago and the Northwestern university agreed yesterday. Because of the vast rearmament program, they said, the biggest demand is for engineering graduates and those with other special scientific training.

Robert C. Woelling, executive secretary of the board of vocational guidance and placement at the University of Chicago, said "practically all" the 228 men graduates on the Midway will step into jobs this month after hanging up their diplomas. He contrasted this outlook for the class of '41 with the experiences of those of 1933 and 1934, when only about 55 per cent of the graduates could find work.

Ninety Per Cent Placed in 1937.

In 1931, as the depression set in, the number receiving jobs upon graduation was between 60 and 70 per cent, and it fell still lower the following year. Nearly 90 per cent were placed in 1937, when business enjoyed a brief upswing, but with the recession later that year many of these were back in a few months looking for new opportunities, he recalled.

The average starting salary offered this year is higher than in past years, Woelling continued. Many members of the class that was graduated yesterday at the University of Chicago were offered $127 a month or better with promises of early raises upon making good. This is approximately 11 per cent higher than the $112 average offered male members of the class of 1940, his records show.

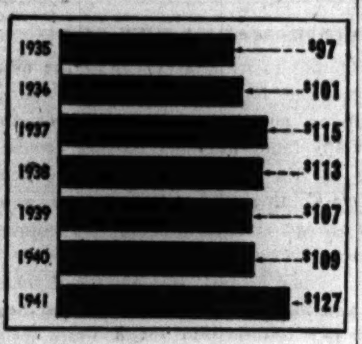
The following list of average monthly starting salaries offered Midway graduates by business firms in the last six years shows the sharp increase resulting from the nation's armament program: 1935, $97; 1936, $101; 1937, $115; 1938, $113; 1939, $107; 1940, $109; 1941, $127.

N. U. Places All Engineers.

"We have placed all our engineers and could have placed more if we had them," said Robert E. Day, director of placement for Northwestern university. "This has been the most active year in a long time. Competition among business representatives for graduates trained in sciences has been tremendous. Uncertainty about their draft status, however, has kept many graduates from signing contracts."

Job Outlook Better

(Story in adjoining column.)



Length of bars designates improvement in starting salaries offered University of Chicago graduates this year over offers made graduates in previous years.

Starting salaries offered graduates in the engineering schools have ranged up to $150 per month, an increase of $10 to $15 over last year's maximum, Day said. Salaries for graduates of nontechnical courses are from $115 to $130, also a substantial increase over the top offers of other recent years.

Women graduates who majored in mathematics or other sciences are also in great demand, as are girls with secretarial training who can fill jobs in the offices of business firms engaged in producing arms materials.

Women's Salaries Not So High.

Miss Doris B. Larsh, women's placement counselor at the University of Chicago, was less optimistic about the opportunities for her sex.

"There are a lot of jobs," she admitted, "but the salaries are not as high as might be expected."

However, she said she believes that lack of business experience will be less of a handicap this year than previously and that women with special training which fits them for business will be able to shop around more leisurely than during the years when there were insufficient jobs to go around. Starting salaries for women range from $80 to $100, she said, compared with $75 to $100 a month last year.

MISSOURI HIGH COURT UPHOLDS PRESS FREEDOM

Absolves Two St. Louis Editors of Contempt.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 10 [Special].—Contempt citations against the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Ralph Coghlan, editor of the editorial page, and Daniel R. Fitzpatrick, cartoonist, were dismissed today by the Missouri Supreme court.

Circuit Judge Thomas J. Rowe had fined the Pulitzer Publishing company, owner of the newspaper, $2,000 and had sentenced Coghlan to jail for 20 days and Fitzpatrick to jail for 10 days because of two editorials and a cartoon criticizing the dismissal of an extortion charge against Edward M. Brady, a former state representative. Coghlan and Fitzpatrick also were fined $200 and $100 respectively.

High Court Emphatic.

"To rule otherwise," said the Supreme court in an opinion written by Justice Charles T. Hays, "would be to narrow the limits of criticism so greatly that the right to criticize would cease to have practical value.

"The ultimate question in these cases is whether or not acts admittedly done constitute a contempt of court summarily punishable. We are dealing with what is called a constructive or indirect contempt.

"Does the publication of an article which refers to a case already closed, but which tends to scandalize and bring into disrepute the judge deciding such case constitute a contempt which the court has power to punish?

Public's Right to Know.

"The great weight of judicial authority now supports the proposition that a publication, however scandalous, concerning a case which has been closed is not punishable as a contempt.

"Under the American governmental system, judges are elected or at least hold their places subject to approval of the people. Therefore, the judge cannot be immune from criticism. The people who must pass upon his continuance in office have a right to be informed of his weakness, venality or efficiency."

The newspaper in both editorials and cartoon called dismissal of the Brady case a burlesque on justice and named Judge Rowe and Frankin Miller, prosecuting attorney in a cast of characters.

The newspaper previously had been prodding Miller on his prosecution record. Miller then asked Judge Rowe to cite the newspaper and its two employés for contempt. Counsel for the newspaper charged at the trial in March, 1940, that Rowe had prejudged the case and an appeal was started at once.

Judge Rowe died three months later while attending the Democratic national convention in Chicago. The Supreme court ruling today absolved him of the prejudging charge.

Does Your Breath Broadcast—
"I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?
Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

People who wear plates or bridges often suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it—"denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—but it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shudder—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing may not prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing that definitely stops "denture breath" is daily use of Polident! This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists and users. Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and food deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢ at any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes —Rinse—and it's ready to use!

MR. ROOSEVELT SEIZES A PLANT.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken possession of an airplane plant in California. He has issued a proclamation based upon another proclamation. Neither of them has any justification in the constitution, the laws, or the governmental practices of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt sent federal troops to seize the private property of the North American Aviation corporation. He had not been asked by the government of California to restore order and obedience to law. He was not repelling invasion. Mr. Roosevelt is the chief executive of a country which, however little he may like it, is still at peace. It is not at war. The powers which, under acts of congress, might be available to the executive office in war or even in the "imminence of war" are not in operation.

Mr. Roosevelt as a usurper of authority and of private property bases himself upon the fiction that he could gain such authority by declaring that he had it. When he topped off his fireworks chat of May 27 with a proclamation of unlimited emergency the lawyers of the country said they didn't know what it was all about. They know now.

Mr. Roosevelt did not lay his national emergency before congress. He talked over the head of congress to delude the people into thinking that he could step outside the limitations of his office and by his own fiat gain the authority to do whatever he pleased. His attorney general, Robert H. Jackson, must follow him up with legal opinions to keep the dictator within the constitutional frame. Mr. Jackson will have a unique reputation in the nation's records.

In the plant seizure episode the attorney general said that persons who follow "the communist party line" had created a situation at the North American Aviation corporation's plant which "more nearly resembles insurrection than a labor strike." He said that Mr. Roosevelt, in taking possession, had used the wide discretion as to method vested in him by the constitution for the purpose of executing the laws.

If Mr. Jackson will examine the record of the sitdown strikes in the Michigan automobile plants in 1937, he will find that his remarks about communist insurrection against government were made then, but not by Mr. Roosevelt, not by any of the New Dealers, and not by government officials charged with the protection of property rights and the peace of the community. Mr. Jackson may or may not be astonished.

The communist activists who are making use of the present opportunity to induce the federal government to seize private property were nourished on the lap of the present administration. Mr. Jackson may try to brush them off. Mr. Roosevelt may proclaim against them. They know where they received their start. John Lewis of the CIO bought an interest in Mr. Roosevelt's second term in the campaign of 1936. In 1937 he collected the dividends on his investment. He permitted the communist leaders to take direction of the Michigan fight because he liked their direct action methods and thought he could keep the upper hand of them when it no longer suited his purpose to control them.

The New Dealers in the second term supported him. Mr. Jackson's predecessor in the department of justice, Mr. Murphy—then governor of Michigan, now associate justice of the Supreme court—prevented the enforcement of the law against the persons who were in lawless occupation of automobile plants. He did so with the encouragement of the department of labor, the postoffice department, and the department of justice.

The men in Michigan and other states who were encouraged in a communist insurrection against private property and against the laws of the land had the support of New Deal federal and state governments. Mr. Roosevelt spoke harshly of the local authorities who would have restored order. The state troops were used to prevent the enforcement of law and to protect the rioters in their possession of the plants.

When the late Dr. Wirt of Gary, Ind., revealed to the country the purposes of the communists in the government itself, he was made the victim of an inquiry intended to smear him and hide the truth. When, nevertheless, the house of representatives created the Dies committee, the White House and all the influence of the New Deal went into action, first, to hamper the investigation and then to stop it. The department of justice refused to give the Dies committee any assistance. When the committee asked for a renewed appropriation Mr. Roosevelt tried to cut off the money. He was one of the many New Dealers who spoke scornfully of the committee's work and disparagingly of the committee chairman.

Mr. Dies was pictured as an irresponsible, gossip peddling incompetent who didn't know what he was about. The evidence which revealed the influence of the communists in government departments and key positions and in the radical labor organizations which had the special benefits of federal laws, was ridiculed or denied. The White House family chummed around with communist youth and Mr. Roosevelt continued his sympathetic relations with Mr. Stalin's government.

The communists, in their turn, have given Mr. Roosevelt the opportunity to seize a plant. Mr. Jackson does not express gratitude, but undertakes to discover something which has been apparent for years. The collectivists in Mr. Roosevelt's circles have been seeking an opportunity to do just what has been done in California. They knew that a war would give them their best chance, but without the communists they might yet be seeking the perfect opportunity.

Communist insurrections in the automobile and steel industry, in the mercantile marine, and in the ports preceded the communist insurrection which Mr. Jackson discovers in the airplane plants. These insurrections were all government protected and fostered. The collectivists in Washington can congratulate themselves that the teamwork is now an unexpected success. The communists now know that they can bring the United States government into any industrial plant having government contracts if they make it impossible for the management to fill the order.

The plight of the property owners is not cleared up by the remark of Mr. Stimson, secretary of war, that the stockholders will discover where they stand in due time.

DEWEY DO-GOODERS.

Mr. Thomas E. Dewey is heading a so-called drive for contributions to be spent by various do-good organizations on recreational facilities at army and navy posts. This movement is supposed to raise the morale of the armed forces.

Mr. Dewey at 39 is pretty young to be running around military camps in civilian dress, but we'll pass that point to raise the more fundamental question whether the program as outlined is well calculated to achieve its stated purpose.

A certain skepticism will be shared by all who remember the feeling against the do-gooders during and after the last war. "Who won the war?" somebody would sing out and the derisive answer always was "The YMCA." "Who helped them?" "The Red Cross." The army of 1917-'18 resented the presence of what was widely regarded as a slacker army of secretaries, etc., not subject to discipline and not obliged to advance into the zone of danger. It is true that many of the men and women engaged in this work were remarkable for their devotion and that many of the men because of age or physical infirmity were not fit for army life, but those circumstances did not alter the general opinion, which was scornful.

More than that, there is really very little evidence to support the opinion that activities such as those contemplated are beneficial to morale. It is doubtful if babying a homesick boy hastens his recovery or makes a better soldier of him. We do know that the British and French organized elaborate entertainments for their soldiers before the descent on Flanders, with results which were hardly gratifying.

It's too bad that the army has located so many of its camps in hot and muddy holes that only the local congressmen can love, but that mistake has been made and cannot be unmade by the YMCA. Even so, morale will be high if the army works out a course of instruction which will interest the men and arouse their enthusiasm. If that is done, as it can be, the morale of the army will be high; if it is not done, all the do-gooders in the world cannot mend matters much.

There is no need to call in young civilians, either male or female, to direct the recreational activities. The army has a lot of officers on its lists who are too old for active service and who must be replaced if the army is to become efficient. Here is a place to use them. The men in the ranks will respect these officers, not look down upon them as slackers, if they are assigned to manage what might be called the extracurricular activities at the camps.

THE APPEAL BY DEMOCRATS.

Edward J. Flynn, Democratic national chairman, laying down the strategy for the congressional elections next year, advised Wisconsin party workers that any Democratic losses in congress or opposition gains will give aid and comfort to the enemy. It opens the way for the thesis that it is unpatriotic not to elect Democratic congressmen to support the President in the emergency he has made.

By the time the campaign opens we may expect to hear that any who do not vote for New Dealers for congress are appeasers, Nazis, or traitors.

Chairman Flynn explained that while he enunciated the idea in Wisconsin, it applied equally to other states. It is the same appeal that was made by Woodrow Wilson in 1918 that cost him control of the congress. The voters indignantly declined to make political partisanship a test of their Americanism.

FROM PILLS TO GLORY.

Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the United States public health service appears to have declared war. He did so at the convention of the American Medical association in Cleveland the other day, when he told the assembled doctors that his war is going to be a long one. A message to the same convention from Maj. Gen. James C. Magee, surgeon general of the army, made it clear that Dr. Parran's long war is going to be bloody as well. Dr. Magee is distressed at the shortage of stainless steel for surgical instruments. That sounds as if he wanted 50 or 60 tons of them.

It is perhaps unnecessary to add that neither of these medical gentlemen is likely to have his bowels torn by shell fragments. The odds can be stated conservatively as one in a million. In Dr. Parran's war both gentlemen will be found, ex officio, in positions of the greatest comfort and safety.

MARK TWAIN AND RUSSIA.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

Our conception of the average Russian is that he is pretty much a Gloomy Gus. We think of him as a dour fellow, given to introspective meditation on the lugubrious things in life. Russian literature generally is not happy writing. An evening with Dostoyevsky, Chekhov, Tolstoy, Gorky, or Savinkov is not recommended to those who want something light for a mental lift.

So, we are much surprised to learn from Albert Parry, writing in "Books Abroad," that Mark Twain is the most widely read of all non-Russian writers in the soviet. More than 1,500,000 copies of the humorist's works were sold in Russia in three years, and both "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" have been made into Russian motion pictures. "The Prince and the Pauper" was translated into a stage play.

After which Russia becomes more an enigma than ever. How a country whose people chuckle over the escapades of Mr. Clemens' juveniles and enjoy the homely humor that pervades his writings, can stomach the saturnine Stalin and his comrades, invites psychological investigation.

We wonder what Mark Twain would have said about his Red admirers had he lived long enough to make their acquaintance.

Somebody ought to make a survey of the new kinds of straw hats for men and issue a catalog raisonné, giving names and places of origin. There are many fancy numbers floating around, woven from all the jungle grasses of the new world and the South seas, bearing exotic names. Note the two-toned articles, probably for fellows who drive two-toned cars. Observe also the loud bands in Hollywood colors. But don't call them "bands" if you want to be sophisticated, for they are "puggrees" [Hindustani for a light scarf worn around the head or the helmet]. . . . Come September, these grassy chapeaux will provide contentment for vast herds of cows.

We have compromised on a hay-colored article called a natural weave Panama, which looks nothing like the old-school Panamas of the planter's or Optimo shape. The puggree will be black, symbolizing conservatism. If it doesn't stand the test of automobile travel, we're going to feed it to a cow in Oklahoma and buy a ranch hand's sombrero.

Sweet Stuff for Tough Guys.

Hitler is said to be fond of cream puffs, and if they are still available in Germany they undoubtedly are now known as Hitler puffs. The sweetest memories of my childhood center on pastries named after famous men. They were:

"Bismarcks," bun-shaped doughnuts with jelly centers.

A Stockbroker Proposes Marriage.

It is reported by usually reliable sources in the vicinity of my chest that I am madly in love with you. In my opinion you should switch out of single blessedness into marriage.

While net earnings for the first half of 1941 should approximate $18.67 after all taxes, but before depreciation, compared to $23.05 for the like period last year, nevertheless it is believed that the substantial savings in advertising costs effected thru the merger suggested above would result in a net income for the full year materially better than that of 1940.

Without trying to influence you unduly, I hope that you will give this idea some consideration. Will you marry me?

(The above statements are obtained from sources which I believe to be reliable, but are not to be considered representations by me.)

We used to smile at all the strident pleas
That urged the purchase of a robe or tie
To mark his day; irked that poor gifts like these Should be supposed somehow to signify
Our high regard for one whose guiding hand
Had safely brought us thru the clinging years.
These days, we seem to better understand
The meaning of such trifling souvenirs,
And envy those who form the shopping throngs.
Now there is nothing more that we can bring Except a rose, from soil that still belongs
To him who tended it another spring.

EPILEPSY—AN AGE OLD MALADY.

Epilepsy has been recognized since ancient times. Its record is interwoven with the folk tales of many nations. The abruptness and violence of the convulsions labeled many a victim as "possessed of a demon." Occasionally these unfortunates were regarded as standing between heaven and man, and their revelations were accepted as divine commands. Notables afflicted include Julius Caesar, Mohammed, and Lord Byron.

The solution of the problem, with our present knowledge of sedatives and the nature of the explosion, lies in finding a physician who will study the individual case, and work out a favorable plan of management. A recent report from a midwestern clinic lists more than 100 patients who have not had a single seizure for a year; many, for more than three years. The series includes those from all walks of life—lawyers, school teachers, bank clerks, stenographers, etc.

There are two types of the malady. One [petit mal] is characterized by a momentary loss of consciousness which passes quickly. The other may be more severe, with the period of coma continuing for several minutes—followed by a convulsion. As a rule, the disease will develop before the age of 25. There is an old saying that in any fit that appears for the first time in one over 30 years of age, we should suspect some brain disturbance rather than true epilepsy. We know, however, that marked hardening of the arteries may bring on symptoms which simulate this ailment.

In the mild form, the patient does not fall and the entire episode may continue for but a few seconds. A few days ago I observed one of these sufferers in an elevator. We were talking and I was looking directly at him when suddenly he stared at me with unseeing eyes, his face grew pale, and he swallowed a few times. He didn't hear a word during the interval. It was over by the time the car had dropped six or eight floors.

In the more serious variety, the first symptom is collapse altho many will realize that something is wrong and will seek a chair or couch. Some will explain that they have a peculiar feeling in the stomach that seems to rise to the head until vision becomes cloudy; others that they see bright lights or an onrushing object with which they collide. Ringing in the ears is not uncommon, and a peculiar cry may usher in the incident.

Because the senses are clouded for the moment, the patient falls and, not infrequently, injures himself. Then comes the fit, with the body rigid. This state is succeeded by muscular jerking in which the head, neck, and extremities are involved. Frothy saliva may issue from the lips. Later, exhaustion demands deep sleep, lasting occasionally for several hours. On waking, headache may be complained of.

The first objective is to make the ailing one safe and comfortable. No attempt should be made to control the movements other than to prevent accidents. Overcoats, pillows, rugs, etc., may be placed beneath the head or portion of the body in contact with the floor. As soon as the attack is over, the patient should be put to bed and allowed to sleep as long as he will. In a public place, he should be screened and given as much privacy as possible.

We cannot cut short a paroxysm no matter what is done. It may be helpful, however, to insert a bit of padding between the jaws so that the tongue, lips, and cheeks will not be harmed. While we cannot speak of cure in positive terms, nevertheless, there are scores of remedies and procedures which may be of value. Many can be used so successfully that a useful existence can be carried on.

Obviously, persons who are liable to these visitations should not be placed in positions where constant alertness is essential. Certainly no one with even the light form should be permitted to drive an automobile. But some occupation is essential. The victim will be immeasurably better when placed at a suitable job.

SAFE PREGNANCY?

K. L. writes: Is it safe for a woman with pernicious anemia to become pregnant? Would the child inherit the disease?

REPLY.

It all depends upon the state of the blood. If too few red cells are present, both mother and babe will suffer. Pregnancy is not advised unless the circulation can be brought approximately to normal. In such circumstances, there is probably no danger of transmitting the tendency.

THRUSH.

D. D. writes: What causes thrush in babies? What are the symptoms?

REPLY.

The organism may be spread by infected nipples or soiled fingers used to clean the mouth. Signs of irritation include small, flat lesions, some of which may be raised, resembling blisters. If the malady is severe, the inner surface of the lips and cheeks, and the edges of the tongue may be involved. The little patient may refuse to eat, and exhibit restlessness, fever, and a fetid breath.

MAY ASTHMATICS SWIM?

J. A. writes: Is it safe for a person with asthma to swim?

REPLY.

It all depends upon the character of the irritant. One who is sensitive to cold, and who becomes asthmatic in consequence, should not indulge. Some victims of this disorder, however, can participate in water sports with impunity.

LASH GROWTH.

T. M. writes: Would clipping the tips of the lashes stimulate their growth?

REPLY.

Altho this is a popular belief, it is contrary to fact. The hair on your head, as well as that on your eyelids, will respond to tiptop health.

HOLLYWOOD "ALL OUT" FOR WAR.

La Grange, Ill., June 9.—Dear movie fans and patriots: Recently there was promoted in Chicago a patriotic rally to promote collectivism, American style. Judy Garland in a black lace demi-tasse, Norma Shearer in an immaculate hair-do, Linda Darnell and others gave their all in speechmaking and song for American participation in the war. Sex on toast! Seductiveness à la mode! If Hollywood can't swing this war we might as well give up. What more do you want, boys? Cleopatra in sissy-britches, Lady Hamilton in a bathing suit?

We think Hollywood can give this war a good deal of the roaring, thumping, dramatic éclat that it needs, with Eric von Stroheim as commander in chief, Wallace Beery as propaganda chief, etc. And if you boys are not willing to lay down your lives and cheerfully join the universal slaughter, you're just lacking in red blooded Americanism, that's all, or maybe you haven't seen enough movies. Yours for more celluloid propaganda! If Malibu beach isn't worth dying for, you fourth generation traitors ought to go back to the country you came from. That is, if you know where it is.

MILDRED BALDWIN.

GOLF BALL PERIL.

Chicago, June 6.—Our organization has checked up on the danger at the 8th hole at Sheridan center golf course at Lincoln park, as reported by Thomas Kay in your column.

We find the facts to be as he stated, and we will attempt to have the park board correct the situation as we are vitally interested here.

The wonderfully fine athletic and educational facilities of the park are all important to us who live and work in this area. In fact, these are the things—park, beach, etc.—that make our district such a splendid one. I have, however, one fault to find with Mr. Kay's letter. If he can stand on the 8th tee and "hook" a ball to Lake Shore drive I will gladly present him with the finest suit he has ever owned. [Unless he happens to be left handed.]

MATH. TELFSER SR.,
President Sheridan Center Business Men's Association.

HOW ABOUT SCHOOL BANDS?

Chicago, June 6.—In regard to Chicago's Grant park summer concerts, why not give Chicago's own high school orchestras and bands a chance for service and benefit?

There are a number of such organizations available and willing.

RALPH C. GOLDING.

OIL GOING TO JAPAN.

Lansing, Mich., June 4.—I thank God for a paper, namely THE TRIBUNE, which dares to print the truth rather than this treacherous propaganda which is making the rounds.

Of special interest in today's TRIBUNE is the information that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has negotiated an agreement with Japan whereby that nation will be assured of continued oil supplies. This is justified by the company spokesman on the ground that this source is not a major source of supply and that our government still maintains normal relations with Nippon.

This evidence proves conclusively that this war is a "phony." Japan is an aggressor nation; we know it, the British know it, and so does the remainder of the world. Why this ridiculous state of affairs? We have been informed that some gasless Sundays may be in store for us and Britain needs this oil badly, or does she?

Japan will use this oil to lubricate her war machine. The rape of China continues, aided and abetted by these governments which have declared their purpose was to save the world for democracy.

WESLEY T. YARD.

A WORD FOR THE STREET CAR.

Chicago, June 9.—There has been nestling in the minds of some socially ambitious Chicagoans the idea that street car riding is for the lowest of creatures. If one must use a transporting vehicle it must be the elevated or the bus. And superior to all is one's own car.

The truth is that only on the street car does one meet the people of this town. What is the lonely solitude of a car compared to the rich opportunity for the study of human nature and appearance the street car affords? The street car has every kind of human beings available. The very prettiest girls travel in street cars and countless mothers with their babies are there, too.

CARL PETERSON.

WASH THE STREET SIGNS!

Chicago, June 6.—Please have Mayor Kelly "Keep Chicago Ahead" by having the street signs cleaned. He can start out with the one at 63d street and Michigan avenue, which cannot be read. The WPA can do something worth while by using a little water and elbow grease as a real service instead of counting how many cars pass the street intersections each hour.

H. G. BOYLE.

AN INFORMATION SEEKER.

Chicago, June 9.—Will you please settle a dispute as to which country declared war upon the other country, also which country threw the first bombs and which city was first hit?

In the world war which country declared war upon the other country?

H. K.

VOICE FROM THE SEWERS THERE?

Chicago, June 6.—With Kelly and Willkie speaking from the same platform, the only thing for the common herd to do is to keep their fingers crossed.

WILLIAM WALTER SCOTT.

NEED FOR AN AMBULANCE.

Chicago, June 9.—What value life in Chicago? Just recently I saw a woman in the agony of a severe head hemorrhage, and a man groaning and lapsing into unconsciousness. They were lying side by side, praying for immediate medical attention which seemed never to come. It was a disastrous wreck that prostrated them on a dirty Chicago pavement at Canal and Harrison streets. The police came and put them there on the sidewalk. It was an emergency case, but the police were only of the squad type and their duty was limited. They bothered the injured—or the dying, for all one can know—for names and addresses, and then put in a call for a paddy wagon. It was 27 minutes before it came and took her away. There was no room for the man. He had to wait his turn and was unconscious when the wagon came back and took him to the hospital.

Have we no ambulance system here in Chicago? Have we no regard for the injured who lie sprawled and helpless on the street?

SOL CORRADO.

ON MRS. FITZSIMONS' LETTER.

Evanston, Ill., June 5.—The contribution in this morning's paper from Ellen F. FitzSimons, Newport, R. I., is a masterpiece of sound analysis of events leading up to our present situation in world affairs. It deserves a page reproduction and wide distribution, as was given Anita McCormick Blaine's arguments for the opposite viewpoint.

A. R. C.

Chicago, June 5.—The comment of Ellen F. FitzSimons of Newport, R. I., in the Voice of the People, headed "It Is Not Our War," was a repetition of Lindbergh lingo that told most of its message in its caption. When she says, "Up to the present Germany has not made one hostile gesture toward the U. S.," she proves her fund of information needs repletion, or else she is blind to the startling fact that Hitler's plotters, by the thousands, have been busy here since he started his world blasting blitz, if not before.

J. C. McN.

A PEOPLE BEWITCHED.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 7.—"Well I'll be gol-swickered," said Uncle Sam, when he read what Ickes wants to do.

Heatless and gasless Sundays! When will it be meatless, wheatless? Anyhow it will be "greetless" because no one will visit. By then the radio, perhaps papers and telephones, will be taken over and the poor bewitched people won't even know what is going on. Won't know if there is a war on or off. Won't know when and if their boys are killed. And all this to free the people of Europe!

WOULD SAVE AUDITORIUM.

Chicago, June 6.—We must all get busy right away to save our beautiful old Auditorium building. Please tell me what I can do to help, and I know that hundreds of other people feel as I do about it. We are all looking to you to start the ball rolling to retain in our midst this lovely old building.

MONEY OWED.

Chicago, June 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man doing business under his own name, not incorporated, for many years finds himself short of money with which to carry on the business and has several creditors whom he owes for goods purchased.

1. If a creditor sues and gets judgment, will he have preference over other creditors?
2. Can the person holding judgment have the business closed if the judgment is not paid?
3. In any case can a creditor close or take charge of a business without getting judgment?
4. After a creditor makes application for suit what is the shortest time it can be brought to trial?
5. How far back must owner account for money received for goods sold?
6. Can the creditors having judgments legally attach or tie up the homestead which has always been in wife's name? The same with the auto which is in wife's name?

R. L.

1. If execution is issued the creditor would have a judgment lien which would take precedence over later liens on real estate.
2. Yes, by subjecting the property to an execution sale.
3. No.
4. We would say about five minutes. This would be the time on a judgment note. The time on other obligations would vary according to facts.
5. Depends on the facts. In general, it is up to the creditors to find assets rather than being up to the debtor to explain what he has done with his money.
6. In general, the wife's assets are not subject to the husband's debts. If by saying that the property is in the wife's name, you do not mean that it is fully here, then the creditors might reach the husband's interest.

ASSESSOR OFFERS TAX CUT PLAN TO SAVE AUDITORIUM

Proposes a 'Fair' Value for Assessment.

Assessor J. S. Clark.

County Assessor John S. Clark yesterday proposed a plan to save Chicago's historic Auditorium from threatened demolition by reducing the tax assessment to the "fair cash value" of the property. Owners of the 52 year old building announced two weeks ago that its doors would close for the last time on June 30, chiefly because of inability to meet past due tax bills, which with penalties exceed 1 million dollars.

In a letter to attorneys for the property, Clark said the assessment can and should be reduced to a point where back taxes can be cleaned up and current tax bills met from operating income. Such a reduction could be made retroactive for past years.

Calls Reduction Justified.

Clark asserted the tax reduction is justified because the Auditorium has a lack of commercial utility.

Assessments on several other civic or quasi-public buildings, including the Stadium, Orchestra hall, and the Civic Opera building, have been reduced in recent years because of lack of utility resulting from their civic nature.

"The law requires that the assessment be based on the fair cash value of a property," Clark said. "In less than 5 per cent of the business properties we assess our regular rules do not result in a fair assessment. These rules place the value of buildings at reproduction cost, less depreciation allowances, and fix land values in accordance with sale prices of land in the neighborhood.

Annual Tax Is $70,000.

"The full assessed value against the Auditorium property amounts to 2 million dollars, resulting in an annual tax of more than $70,000. However, the income from the property after paying bare operating expenses is only about $35,000."

Clark said that on the basis of income and probable market value, the Auditorium should be assessed at a full value of approximately $600,000. This would result in a tax of $20,000 a year.

William F. Krahl, president of the Greater Central District association and leader of a group seeking to rescue the Auditorium, praised Clark's plan and said he hoped the program could be worked out.

G. O. P. WORKERS' GROUP TO SEEK 'FAIR' TREATMENT

A new organization known as Republicans, Inc., formed recently by 36 Republican precinct captains, began a series of meetings last night in headquarters at 111 West Jackson boulevard. Ted Youngquist, president, said that all the 5,000 Republican precinct captains in Chicago had been invited to membership.

"We want to insist on fair treatment and protect ourselves," he said, "in the general Republican organizations. We are opposed to proposed laws to put all county offices under civil service."

People believe the advertising in the newspaper in which they believe the news. Chicago retailers build their sales plans around the Tribune because readers know that the Tribune prints the facts.

Readers know that the Tribune does not print fake news reports. They know that the Tribune does not lend its news columns to propaganda aimed to cause them to act against their best interests.

They know that when news is hard to get, the Tribune gets it. That when it is expensive, the Tribune spares no expense. That when other newspapers do not report a significant happening, the Tribune does.

There is no mystery about the ownership of the Tribune. An American newspaper, it keeps American interests to the fore. A midwest product, it reflects midwest opinion. It is not under obligation to any party, group or clique. It is financially and politically free to print the news.

The steadfast policy of the Tribune to print the facts, completely and without compromise, continuously attracts new readers and increases sales opportunities for advertisers.

To the confidence imparted to the advertising which it carries the Tribune adds the power of over 1,000,000 net paid daily circulation and over 1,200,000 on Sunday—127% more daily circulation and 36% more Sunday circulation than sold by other Chicago newspapers.

ONE-WAY STREET BENEFITS SHOWN BY YALE SURVEY

Efficiency and Safety Are Increased.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 10.—Benefits of one way traffic control in Chicago and other cities are described in a thesis written for the Yale university bureau for street traffic research. A copy was received here today by Harry H. Harrison, traffic engineer of the Illinois highway department, who is coöperating with Chicago engineers in studies to relieve the congestion and accidents on the city's west side. The author of the thesis is Fenton G. Jordan Jr., a fellow at the Yale bureau.

The Chicago statistics cited in the paper are based upon the one way operation of Washington and Warren boulevards between Garfield and Union parks. A proposal to aid west side motor transportation would continue this one way system east to Michigan avenue and west to the city limits. A second proposal would combine Jackson boulevard and Monroe streets into a one way system between Grant park and the city limits.

Accident Risk Lowered.

The thesis reported that the risk of an accident in driving on the Warren-Washington hookup is only a third as great as in driving in Jackson boulevard's two way traffic between Ashland and Homan avenues. The risk in two way Washington boulevard between Pulaski road and Central avenue was reported as twice as great as the risk on the one way boulevards.

From before and after experiences in other cities, Jordan concluded that the one-way traffic control not only reduces accidents but also eliminates delays and increases the capacity of the pavements.

He based his conclusions upon surveys and studies in New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del., Boston, Washington, D. C., Detroit, and New Orleans as well as upon Chicago's limited experience.

Traffic Volume Increased.

In eight cases reported from four cities, there were increases of from 35 to 200 per cent in the volume of traffic with the conversion from two-way to one-way operation.

Seven cities reported accident reductions ranging from 29 to 91 per cent attributable to one-way control, with an average reduction of 54 per cent. One survey showed one accident for every 232,452 miles of travel on a one-way system as compared with one accident for every 119,471 miles of travel under two-way operation.

In all instances covered by the thesis, one-way control stepped up speeds, from three to eight miles an hour. In the Philadelphia study, the increase was from 17.6 and 17.9 miles an hour to 21.1 miles an hour; and in Detroit, from 14 to 22 miles an hour.

Increases Traffic Efficiency.

"It has been shown," reads Jordan's summary, "that one-way streets can do much to increase the efficiency of the present street system and eliminate this stagnation of traffic.

"Because people have been driving on two-way streets for hundreds of years and have developed habits which are hard to change but are causing untold congestion, is no reason that this must continue.

"The present conditions can no longer be tolerated. It is believed that one-way streets can contribute a great deal to this vital need and should be given a chance to prove their merits in a greater number of instances."

About 800 persons attended the ceremonies at which Msgr. Victor B. Primeaux presented diplomas. The Rev. James W. Keating is in charge of the school. The graduates put on a play, "Cinderella."

FREE CHICAGOAN SOUGHT IN AUTO DEATH IN FLORIDA

Michael S. Roth, 46 years old, president of the Advance Storage and Van company, 5210 South Wabash avenue, whose return to Lake Butler, Fla., was sought on an extradition warrant charging manslaughter, was released yesterday by Chief Justice James F. Fardy of the Criminal court on a habeas corpus writ. The charge resulted from the death of a girl in an automobile accident involving Roth's car in Florida last January. Assistant State's Attorney James V. Cunningham said inquiry showed Roth was held three days in Florida after the accident, then freed because there were no grounds for criminal action. Cunningham added that it appeared Roth's return was sought so he could be sued in a civil case for damages.

252 Autoists Get Tickets for Needless Horn Tooting

Commissioner James P. Allman announced yesterday that 252 summonses had been issued since last Friday to motorists for violating the ordinance against blowing their horns while their cars were not in motion. Those given summonses must pay fines of $2 in cafeteria court. The traffic police are now taking license numbers of violators, and other policemen are serving the summonses.

HUNT HONOR FARM FUGITIVE.

PROBE OF FOOD PRICES TAKES A BAFFLING TURN

U. S. Jury Submits List of Questions to Court.

The federal grand jury's investigation of alleged monopoly and price fixing in the food industry in the Chicago area took an unusual turn yesterday when the jury foreman appeared before United States District Judge Charles E. Woodward with a list of questions.

The nature of the questions was not disclosed, but Judge Woodward told the foreman, James G. Badger, 801 Forest avenue, Wilmette, he would read them and answer them in open court this morning.

Court attachés said this action of a jury foreman was unique in the history of federal courts in Chicago, and there was speculation as to whether the jurors had decided there was insufficient evidence to return indictments. Earlier there had been rumors that indictments might be expected within a few hours.

The Chicago inquiry is part of a nation-wide investigation being conducted by Thurman Arnold, special assistant United States attorney general, in charge of the anti-trust division of the department of justice.

The Chicago inquiry was announced last August, but it was not until May 5 that the government began presenting evidence before the grand jury. The government's case was in charge of Daniel B. Britt, special assistant attorney general.

The jury's term expired early this month, but it was renewed for another month. More than a hundred witnesses have been heard. It was reported that the first phase of the inquiry centered in the meat packing industry.

The investigators, in preparing their case, spent several weeks in Chicago's food markets. On May 6 Holmes Baldridge, another special assistant attorney general, said the department of justice was interested in increasing prices paid to farmers and reducing prices paid by consumers.

Similar investigations have resulted in indictments recently in Denver, Col.; Kansas City, Mo., and San Francisco, Cal.

CROSSING GATES PROMISED AFTER FATAL CAR CRASH

Automatic gates will be installed this summer at the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee railroad crossing at County Line road west of Glencoe where two persons have been killed in automobile-train crashes in the last six months, the county highway division told the Chicago Motor club yesterday.

The latest victim at the crossing was Jasper Houlberg, 49 years old, 3124 Nottingham avenue, who was killed Monday when he drove his automobile into the side of a streamlined train. The motor club said it had protested the lack of automatic warning signs at the crossing since Mrs. Birdie Rothschild was killed last Nov. 7.

Nicholas Tosselli, 52, of 1018 South Hermitage avenue, a bricklayer, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Monday when he was struck by an automobile at Wood street and Roosevelt road.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 401 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 295 were killed in Chicago, where 10,362 were injured in traffic in the same period.

FRENCH COLONY IN ANTIPODES WEIGHS ITS FATE

New Caledonia Is Focal Point in Air War.

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand [By Mail].—When France reeled before Hitler's armored divisions last June Antipodeans had two headaches. One was what was going to happen on the battlefield in northern France. The other was what was going to be the fate of the French colony of New Caledonia and especially of Noumea.

New Caledonia occupies a strategic position close to both Australia and New Zealand. Pan American's regular air service from Auckland to San Francisco links the New Zealand terminal with Noumea in a single hop of 1,100 miles. From the island to Brisbane, Australia, a modern transport plane could fly in five hours.

In the hands of an enemy power this isolated land could be a double threat to the British dominions, for what a transport plane could do a bomber could duplicate, and the industrial region of northern New South Wales is within reach of any warplane which could make the ocean hop to Brisbane.

Approves De Gaulle's Plan.

So Antipodeans became interested in the future of the French island colony, and news of the revolt against the Vichy régime and switch of allegiance to Gen. de Gaulle's Free France movement was greeted here with satisfaction.

Noumea is not only a strategic point of importance; it is a producer of nickel. Except for Canada it turns out more nickel than any other country in the world. The nickel works dominate the city, waving huge plumes of smoke in the day and splashing it with reds and yellows of furnace glare and factory lighting at night. Guests at the Hotel du Pacifique, near the plant, hear the clatter and hum of modern machinery.

About Noumea there is the air of a town of southern France. The streets are avenues of tree lined quietude, the buildings are old, the park expansive, the cooking good. And the red wine of France, champagne, and cognac are still to be had there at what seem extraordinarily low prices, tho the air travelers of the Clipper ships are beginning to give the bartenders ideas about high rates.

Base Is Old Prison.

The Pan American base is on the site of the old penal settlement by which New Caledonia is mostly remembered in the neighboring lands. Down the gangplank the air traveler walks into a green garden square, studded with old trees bearing the deeply cut initials of men banished from France. Prison buildings, barracks, and ammunition stores have been converted for use by the air line.

Walls about the green square are loopholed, and fuel is stored in a solid stone building, once the magazine of the garrison. In a building near by is an old guillotine. Twenty minutes takes the traveler from the base to the town. The journey is made by motor boat and takes one past brown hills on which goats are browsing.

In the streets of Noumea are to be seen hibiscus, crotons, poincianas, lantanas, and guava bushes. And behind the town, inclosing it, making trouble for the airmen, and seemingly touching the sky are the mountain ranges which form the spine of the island.

A Sound of Soft Voices.

There you hear soft voices recognizable as belonging to Tonkinese, Melanesians, and colonial Frenchmen, with occasional British or Australians. There is a long procession of noisy automobiles [the New Caledonian loves to sound a horn] and bicycles.

There also you see what air travel is doing to the world. For in New Caledonia today is Dr. L. Williams, from the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' association, who has gone there to study insects which might find their way to Hawaii in the Clippers and prove a menace to the plantations of the territory. This even tho spraying designed to kill pests is carried out at each place of call.

New Caledonia is seeking an air link with Australia which would dovetail with the Auckland-San Francisco service. As this would also mean Australians would receive their mail two days earlier than they do today, when American letters must go via New Zealand, there seems quite a chance of the new service being established.

Even the Elk Admire the View

This photo of a bull elk gazing upon the Pacific ocean was taken in Ecola State park, on the northern Oregon coast. Below the animal is Cannon beach.

S. S. GRAND RAPIDS OPENS EXCURSION SEASON JUNE 22

Beginning June 22 the S. S. City of Grand Rapids will make a daily excursion from Chicago to Milwaukee and return.

Capt. Edward E. Taylor, general manager of the Chicago-Milwaukee Steamship Line, said yesterday that the ship would leave at 9:45 a. m. and return at 9:45 p. m. There will be a two hour stopover in Milwaukee. Following the docking in the evening there is to be a "skyline cruise" nightly.

This summer the City of Grand Rapids will be the only one day excursion boat operating out of Chicago. The Theodore Roosevelt, which formerly plied between this city and western Michigan resorts, will not be run this season.

SWEDISH LINER SAILS SATURDAY TO WEST INDIES

The 27,000 ton Kungsholm, only liner flying a foreign flag and still engaged in the cruising service out of New York, will sail Saturday on the first of a series of summer journeys to the West Indies. Thorsten Hanson, Chicago manager of the Swedish American Line, said yesterday that each of the Kungsholm's eight cruises last winter carried a capacity load of passengers.

23 Million Fish Planted in Superior National Park

Duluth, Minn., June 10 [Special].—Nearly 23 million fish have been planted this spring in the lakes and streams of Superior National forest. The plantings consisted of 22 million wall-eyed pike and 900,000 trout.

CHICAGO CRUISE SHIPS WILL SAIL TO ISLE ROYALE

Isle Royale, newest of the national parks, will be the goal of a series of five day cruises out of Chicago this summer.

E. J. Goebel, passenger traffic manager of the Georgian Bay Line, said yesterday that the S. S. North American would start the program with a sailing June 30 and that thereafter the trips would be on the S. S. Alabama. The route will be by way of Mackinac Island and the Soo canal.

Royale, situated in Lake Superior, is the second largest island in the United States. It is almost 44 miles long and has an average width of about 5 miles.

The island is wholly primitive, and the national park service plans to keep it that way. Neither horses nor motor cars will be allowed. No roads are to be built, but the present system of trails will be expanded.

SPEAKERS ARE ON CARPET.

The English house of lords has a red bordered carpet marking the limits where a member may stand when addressing the gathering. It is believed to have been set in the days when men carried swords so that a safe distance would be allowed in case of altercations.

NO GAS SHORTAGE FOR AMERICANS VISITING CANADA

QUEBEC, June 10 [Special].—After investigating rumors that gasoline shortages in this province and thruout Canada were curtailing the visits of American tourists, Quebec officials have announced that there is no lack of motor fuel anywhere in the dominion. On the contrary, they say, the supplies of gasoline and oil are greater than ever before.

George A. McNamee, manager of the Royal Automobile Club of Canada, announced the other day that the United States government is helping this country offset false rumors about tourist conditions this side of the border. A special committee has been named to investigate such reports and try to discover their source.

McNamee recalled that last summer many untrue stories were circulated in the United States in an effort to discourage the dominion's travel business.

All-Expense, Escorted Tours to Mexico Planned

A series of two week and three week escorted, all-expense tours from Chicago to Mexico and return was announced yesterday by the American Express company. Departures will be made each week-end until Dec. 7.

Portland, Ore., Floral Parade to Be Held Friday

Portland, Ore., June 10 [Special].—Hundreds of floats, built of millions of roses and other flowers, will weave thru Portland's downtown streets Friday. The occasion is the annual floral parade, featured event of the rose festival. The festival will begin tomorrow and close Saturday night.

EARLY ANGLERS GET THE FISH IN NORTHERN LAKES

Good Reports Come Back from Fishermen.

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho the weather has caused some Illinois fishermen to complain because of the rainy northeasters that have swept thru the north country in the last two weeks, many of these early anglers have been making some nice catches of wall-eyes, northern pike, and muskies on Wisconsin and Minnesota lakes. Wall-eyed pike and northern pike have been hitting the lures especially well.

B. G. Thompson of 2927 78th court, River Grove, and Ray A. Whidden of 5555 Sheridan road were lucky in their muskie fishing around Winchester, Wis. Thompson landed a 43 inch fish weighing 21 pounds in Rice lake, and Whidden boated a 15 pounder.

Luck in Mercer Country.

A number of Chicagoans also have had plenty of luck in the lakes of the Mercer country. Among those who have tossed lures successfully up there are: John C. Herrick, 5212 South Ashland avenue [11 pound muskie]; Raymond Koehler, 6414 Oliphant avenue, and Ralph K. Gakle, 5244 North Laramie avenue [two limits of wall-eyes that averaged around 3 pounds each], and William Girtio, 3528 South Francisco avenue, who registered one wall-eyed pike that weighed 10 pounds 6 ounces, and that came from the Mercer flowage.

The wall-eyes also have been hitting in the Manitowish waters for Mr. and Mrs. Lee Frank of 5000 Marine drive, Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Frank came home with their limits.

A Practice Catch.

One man on Spider lake had the guides gasping a few days ago. He was standing on a boat deck and practicing his casting. Before he got thru his exercises he landed a 30 inch muskie. The next day this dock caster went out and duplicated his performance by landing a 32 incher without stepping into a boat.

Dr. Carroll Eugene Cook of Chicago, who recently fished the Manitowish chain, caught a 17 pound muskie on Spider lake by "proxy." He was casting a live sucker in the morning. When he went in for lunch he left the sucker in the water to swim around next to his boat and thus stay alive.

A "Decoyed" Fish.

The guide, getting the boat ready for the afternoon excursion, heard the reel on Dr. Cook's rod whirr loudly. He picked up the rod, knew a fish had grabbed the sucker, and a little later set the hook. It was a 17 pound 6 ounce muskie which was "decoyed" to the boat.

The largest muskie we have heard about so far this season has been landed by Louis Spray, the man who won high honors last year by boating the second largest muskie taken in the 1940 season. Spray reports a 43¼ pound 'lunge from the Hayward lake area. Last year his prize winner was credited to the Court O'Reilles chain. Bob Cammack reports nice catches of pike and muskies being taken from Chippewa flowage in the Hayward country.

Wall-Eye Weighs 10 Pounds.

Big Minnesota pike have been hitting the lures, say reports from Park Rapids and lakes along the Minnesota boundary. Edwin B. Mayer of 1725 East 55th street landed one wall-eye weighing 10 pounds 6 ounces and on the same day Mrs. Mayer put three big ones on the stringer. The largest weighed 9 pounds 2 ounces, and the other two tipped the scales at 5 pounds 13 ounces each. These were taken from East Crooked lake, near Park Rapids.

One of the year's noteworthy accomplishments among women anglers was recorded recently by Mrs. James Simpson Jr. of Wadsworth, Ill. While fishing near Morro Castle, Havana, Cuba, Mrs. Simpson hooked a dolphin on a nine thread line. It jumped 32 times and took 29 minutes to land. It weighed 58 pounds.

This is a new world's record. It tops anything yet taken on a nine thread by either women or men.

North Michigan's Largest Resort Opens for Summer

Blaney Park, Mich., June 10 [Special].—Blaney Park, northern Michigan's largest resort, had its summer opening last week. The 33,000 acre project has a game and bird sanctuary of several thousand acres, 70 miles of patroled fences, a Paul Bunyan camp and museum, dozens of streams and lakes stocked with fish, and a golf course with trout pools along the fairways.

PANAMA INDIANS LET THE REST OF THE WORLD GO BY Live as They Did Before White Men Came.

PANAMA CITY, Panama, June 10 [Special].—Inhabiting an archipelago on the Atlantic coast of this republic is a group of Indians seldom seen by the tourists and therefore little known to the outside world. The travelers who do visit the San Blas Islands are amazed to find people living in the same manner as they did for centuries before the arrival of the white man in the western hemisphere.

There are 365 of the islands. They range from tiny places, capable of supporting only five or six coconut trees apiece, to those on which hundreds of San Blas Indians make their homes. The archipelago is east of Colon and only a few miles from the Atlantic entrance to the Panama canal. A few cruise ships are allowed to make short calls there.

Protected from Exploitation.

A treaty between the republic and the native chieftains protects the primitive people from exploitation by foreigners and guarantees them the right to regulate their own affairs according to their ancient tribal laws and customs. Altho every Indian is a citizen of Panama and therefore entitled to vote in the national elections, federal officials exercise only a paternalistic control over the islands.

The religion of the San Blas is simple. They have images, but these are not objects of worship. Rather they are charms against sickness [much more effective, the natives believe, than is the "white man's needle"—their description of the vaccination procedure].

Their moral code is strict, and their blood is probably the purest among the American Indians. Visitors may not stay on their islands after sunset.

How They Dress.

While most of the men wear almost nothing, the dress of the women is something like that of the old time Egyptian. The waist is made of many pieces of cloth of various colors, sizes, and shapes, all sewn in patchwork patterns of intricate geometric design. The skirt is a piece of cloth, about the size of a bath towel, wrapped about the waist without benefit of pins or buttons.

Nose rings of pure gold are almost obligatory, and large, flat gold earrings also are popular. The noses and ears of girl babies are pierced a few days after they are born. Those men who like to dress are fond of European shirts with finely tucked bosoms, worn with the shirt tail out and with derby hats sold to them by Yankee traders.

The homes are bamboo huts with palm thatched roofs and floors of hard clay. Whole families live in one room. The furniture is simple. To set up housekeeping, a bride needs a few wooden stools, a hammock, an iron pot in which a charcoal fire may be built, and a few dry gourds for dishes and kettles. The food consists of yams, bananas, coconuts, and fish.

Men Are Good Sailors.

While the women seldom leave the islands, the men are excellent sailors and have been known to make incredibly long voyages in their cayucos—canoes of hollowed logs and fitted with sails and outriggers.

Probably because of years of intermarriage within the tribe, there is a high percentage of albinos among the San Blas. These albinos, known as "moon children" among their own people, at first were mistaken for white people. This gave rise to the widespread circulation of stories about "the white Indians of Panama" in the United States and Europe some years ago.

Southern California's beaches are the playground of many thousands of children in the summer. This girl has just finished building a castle of sand.

INLAND COMMUNITY TO SPONSOR A FRESH WATER TROUT DERBY

Livingston, Mont., June 10 [Special].—Salmon Derbies have been common along the Pacific coast for several years, but this year an inland community has taken up the idea. It will have a fresh water trout Derby.

On Aug. 3 the Livingston chamber of commerce will give a prize of $1,000 to the fisherman who catches the biggest trout in the Yellowstone river. Already there have been more than 1,000 entries, and the committee believes there will be at least 5,000 anglers lined up on the banks of the stream the morning of the contest.

The river flows out of Yellowstone park and past this little city, 50 miles from the north entrance to the park. In August it is usually clear and cold, and fishing is at its best.

The largest fish ever caught in this vicinity was a 23 pound German brown trout. Others weighing from 10 to 15 pounds have been landed, while rainbow and native trout weighing around 5 pounds are fairly common.

Any bait, lure, or method that is legal in Montana will be allowed at the one day Derby.

BOOKS

23 Year Old Author Writes a Remarkable Novel, Winner of Avery Hopwood Award.

Thomas Mann Art Wasted on Farcical Story

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Thomas Mann, considered by many fine writers who would modestly hesitate to call themselves his peers, the greatest writer alive today, certainly does not re-prove that oft said praise in "The Transposed Heads." To be sure, his pen is still tipped with divinity. When he wishes, he can write a prose so majestically beautiful that it makes your heart turn little somersaults of pleasure at his skill. But in "The Transposed Heads" the use to which he puts that skill is, to this reader's way of thinking, fiddling.

The very first part of this brief tale is suffused with Thomas Mann's characteristic grandeur—when he tells of two east Indian youths, a Brahmin merchant and cowherd, "little different in age and caste, but very unlike in body . . . vowed to friendship." He says it happened "at the time when memory mounted in the mind of man" that they accidentally looked upon a lovely maiden naked in her sacred ablutions. The merchant fell hopelessly in love with her. The cowherd went as his envoy proposing marriage. To the weak bodied merchant the girl was united in wedlock. To the strong bodied cowherd her heart went out.

From the moment that the heroine talked in her sleep the tale becomes almost a farce, grandly done up in superb and lovely language, and labeled "a legend of India," but on the comic strip side just the same. For husband, knowing wife's yearnings, dispatched himself by severing his head from his body with one lusty blow in the temple of the dark Mother. Friend, finding husband thus a sacrifice, grabbed the lethal sword and did himself in the same way.

When wife found her husband and her loving friend in puddles of blood she was sensibly about to hang herself when the dark Mother persuaded her not to mess up the premises any more but to go about patching things up. In her hurry to put the heads back on their bodies she transposed them.

What happened after the cowherd's head was safely knit onto the merchant's body and vice versa takes Mr. Mann into fields in which he has never ventured before.

The basis of Thomas Mann's tale is a real Indian legend, but "The Transposed Heads" sounds more like the late Thorne Smith than like either Thomas Mann or an Indian legend—Thorne Smith's fantastic plot head knit onto the epic body of Thomas Mann's beautiful prose.

Prize Winning Novel

"Whistle Stop," by Maritta M. Wolff. [Random, $2.50.]

"Whistle Stop" is the winner of the current Avery Hopwood award, presented at the University of Michigan for a novel written by either a graduate or an undergraduate student there. It was written in Miss Wolff's senior year. She is 23 years old, a fact which no one could possibly suspect from reading this novel, for it is more mature and fuller of wisdom about human beings than most novels of our day. In fact, and in short, "Whistle Stop" is a remarkable novel.

It concerns a roistering, common, noisy family living in a little town near enough to a city for purposes of escape and getting into trouble. It inevitably reminds the reader of "February Hill" and of James Farrell's battling O'Neills, and faintly of Carson McCullers and the less poetic and more vigorous scenes in Thomas Wolfe. But it is no copy of any one else. It has a definite tang of its own. If Maritta Wolff keeps her head above the flood of praise that "Whistle Stop" is sure to elicit and keeps in the literary swim with the sure, swift strokes that are evident in this book, she has every chance of becoming some day one of America's best realistic novelists.

The characters in "Whistle Stop" live realistically—no one could possibly deny that—and they talk in the common speech. The fat, laughing mother; the oldest son, a chiseling railroad foreman; the gentle and kind oldest daughter, the mistress of a racketeer; another son who has almost engagingly never done a lick of work and—the reader knows full well—never will; twin grown girls who are as different as synthetic blonde is from timid brunette; the youngest son, shot thru with neurosis, a child who is grimly cruel, and an unexplained old man boarder fill the house to bursting with laughter, quarrels, and family-ness.

Maritta Wolff gives each one of them utter reality. The only person who never comes really alive in the family is the negligible father. Miss Wolff's is a real and a vivid talent.

English Writer

E. M. Delafield, English novelist who wrote "No One Now Will Know," reviewed below.

"No One Now Will Know," by E. M. Delafield. [Harpers, $2.50.]

The author of "The Diary of a Provincial Lady" [in four successive books—in London, in America, and in wartime—after the tremendously popular first diary] is primarily a light novelist rather than a modern Mrs. Pepys. A score and more books testify to that. This latest of her works belongs with her skilled tellings of tales.

Like most of its predecessors, "No One Now Will Know" is a story which any one can read and a great many will want to. It is known in the trade as "escapist" literature, which means that it is entertaining enough to make you forget glooms, personal and terrestrial, but not terrific enough to send up a blood pressure.

It tells of two generations—with a glimpse at a third, today's—and does so from the present backward instead of the usual chronology. Its principal character is the woman, and earlier the child about whose parentage "No One Now Will Know." The scandal concerns two brothers and the wife of one who loved the other. The reader, as well as those in the book, will not really know the intricacies of the emotional pattern, for Elizabeth Delafield does not delve into the minds of her characters.

Miss Delafield has a special genius for making the children in her books as real as the children next door [and infinitely less boisterous] and here her skill has a fine free hand.

This novel, written at the double tension of war and the tragic loss of her only son in it, may perhaps also have been in the writing of it "escapist literature" for one of England's most popular novelists. F. B.

America's Past Made Vivid in Historical Tales

"Half That Glory," by Stanley Gray. [Macmillan, $2.50.]
"Call the New World," by John Jennings. [Macmillan, $2.75.]
"Who Fought and Bled," by Ralph Beebe. [Coward-McCann, $2.50.]
"My Blood and My Treasure," by Mary Schumann. [Dial, $2.50.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

One day in 1773 when Christopher Keene was 19 and still was the gentle youth his mother had made him, he tried to save his Negro half brother from taking 100 lashes at the plantation whipping post. He failed and was himself whipped into insensibility by an outraged father.

That night Christopher and the half brother, Gabriel, ran away from Virginia. Christopher determined to become forever hard. How well he succeeded — in piracy, death, and international intrigue — "Half That Glory" tells with brilliance and depth. You see the American revolution won in Europe and you meet some great figures of history.

"Call the New World" is a vigorous historical novel which should stimulate even the most demanding of the bay-windowed, pipe-smoking, armchair adventurers. It has practically everything—war on two continents, duels, intrigue, treachery, love of both varieties, hard drinking, mighty eating, earthquakes—ah, well.

It is the story of young Lieut. Peter Brooke who, after being cashiered unjustly from the army during the war of 1812, goes to South America to enlist with Bolivar and San Martin and fight in their incredible campaigns. As a colonel he goes to London on a diplomatic mission and returns finally to America to win vindication and—you know what.

The ill fated American campaigns for Detroit and Frenchtown—the one lost thru a general's cowardice and the other thru a raw army's ignorance — are the backbone of "Who Fought and Bled," a robust tale of 1812. A young Harvard man, turned Ohio settler, tells us the story of these campaigns with their scalpings, burnings, treachery, privations, and heartbreaking surrenders.

But his narrative is concerned chiefly with his business partner and comrade in arms, who besides being a veteran of the revolutionary war is one of those fabulous woodsmen of whom we delight to read.

Old John Adams, living in retirement and poverty after his years in the White House, was hated and despised because he demanded that this young republic take up arms against a domineering England in 1812, as is told in "My Blood and My Treasure." Small boys threw rotten apples at him. But he lived to have his part in the triumphal conclusion of that war.

Great events behind the scenes of the conflict are seen thru the eyes of a young soldier of fortune and kinsman of Oliver Hazard Perry. It is this young man who, after Hull's cowardly capitulation at Detroit and the rout at Frenchtown, sees the necessity of an American fleet on Lake Erie. Then follows Commodore Perry's great victory.

Newspaper Writer Tells Inside Story of Modern Japan

"Behind the Rising Sun," by James R. Young. [Doubleday-Doran, $3.]

Thirteen years of newspaper work in Japan have given James Young a piercing — and entertaining — insight into the fable that is modern Japan. And "Behind the Rising Sun" might be called an "escape" nonfiction prize of the deluge of war books. Brightly, at times with sympathy and at times with harsh brutality, he tells the story of his 13 years in Nippon—from the time he first landed there as a common sailor until he was thrown into jail and held there on vapid charges for 61 days, which convinced him that the militaristic dragons who hold power behind the scenes in Japan did not want him around.

What hides behind the Rising Sun? Mr. Young found there a plague of militant, arrogant, and world-defying military cliques using organized force to accomplish their purpose. The real Japanese, he holds, live in seclusion and fear, however much they really wish to coöperate with America. The string pullers behind the Rising Sun, Mr. Young found, are "either in the army or are retired officers associated with a strongly entrenched German Trojan horse." Until Japan rids herself of these vicious elements, he asserts, it is impossible to hope for better relations with America.

Firm measures of tit for tat on the part of the United States are our only hope in the far east, Mr. Young concludes, in his highly readable book. J. E. S.

Two Who Fled Naziism Write 'Escape' Books

"Skeleton of Justice," by Edith Roper and Clara Leiser. [Dutton, $3.]
"Two Alone," by Philip Jaron, with the assistance of Horace Stafford. [Houghton-Mifflin, $2.50.]

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

These three volumes are escape books, but not escapist literature. Two of the authors are fugitives from Nazi Germany, while the third book is a novel about the escape of two lovers from an earlier war.

Leo Lania, when the Germans took his Austria, fled to France with his wife and child and a Nazi price on his head. The price had been there ever since 1923 when, posing as a Mussolini Fascist, he obtained the confidence of Hitler and his gang and then exposed them in a series of newspaper articles.

In France Lania continued his newspaper work and, like the thousands of other refugees from Hitler, talented and untalented, he looked to France as a champion of democracy to stem the tide. Came the war and hope that France would move. Came bitter disillusionment and worse. Along with every other alien, regardless of past records, Lania was thrown into a refugee camp.

"The Darkest Hour" is his story of the dry rot which lay at the core of French democracy, of the refugee camps, of their appalling conditions, of Lania's flight, only minutes ahead of the Nazi conquerors, and of his reunion in unoccupied France with his family who had made an equally incredible escape.

Edith Roper is another fugitive, another loss to German journalism. The Nazis thought they had a convert in this member of a Prussian military family when she entered newspaper work on the courthouse beat. Today they must regret their gullibility.

Miss Roper did her work well, learned to dissimulate, kept copious notes, gained access to important judicial documents, and then persuaded the Nazis to let her go to Switzerland to write a book. They thought it would be propaganda to show the glories of the third reich's judicial system. Instead, Miss Roper and her husband came to New York where, with the assistance of Clara Leiser, she wrote "Skeleton of Justice." It is the documented record of how "justice" is dispensed under totalitarian government.

"Two Alone" is a novel based on personal experience. Its author, Philip Jaron, tells the story of a young Polish soldier, Wladek, and his sweetheart, Sonia, and their flight thru the Polish and Bolshevik armies during the Russian invasion of Poland after the world war. The tale is simple, almost a pastoral idyll, despite the horrors endured by the young lovers on their epic journey into Lithuania.

Swiftly Paced Tale Is Saga of South in Days of Transition

"Sing for a Penny," by Clifford Dowdey. [Little-Brown, $2.50.]

The author of "Bugles Blow No More" and "Gamble's Hundred," stories of the civil war and of the founding of Richmond, Va., continues his American saga of the south in a swiftly paced novel of that city during the robber baron days of the '80s and '90s.

It was a time of change when men and women used to the leisurely tempo, the gallantry, and the charm of life before the war either had to adjust themselves to new conditions in an aggressive, turbulent world or die by the wayside. Those who lived in the past were doomed.

Young Kirby Harron realized this and "Sing for a Penny" is the story of what he did about it. His struggle is as thrilling as anything we've come across in recent fiction. Mr. Dowdey has the faculty of making all his characters exceedingly lifelike. The reader will long remember all of them.

The book has something of Thomas Wolfe's love for and power in describing the American scene. There is a kinship between Dowdey and Wolfe, yet Dowdey is distinctly himself and his style entirely his own. His novel presents an important picture of Richmond at the turn of the century. E. W.

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING romantic news is contained in the announcement from Mrs. Charles F. Harding Jr. of Winnetka of the engagement of her daughter, Anne Dinsdale Harding, to Dr. Alexander Spoehr, son of Dr. and Mrs. Herman A. Spoehr of Palo Alto, Cal. The wedding will take place on Aug. 2 and Dr. Spoehr and his bride will make their home here.

Miss Harding, whose father was the late Charles F. Harding Jr., attended the Nort Shore Country Day school and was graduated from Sarah Lawrence college in 1938. She was introduced to society at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club in December, 1935.

Assistant Curator at Field Museum.

Dr. Spoehr attended Leland Stanford university and received his doctor's degree in anthropology at the University of Chicago during the last year. He is assistant curator of American archaeology and ethnology at the Field Museum of Natural History.

With the other members of the departments of anthropology and geology, he has been busy with the remodeling and doing over of the H. N. Higinbotham hall of gems, which will be opened with a preview for museum on Thursday, June 19. Dr. Paul S. Martin, head of the anthropology department, will not be here for the preview as he is away on an expedition to Mexico. Henry W. Nichols is chief curator of geology. Miss Harding is working at the museum.

The hall of gems was named in honor of the memory of Harlow N. Higinbotham, prominent figure in the early life of Chicago. He was for many years a trustee and the second president of the museum, succeeding Edward E. Ayer. He was followed by Stanley Field, who still is president of the institution.

Mrs. R. T. Crane Will Go to Ipswich.

Mr. Higinbotham's son, Harlow D. Higinbotham, lives in Joliet, and his two daughters, Mrs. Richard T. Crane and Mrs. Alice H. Patterson, live in Chicago. Mrs. Crane will not be here for the preview on the 19th, for she leaves on Sunday for her summer place, Castle hill, at Ipswich, Mass.

Mrs. Crane's son, Cornelius, sailed recently for Tahiti, where he has a house. The former Florence Crane and her husband, William A. Robinson, live the year around in Ipswich, where he has a shipyard. Two of the eight mine sweepers that are being built for the government at the yard were launched last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Farwell Winston and their daughter, Dudley, who is to make her debut on June 28, have returned from New York, where Miss Winston was graduated from the

Gay Attire for Beach Sirens

Eye catching summer color scheme for beach lounging and sea duty outfits. The wide skirted beach coat is of clear yellow terry cloth, cut with a set-in belt and short sleeves. Under the coat is a gay green knitted swim suit dotted with white.

BY REA SEEGER.

Smart swim suits are tempting displays these days! Whether you just dabble in the water, decorate a beach scene or go in for the fun of daily dunking there are suits for all occasions. Sleek streamlined models of form fitting lastex come in black, green, a russet red, copper, brown, and white.

These have the brief skirts knitted all in one piece. There are some brand new knitted beauties with the contrast of white polka dots . . . green, black, and blue with the dime size dots. Solid colors in dark gray, and navy and black are made in the same way.

Printed sharkskin is going strong. Snow white backgrounds are splashed with huge floral patterns in wild color schemes. Both the shorts and halter bra styles and the princess silhouette model are featured in sharkskin and both the all-white and the prints are available.

Shag, that novelty material, is used for some eye catching princess line suits using two colors such as green and white, brown and white, or red and white in broad band stripes for effective pattern.

There is a definite trend for more feminine swim suits . . . nearly all the new arrivals boast the princess line silhouette and a decidedly softer appearance even when they are without any extra decoration or trim. All the skirts are flare type, usually attained with many gores.

Cotton, jersey, sharkskin, or the lastex weaves all stress the more feminine manner. Two extremely interesting colors to check are lovely sunny yellow and a dull sheened copper or cocoa tint. Both are devastating shades for redheads or for the beach sirens with a golden tan to flaunt.

Historic Cabin.

One of the features of the garden tour next Sunday in Dixon, Ill., proceeds of which will be matched by Mrs. Charles Walgreen and the total used in developing the local Girl Scout camp, Camp Ralston, will be the opening of Mrs. Walgreen's estate, Hazelwood, and the three homes on it. The oldest of these, a log cabin, was built in 1837 by Gov. Charters, and among the visitors to the cabin were Margaret Fuller, John Quincy Adams, William Cullen Bryant, Abraham Lincoln, and Stephen A. Douglas.

Story.

Gertrude Lawrence [Lady in the Dark] telephoned from New York that her friends, the Joseph Verner Reeds, were arriving in town yesterday, and told a story to Jerry Freshman:

A woman troubled with insomnia found pills and nostrums of no help. Her husband asked the doctor for advice and was told that he should buy her a canary. The canary's singing would lull her to sleep, he said, then the husband would cover the cage and it would stop singing. The canary was purchased and it sang her to sleep. The following morning when the cage was uncovered, it was discovered that the canary had only one leg, and the husband returned it to the birdstore.

"This bird has only one leg," he complained.

"What do you want—a singer or a dancer?" inquired the proprietor.

Chivalry Is not Dead—Only Dying.

A well groomed man sat engrossed in his newspaper on the Evanston "L" and opposite him, a young woman, polo coated and cocoa straw hatted, also was absorbed in her oblong slice of newsprint. Standing women swayed about them as they read. A huge fly buzzed distractingly on the window pane at the young woman's ear. The man rose, paper in hand, smiled gallantly at the young woman and said, "I'll kill it." The fly annihilated, he received her thanks, sat down again, and resumed his reading.

Cradle Ready for New War on Air Germs

BY MARCIA WINN.

The Cradle, famous Evanston nursery which has evolved scientific nursery techniques that have been adopted by innumerable hospitals thruout America, is preparing a new study of germ transmission.

For two years the Cradle has engaged in an elaborate experiment to create a germproof baby home. The experiment has lacked about two germs of being eminently successful. The experiment to be undertaken this fall will tackle the two.

Twelve years ago, by devising an aseptic nursery technique, the home brought about the elimination of hand borne germs among babies in its care. When the society's present $150,000 home was opened in 1939, a radical, threefold technique was introduced to end the transmission of air borne germs, genesis of pneumonia and other respiratory diseases.

Three twelve cubicle units were built, with each unit having a separate method of attack on germs in the air. The first unit was air conditioned, each cubicle separated only by a glass wall. The second was air conditioned, but invisible walls of germicidal light [beams of ultra violet rays descending from the ceiling] separated each from the outer wall. The third was air conditioned and employed mechanical barriers; within each glass cubicle was another glass cubicle in which the baby lay in utter isolation.

That the three were successful as a whole is shown in the home's mortality. Of 375 babies cared for from April 1, 1939, to March 31 of this year, two died, and neither death was caused by an air borne germ. One child, a premature birth, was moribund when it reached the Cradle. The other had a severe septic infection upon arrival.

Careful comparative checks were made on the three units. The first findings, made public yesterday, showed that air conditioning alone was not germproof. Fifteen respiratory infections developed among the infants protected only by air conditioning.

In those protected by germicidal light barriers, only one infection developed, and in those isolated within their glass homes the same was true.

Consequently, the Cradle society hopes to build a fourth unit of 12 cubicles this fall. In these, germicidal light may be employed without air conditioning or, as a further safeguard, even the ducts admitting air may be irradiated.

One of our special pets among the fitted beauty cases that have come out this season is a compact, lightweight case that comes only in luggage tan. It's a good size, small enough to dangle from your wrist, and while it's light as can be it is fitted with just about everything you'd want on a jaunt.

We particularly like it for the fact that when it's open and in use most of your preparations stand upright. That eliminates a lot of irritation—and spilling. The jars are of plastic and the lining is of washable fabric in a soft peach shade.

It's stocked with some of the best beauty aids you can find. First, there's that great necessity, cleansing cream. This is one of those creams that is something of a softener, too, which makes a good choice for the dry skinned. Then there is night cream, a rich emollient to be used before you go to bed to help counteract the drying effects of wind and sun.

There's a foundation cream also, a lovely, satiny kind of cream that keeps your makeup fresh and makes your skin look a lot more dewy than it really is. Skin lotion completes the treatment items.

For makeup you have full sizes of rouge and lipstick, an eyebrow pencil, and a generous supply of fine face powder. And in this case you'll find something you always yearn for when you travel—cologne, fragrant and refreshing.

Comb and mirror are in the top flap and there's ample room inside for your tissues and your tooth brush. All in all, it's like a traveling dressing table, but it has no more bulk than a pocketbook.

Bud Blossoms as Mannequin

Miss Modrea Mullen, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bernard Mullen of Lake Forest, will be a mannequin in the Ravinia fashion show at Field's on Friday. Miss Mullen, who is studying at the Art institute, will make her debut on Sept. 5. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Ravinia's Show to Be a Parade of Debutantes

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The fashion show that will be given at Field's on Friday to display fashions for Ravinia will serve as a sort of first parade of the season's debutantes. All of them who are at home are to be in the show.

The show will be given at noon and again at 1:15 in the Walnut and Narcissus rooms. It is sponsored by the Ravinia Festival association to stimulate sale of money saving Ravinia coupon books.

These books cost $10 and contain 18 coupons each. One coupon is good for an admission or a reserved seat at any regular concert during the seven week season. The season starts on June 28.

At a preview yesterday at teatime six debutantes were on hand to display the charming formal and informal fashions that are suggested for wear at the concerts, but on Friday there will be three more, Miss Carol Gardner, Miss Kay Keehn, and Miss Marjorie Alexander.

Those who were there yesterday were the Misses Annie Laurie Ryerson, Betty Bennett, Modrea Mullen, Sally Hyde, Anne Boswell, and Leonore Cudahy. "She's so much like her mother" said the small and critical audience as Miss Ryerson, Miss Mullen, and Miss Boswell entered.

Miss Ryerson has the same lovely light red hair that her mother, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, has; Miss Mullen is a brunette and Miss Boswell has darkish blonde hair, worn extremely long. A Vernoica Lake bob, it might be called.

All of these six buds have long bobs, for no matter what the fashion experts say about it being smart to have one's hair up, or short, young girls continue to wear their tresses hanging around their shoulders. Betty Bennett is a blonde, and so is Lee Cudahy, but Sally Hyde's hair is dark brown.

Miss Olivia Little and Mrs. Jere Patterson, both good looking and blonde, were the other mannequins in the preview. They and Miss Barbara White, Mrs. Gilbert H. Scribner Jr. and Miss Jane Moist complete the list of those who will take part.

Two Exercises Recommended for Slim Arms

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

We are asked daily about either reducing or developing arms and straightening rounded shoulders.

The shoulder interest, no doubt, is accelerated by the general effort toward posture improvement which becomes more marked daily. Some one has suggested that the "straightening up" of the boys at camp has a family influence. Sometimes the boy home on a visit will project his own army discipline on younger members of the family, make them straighten up and keep the abdomen where it belongs, as flat against the spine as it will go.

However, the reasons aren't as immediately attention-requiring as the means to better proportioned arms and better looking shoulders. And here is where your good old pal, exercise, has to be coerced into helping you. Diet won't do it unless, of course, the arms are extremely fat. They cry for exercise to shift the weight burden.

Here's one good exercise for both shoulders and arms. It's the rope-climber. With hands raised overhead, clench them as if climbing a rope, raising one hand above the other alternately about four inches each move, until the fullest possible height is reached. And then come down the same climbing way. This is good for reducing arms and also for developing skinny ones.

To get your shoulders more even, try patting yourself on the back. You probably deserve a few good pats, anyway. Lift your arm high and bring it across the face and pat the shoulder and back on the left side with the right hand. Repeat with the other arm and hand.

Paid Companion

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1941: By Elizabeth York Miller]

SYNOPSIS.

On her own for the last four years, 22 year old Celia Ames has no one to whom she can turn when she loses her job. She has fallen in love with Val Quentin a fellow boarder whom she realizes is selfish and she has begun to doubt his worthiness. He borrows money from her and tho she feels that they are practically engaged, she does not feel like going to him for help now. She wonders if she could pawn some jewelry, her only legacy from her mother. While she is walking an old lady's dogs in the park she runs into Felicity Stanmore, a schoolmate, four years younger than Celia, whom Celia mothered in convent days. Felicity, whose mother is dead and her father is a rich engineer, invites Celia to her home for the week-end. Celia accepts and goes home to get her jewelry to pawn and finds it has been stolen.

BORROWER.

INSTALMENT III.

Miss Best thoughtfully penciled a crisscross on the blotting pad.

"Er—whom do you suspect of purloining your jewelry?" she asked.

"Why—nobody," said Celia in a woebegone voice.

"I mean, not anybody special. I think it's awfully mean always to suspect the maids. But, of course, somebody took it. It might have happened weeks ago. I don't keep things I use in that box—I mean, they were really just keepsakes. I happened to think of them when I was out this morning and decided to pawn or sell them. I've never been in debt before in my life, Miss Best, and I can't tell you how I hate it."

"I am sure," said Miss Best. "Well, I'll tell Mr. Parker. I'll tell him you expect to be able to settle your bill next week."

Celia felt obliged to be truthful.

"I hope to be able to pay something on account, anyway," she said wondering where on earth it was coming from.

If only Miss Voisey would give her a regular, if merely temporary, job with the Pekes, but by Monday it was odds-on the old woman's lumbago would have improved.

There wasn't any time for Celia to sit bemoaning her loss, but she couldn't help thinking about it a lot as she dragged out a suitcase from under the divan, and began to look around for what to pack.

Some pennies had to go into the gas meter. She mended and washed out two pairs of stockings, and washed some underwear, too. The soap powder was getting low, but fortunately there was enough.

She put an iron on the ring to press out the things as soon as they were dry enough, and set her hair.

All of her clothes looked so poor and shabby now that they were viewed in the light of Felicity Stanmore's smartness. Still she wasn't going to be an inverted snob about it.

In the midst of her preparations, Val Quentin appeared with a couple of neckties he wanted her to press for him.

Val, too, was going out somewhere. In fact, he was almost always going out. He had on his black and silver dressing gown and his hair, fair like Celia's, shone with a golden gloss that had a slight, becoming wave in it.

"Hello—going away?"

"Only until Monday morning," said Celia, rather glumly.

He kissed her lightly on the lips.

"My precious, isn't this rather sudden?" His voice was pained and his forehead ruffled.

"Yes, it is," Celia said.

She couldn't help the mean thought that came into her head. Val knew how hard up she was, but that didn't stop him from using her gas for his neckties.

"What's the matter, beautiful? When you passed me on the stairs a while ago——"

O Val, I don't want to talk about it, really. Something perfectly horrid has happened."

Nevertheless, she did talk about it. She was practically weeping before the sad story was ended.

"Poor old girl—what ghastly bad luck," he said. "I wish I could help you, but I'm absolutely flat myself. As a matter of fact, I was going to try to bone you for a half crown or so. I may have to take a taxi back tonight."

"I'm sorry," Celia said, her voice a little hard. "It just can't be done."

She faced him, her hands on her hips. Now she must say something or die. For the first time in her life Celia Ames felt positively shrewish.

"You're always broke. Yet you have those expensive rooms of yours, and goodness knows what your clothes cost and how much you spend on running around. Perhaps you've forgotten, but between June and August I lent you two pounds. If I could only have a little of it back . . ."

"I'm sorry."

"Beautiful, I'll get it for you somehow. Perhaps next week. And as for those expensive rooms of mine—I don't pay for 'em. Do you think I'd be living in this dump if I did?"

Celia stared at him aghast.

"Who does pay for them, then?"

He smiled upon her indulgently.

"Of course, it isn't any of your business, precious, but I don't mind telling you. Only please keep it under your hat. Shirley pays my board bill. O not to me, but to the management. That's her little way. She also buys me clothes now and again, and allows me 15 shillings a week pocket money. It's her idea of alimony, I suppose, and it lasts only for the duration of my grass widowerhood. So now you know the humiliating circumstances in which I manage to exist."

He cocked a whimsical eyebrow at her and never knew how near Celia was to actually hating him. If anything could kill her passion for Valentine Quentin, surely this was it. She gulped, turned a little pale, and shook her head.

"I wish you hadn't told me," she said in a faint voice.

Shirley, as she knew, was the woman to whom he had been married. And that was about all she knew concerning Val's brief but apparently unsatisfactory married life.

"Darling, you're not going to tell me you despise me, I hope?"

"I do . . . rather."

"But you still love me?" He looked vaguely alarmed.

Celia backed away, fearing he was going to seize her and kiss her—when all would be lost.

"I don't know. I hope I don't—but I'll have to find out about that."

He regarded her mournfully.

"And you're going away until Monday? Where? I can't bear it. I'll be lost without you. Have you forgotten that we always read the papers together on Sunday mornings?"

"Please go, Val. I've got such a lot to do. Here are your ties."

"Angel, I don't understand. I don't understand the least bit."

No, he didn't understand. But now Celia understood very well one thing, at least, which was why he had gone all around the subject without actually asking her to marry him. He was afraid of losing his "alimony."

Somehow she got rid of him. If he had stayed another moment she might have weakened and thrown herself into his arms.

He had wanted to know where she was spending her week-end, but she had remained purposely mysterious. Let him worry about her for a change. Goodness knows, she had broken her heart enough over his late nights and the gay parties to which she was never invited. Whenever she went out with Val it was, at best, a 50-50 arrangement, and naturally of late they hadn't been out very much together. He was no good to any girl on earth and now if ever was the time to brace oneself to that unpleasant fact. But it hurt—ye gods, how it hurt.

Celia took her suitcase onto a bus to the High street and carried it the rest of the way, altho she was terribly tired and her feet were aching. This morning seemed remote in time, but it had left a reminder of all the tramping about she had done, the hard pavements, the climbing up and down stairs to the agents' poky offices, to say nothing of two hours in the park.

By the time she let herself in at the imposing wrought iron gates of Leighton House, she was all but limping. And suddenly she felt shy and considerably overawed. Hadn't she been a little bit too ready to accept Felicity's invitation? Perhaps it was Auntie May who gave out the invitations for Leighton House, and Auntie May had never liked Celia Ames very much.

Legion's Auxiliary Will Contribute to Veterans' Exchange

Contributions to the Veterans' Craft exchange maintained by the American Legion auxiliary at 30 West Washington street will be made by each district director at the annual past presidents' parley luncheon today at the Top of the Town restaurant, 185 North Wabash avenue.

These cash gifts help to maintain the shop, where hundreds of housebound veterans and their families sell their handiwork and so are enabled to become self-supporting.

2 Mistakes Wives So Often Make

Because of inward shyness or ignorance, many married women make needless mistakes—risk health, happiness. Why? Generally because feminine hygiene is considered too personal to be discussed. And so many women use over-strong solutions of acids which can burn or scar delicate tissues. Today risks are needless. For science has given womankind Zonite. Non-poisonous, non-caustic, yet kills germs, bacteria on contact. Destroys undesirable odors. Protects personal daintiness. Most important, safe for delicate tissues. Over 20,000,000 bottles already bought. Free Booklet Tells Intimate Facts. Get this frankly written booklet, "Feminine Hygiene Today"—FREE, sent postpaid in plain wrapper. Send name and address to Zonite Products Corporation, Dept. 338C, 370 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

Hutchins Tells Seniors Free Press Is Vital

A free press and a free radio are the last bulwarks of a free country, declared President Robert Maynard Hutchins in an address at the 204th convocation at the University of Chicago yesterday. He spoke in Rockefeller Memorial chapel at exercises in which 413 bachelors' degrees and 344 higher degrees were conferred.

"Freedom is the great word nowadays," he continued. "We are urged to go to war if necessary, for freedom from want, freedom from fear, freedom of worship, freedom of speech, and freedom of the seas. We are urged to stay out of war to obtain or preserve these same freedoms.

"But freedom must be something more than a vacant stare. It must be something better than the absence of restraint, or the absence of things we do not like."

A nation, said Dr. Hutchins, will be free only to the extent of the personal freedom of its people. Political freedom is empty unless the people know what to do with it when they get it, he said, and they cannot know what to do with political freedom unless they have personal freedom.

The hope of the world, he said, is to train the rising generation to be free and to acquire moral and intellectual habits which will give them that personal freedom.

Among those receiving degrees were Charles Grace of Chillicothe, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Olson of Watford City, N. D. Grace became a doctor of medicine while his father and his grandfather, both doctors, looked on. Olson received the degree of doctor of medicine and his wife, Leona, received a master's degree in social service administration.

It was announced that two of the university's most distinguished faculty members will become professors emeritus July 1. They are Percy H. Boynton, professor of English, and William A. Nitze, chairman of the department of romance languages and literature. Prof. Boynton has been with the university 38 years and Prof. Nitze has been on the faculty 32 years.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., June 10.—Long time ago, under the heading, "Spending $7,000 for a Minute of Fun," we started a semioccasional investigation into the making of one movie—Ginger Rogers' "Tom, Dick, and Harry." It's about time for another and probably final report.

The column heading was arrived at because the picture was budgeted at $650,000, was to run 90 minutes, and was expected to come in quite a bit under the budget. The heading should now be revised, for "Tom, Dick, and Harry" is ready for a sneak preview with a temporary score, runs 90 minutes, and will have cost $700,000. That will make the shooting of this movie cost $7,777.77 a minute, which is a respectable sum, but nothing unusual.

Main reason for the increase in cost is Ginger Rogers, but nobody is complaining. The picture ran 20 days over the shooting schedule because of her illness. Ginger was out for a couple of days, from sheer joy, after she won the academy award for "Kitty Foyle"; after that she developed an ailment which did not completely throw her, but which cut down her vitality to the point where, on some days, she'd work only a couple of hours. Ginger is headstrong, moody, and difficult to work with—but she's one of the ablest performers in the game and can be forgiven her quirks.

Usually, when the final shot of a picture is made, there is a big party on the stage. After that the stars go on holiday or jump into their next assignments, and the director, who thinks he has taken the worst beating, spends ten days in bed or at a bar. In our case there was a party—not in honor of Miss Rogers but of Director Garson Kanin, because Gar was about to go into the army.

In the middle of the picture his draft number had come up and he had refused to ask for any deferment. This put RKO in a sweat, and RKO went to the draft board and explained that Kanin was the sparkplug of a $650,000 investment and got him a deferment until June 1. This date with Uncle Sam meant that Kanin couldn't afford the usual director's ten-day letdown.

He had to stay right on the job and finish it quick—and a picture whose last scene has been filmed is far from completed. Usually, during a director's post shooting respite, his film is cut into rough shape by the cutter. Then he comes back and masterminds the polishing.

Gar, with the army camp at Fort Monmouth, N. J., right around the corner, remained on the job, supervised the rough cut, went into the editing. Editing is different from cutting, involving the arrangement of scenes by trial and error, rather than just hacking them into length. He also went into the dubbing, which is the proper mixing of the sound. Dubbing in "Tom, Dick and Harry" was unusually difficult, for there are some sequences in which Miss Rogers must speak for George Murphy, Burgess Meredith, and Alan Marshal. It's a dream stuff, in which she is married to all three guys and has children who look just like George, Buzz, and Alan, and because she's dreaming, everybody talks like her.

This dubbing took five five-hour days—which was all Ginger's voice could stand. And it's plenty for anybody's voice. Murphy, for instance, says something. This part of the film is made into a loop and put in a projector, so that it will run over and over again. Kanin and Ginger sit in a projection room with a microphone on a table in front of Ginger. The picture is run, and she, watching the screen, tries to make her words fit Murphy's lips. It takes many tries before perfect timing and the right inflections are achieved.

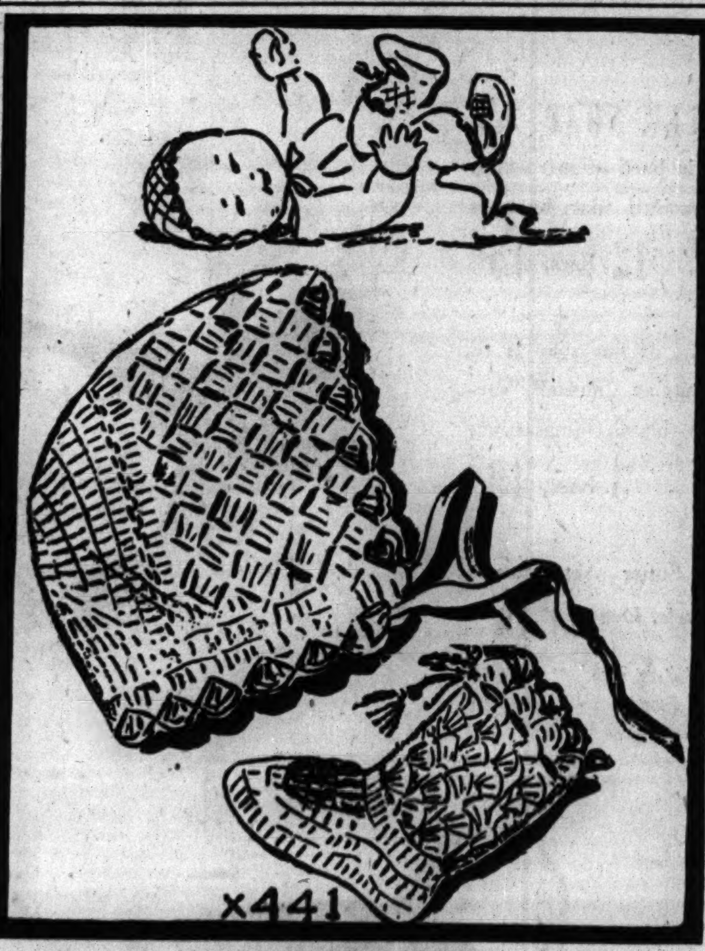
Matching Bootees and Cap



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Matching bootees and cap, crocheted in a fancy yet easy to create shell stitch, may be made in two colors or all one tone. Blue and white is the favorite scheme for boys, while a delicate pink is appropriate for girls. Only two ounce balls of pompadour or Shetland wool are required. The bootees and cap may be used with coats or jackets and can be worn by infants up to 3 months old.

Visiting Mammalogists Unmask Bossy as a Sinister Creature

Man's best friend is still his dog, for the pet pooch can give his master only one disease as compared to several each from other classes of domesticated animals.

A bat flies very happily with his eyes shut if he can have his mouth and ears open.

And it now seems probable that jungle fever is perpetuated by several species of mosquitoes and mammals, especially monkeys and opossums.

But wait till you hear the terrible truth about Bossy, the cow!

This information was contained in papers presented at yesterday's session of the 23d annual meeting of the American Society of Mammalogists at the Field museum. They will read additional reports today and tomorrow at the museum and end their convention Friday with a trip to the Brookfield zoo.

William L. Jellison of the Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever laboratories at Hamilton, Mont., presented yesterday's discussion of diseases man may contract from rodents, rabbits, and hoofed animals.

Gentle eyed bossy can give you smallpox, tuberculosis, anthrax, undulent fever, and hoof and mouth disease—as well as milk. Control of rats and mice is important in large cities since those mammals are reservoirs for spotted fever, relapsing fever, and bubonic plague. Dogs transmit rabies only.

Donald R. Griffin of Harvard university used motion pictures to bear out his findings that bats avoid obstacles by sending out a high pitched sound—not audible to human ears—which is reflected to the bats' ears from even such small boards as telephone wires.

Raymond M. Gilmore reported the five and one-half years' work to date on the yellow fever research of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The mammalogists reëlected all but one of their present officers at yesterday's business session. Dr. W. P. Taylor, Texas A. & M., is president; Dr. E. Raymond Hall of the Museum of Vertebrate Zoölogy, University of California at Berkley, and Prof. Brazier Howell of Johns-Hopkins are vice presidents and Dr. Robert E. Orr of the California Academy of Sciences at San Francisco is recording secretary. Dr. Emmet T. Hooper of the University of Michigan was elected as the new corresponding secretary. Dr. W. B. Davis of Texas A. & M., retiring corresponding secretary, was elected editor of the Journal of Mammalogy.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

June 11, 1941.

Universal day—Confusion may keep you from accomplishing anything constructive. Good day for publicity.

Flowers—Doesn't it seem logical that the weeping willow tree is representative of the number 11? This special number also rates heart's ease. Since this is the number of inspiration, but carrying a rather nervous and highly anxious note, you can see that the delicate, sensitive flowers and those flowers which appeal to the imagination might be suitable for this number. Since you can't very well wear a weeping willow to carry out your number scheme, you can wear violets as they reflect this number. The tone of silver is assigned to 11 and so if you wear a gray costume, the touch of violets will give just the right combination.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

When we serve sweetbreads, it is almost always with ham or bacon, for their bland flavor needs the contrast of the stronger-flavored meat. Almond butter and bacon make this sweetbread combination unusually good.

Broiled Sweetbreads and Bacon with Almond Butter.
[Serves Four]
1 pair sweetbreads
Butter, fine crumbs
8 bacon strips
½ cup butter
¼ cup ground almonds
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Soak sweetbreads in cold water for an hour. Then simmer for 20 minutes in salted water with a little vinegar in it [1 tablespoon to a quart of water]. Plunge in cold water, then remove membrane. Split, dip in melted butter, and roll in fine seasoned crumbs. Broil with bacon until sweetbreads are brown and bacon is crisp. Melt butter, brown almonds in it, and add the lemon juice. Pour over sweetbreads. Serve two strips of bacon with each portion.

Orange Biscuits.
[1 dozen medium]
2 cups sifted flour
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
1 egg
⅓ cup orange juice
Orange sugar

Sift flour with sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in butter. Beat egg and add orange juice. Add to dry ingredients. Blend with a fork. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll out into rectangular sheet ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with orange sugar. Roll up jelly roll fashion and cut into 1 inch slices. Place in greased muffin pans and bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes.

ORANGE SUGAR: Mix ½ cup sugar with the grated rind and juice of ½ orange. Let this mixture stand while making the biscuits.

Raspberry Chiffon Pie.
1½ tablespoons plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
⅝ to ¾ cup sugar
1 cup hot water
1½ cups crushed raspberries
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup whipping cream, whipped
Crumb or pastry crust

Soak gelatin for five minutes in cold water and dissolve with sugar in hot water. Add berries and salt. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in whipped cream, fill pie shell, and chill until firm. Serve topped with whipped cream and a garnish of whole berries.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Sometimes it doesn't pay to keep your eyes open," said South mournfully after he had played the hand below. "If I hadn't paid attention to spot cards I would have made my slam." South was correct. A poor player would have made the slam, but credit must be given to East for sizing up South's ability and for brilliantly seizing his opportunity.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened a low heart and declarer let it ride around to his tenace. A brief survey of the combined hands revealed the fact that there was no way of avoiding the loss of a diamond trick. South merely had to take care to lose no trump trick.

In accordance with the best technique, declarer laid down the ace of spades at trick two. East, without the slightest hesitation, dropped the nine spot. Now South indulged in a little thought. He had intended to win the second trump trick with dummy's queen. If both players followed it would be a simple matter to draw a third round of trumps. If West showed out, a finesse would be established against East. Declarer recognized from the start that four trumps to the J-9 in West's hand would defeat him.

When East's nine dropped on the first trick, however, it seemed to South that he had been presented with an opportunity to pick up four trumps to the jack in West's hand, as apparently East had started with the doubleton J-9 or the singleton nine of trumps. In the former case there would be no difficulty in playing the trump suit. In the latter case it was vital for South to take the second trump trick in his own hand and then finesse dummy's eight of spades.

At trick three, therefore, South laid down the king of spades and discovered that East's brilliant false card had assured a trump trick to the defenders.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's column.

Spence school last week. She went to Miss Hall's before going to the Spence school. The former Anne Winston, now Mrs. Carleton Ellis Jr. of Toledo, came to Lake Forest with her parents, but she will be here only for a few days.

She is returning later in the month, however, to attend the dinner-dance that Mr. and Mrs. Winston are giving as their middle daughter's presentation to society.

The debut party will be at Fairlawn, Mrs. Robert G. McGann's home in Lake Forest. Mrs. McGann is Mr. Winston's mother. Only buds and young men are being invited to the dinner, but more are asked to come at 11 o'clock for dancing. The youngest daughter of the family, Lucia, arrives at home today from the Foxcroft school.

Jacqueline Cross' Betrothal Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Cross of East 50th street today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Jacqueline, to Harvey G. Van Sand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Sand of Alexandria, Va. Miss Cross, who attended the University of Chicago, will be graduated today from the Career Institute. A reply will be made by Miss Marjorie O'Mara, who then will call upon a junior student, Miss Patricia Cathcart, to take over her duties as student head for next year.

Among those who will receive certificates are Misses Frances Glore, Barbara Tinsley, Nancy Boldenweck, Sally Bonner, Harriet and Martha Borland, Mary Jane Brummel, Margaret Case, Dorcas Fitzgerald, Christine Freeman, Mary Harrington, Dorothy Herbst, Marie Louise Hulburd, Carolyn Mellinger, Harriet Sturgis, Margaret Stuart, and Alice Northrup.

The commencement address will be given by Prof. Erwin H. Schell of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, one of the country's foremost leaders in the training of young executives.

Parties Are Planned for Summer Visitors.

There will be many small parties for Mrs. Charles C. Adsit, who is arriving from New York today to visit Mrs. D. Mark Cummings in Lake Forest. Mrs. Adsit formerly lived here.

Another Chicago visitor will be the Marquise D'Ivanrey [Italia Blair], who is expected by the end of the week. She will be with her brother, Chauncey B. Blair, and Mrs. Blair at the Whitehall.

Miss Nancy Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Loyal Davis' daughter, arrived at home from Smith yesterday. She is to be with a summer stock theater in Gloucester, Mass., this season.

Dammanns Leave for Graduation and Wedding.

The J. Francis Dammanns are leaving today for Smith college to see their daughter, Miss Nancy Dammann, receive her diploma. The whole family, including Peter, who is a student at Harvard, and Thomas L. Dammann and his wife, who have been in California this winter, will be in Cincinnati on June 21 for the marriage of Miss Nancy McLaughlin and J. Francis Dammann Jr.

The wedding will be a small one at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Andrew's church, Cincinnati, with a reception for the families afterward at the home of Miss McLaughlin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, in Covington. Miss Evelyn Pendery will attend the bride. Richard Lewis of Philadelphia probably will be best man. Mr. Dammann is a student in the medical school of the University of Cincinnati.

After the wedding the Thomas Dammanns will return to Winnetka for a visit with his parents. Two Winnetka friends of the bridegroom will go to Cincinnati for the wedding, Ogden Hannaford and Joseph De Peyster, as will Mrs. Dammann's brothers and their wives, the Cornelius and the George Lyndes.

Mrs. George A. Richardson is leaving tomorrow to spend two months at the Richardson ranch, El Huerto, near La Jolla, Cal. Mr. Richardson will go west in a few days. The Richardsons have purchased another property, also about 15 miles from La Jolla, known as The Inn, which is to be run as a guset ranch. Mrs. Phelps Hoyt has taken the Richardsons' Lake Forest house for the summer.

Mrs. Harry M. McLeod and her little daughter, Penelope, are leaving today for Little Compton, R. I., to spend the summer with Mrs. McLeod's mother, Mrs. Eugene Jackson, and little Penelope's great-grandmother, Mrs. Frederick Patten. Mr. McLeod will go east July 1. The junior Ray P. Johnsons have taken the McLeod's Lake Forest house for the summer.

CUBS ROUT GIANTS, 11-0; SOX LOSE, DROP TO 4TH

OPEN MAIL ORDER SALE FOR ALL-STAR FOOTBALL GAME

COLLEGIANS TO FACE MIGHTY BEARS AUG. 28

Begin Player Poll July 12.

BY ARCH WARD.

This is the day thousands of football fans have awaited for months. It brings official announcement of the opening of ticket sales for the eighth annual All-Star game, which will be played in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28 between the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Football league, and the All-Americans, chosen by the fans of the nation.

The seven previous games attracted a total of 557,715 spectators. Last year's crowd—84,567—was the largest of the series. The smallest was the 74,250 that saw the All-Stars rout the Washington Redskins, 28 to 16, in 1938.

Only mail applications will be accepted for the next few weeks. The prices of tickets are the same as last year —$4.40, $3.30, $2.20, and $1.10. Checks or money orders should be made out to The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and directed to All-Star Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. All seats are reserved. The $4.40 section extends to the end lines.

Poll Opens July 12.

The balloting for the All-Stars' starting lineup will open on July 12 and will continue until July 29. THE TRIBUNE again will have the coöperation of newspapers and radio stations in all sections of the land. The two ends, two tackles, two guards, center, quarter back, two half backs, and full back who receive the greatest number of votes at their positions will comprise the collegians' battle front at the opening kickoff. The coaching staff must employ the fans' favorites, unless injuries or a player's failure to accept election to the team interfere.

There will be no poll for college coaches this summer. The group, which again will consist of representatives of the Pacific coast, south, east, and middle west, will be invited by THE TRIBUNE.

Profits of the game will be divided equally, as always, among the United Charities, Catholic Charities, and Jewish Charities of Chicago.

The All-Stars' starting lineup for the game against the Green Bay Packers last year included Bill Fisk of Southern California and Esco Sarkkinen of Ohio State, ends; Nick Cutlich of Northwestern and Tad Harvey of Notre Dame, tackles; Jim Logan of Indiana and Harry Smith of Southern California, guards; Clyde Turner of Hardin Simmons, center; Ambrose Schindler of Southern California, quarter back; Nile Kinnick of Iowa and Lou Brock of Purdue, half backs, and Joe Thesing of Notre Dame, full back.

84,567 Agree with Him.

The Packers won the game, 45 to 28, after the most exciting 60 minutes in All-Star history. The first half, which ended 28 to 21 for Green Bay, was described by Maj. Biff Jones, head coach at Nebraska, as the greatest 30 minutes of football he ever had seen. Dr. Edward N. Anderson of the University of Iowa, was head coach of the 1940 All-Stars. His assistants were Tad Wieman of Princeton, Red Dawson of Tulane, Don Faurot of Missouri, and Buck Shaw of Santa Clara.

The professionals have won three of the seven games, the All-Stars two and there have been two tie scores. Football critics agree that the Chicago Bears, victors over the Washington Redskins by 73 to 0 in last year's National Football league championship game, will be the most formidable offensive array the All-Stars have been called upon to meet.

THERE'S NO ROOM FOR HEROES IN COLLEGE ROWING

It's One for All and All for the Crew.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The greedy ball player who each night figures out his batting average, or the ground gaining half back who keeps his yardage totaled up to the last inch wouldn't have much fun in the sport of rowing. No outstanding individual glory comes to an oarsman, and this is true even for those on the national championship University of Washington crew, which will meet two eights from the University of Wisconsin on the Lincoln park lagoon Sunday afternoon.

Furthermore, the matter of proselyting never touches the lads who participate in rowing. Again the Huskies can be used as an example. Their crews are home grown right on the campus. There is no high school rowing in Washington, which means that none of those big, lanky Washington lads ever sat in a boat until Al Ulbrickson, the home grown crew coach, sets sight on them as freshmen.

It's the State's Crew.

The Washington crew is something of an institution thruout the state, much in the manner that all Wisconsin claims the Green Bay Packers. From sport fan to professor Washington is "our crew." You never hear mention of any star oarsmen. The crew works as a unit and is rated as a unit.

Those who follow the fortunes of the Huskies on the water attribute their success in part to George Pocock, veteran builder of racing shells. For 40 years this man has been a master craftsman of crew shells, having built 30 for the Huskies. Attesting to his supremacy in the art, almost all the nation's rowing schools use Pocock shells. Pocock will accompany the Washington crew to Chicago and continue on to Poughkeepsie with the Huskies, who will defend their intercollegiate varsity and jayvee titles in the historic event on the Hudson river on June 25.

Ulbrickson stroked the Washington eights in 1924, 1925, and 1926. The next year he was assistant to Coach Rusty Callow and succeeded to the top job in 1928 when Callow moved on to Pennsylvania, where he still reigns. Ulbrickson's crew won the Olympic games national sprint championship in 1933 and the world's championship in the Olympic games in Berlin three years later.

Walz Is Old Gridder.

Allen Walz, coach of the Badger oarsmen, also had a brilliant athletic career. He played freshmen football at Wisconsin in 1930 and was considered as fine a first year tackle as had ever matriculated there. Even at that time, he was considered still a better oarsman, because of his showing as a member of crews representing the Hun Preparatory school at Princeton, N. J. After his freshman year at Wisconsin, Walz transferred to New York university, where he played three years at tackle for the Violets, captaining them in his senior year.

Walz doubled as crew coach and public speaking instructor at Manhattan college and at one time conducted courses under the direction of Dale Carnegie. He was a member of several champion New York club crews and is now rounding out his first year as Wisconsin coach. Most of his oarsmen, too, are Wisconsin natives.

Begin Racing at 2 o'Clock.

The two events will come in the middle of the Central States Schoolboy Rowing Association regatta program, which will begin at 2 o'clock, bringing together prep oarsmen from Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan, and Pennsylvania. There will be no admission charge. The big water show is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in coöperation with the Lincoln Park Boat club and the recreation division of the Chicago Park district.

Little Flower Girl.

I surely think her mother must have been
The proudest angel up in heaven today—
For when the strains of Lohengrin would begin
Sweet little Rose would shyly lead the way.
I think her mother fondly smiled to see
How every eye turned on her child so fair;
And if perhaps a tear fell wistfully,
That tear was consecrating some one's prayer.
Her copper curls fell softly 'round her eyes—
Those lovely small-girl eyes, so big and bright;
Her gown of gold drew forth admiring sighs

"Some day I'll want a girl as sweet as Rose!"

An Inconsistency.

Nor you nor I can make a blossom grow!
A seed must be corrupted in the earth
Before the first protruding blade will show
An evidence of a new flower's birth;
God lifts a spotless bloom from this decay,
Nor can the wisest scientist explain
How life comes forth out of the lifeless clay
Under God's wand of sunshine and of rain.

And yet what inconsistency to hold
That I shall not be lifted up by God
After this earthly body turns to mould
Like the corrupted seed beneath the sod;
Does God think more of flowers than of me
For whom His blood was shed on Calvary?

Ten Years Ago Today—Rookie Bill Jurges' timely hitting gave the second place Cubs a 4 to 2 victory over Philadelphia.

Nicholson and Leiber Hit Homers; Olsen Hurls.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 10.—The Cubs waited until their sixth 1941 meeting to whip the Giants, but when they did get around to it in the Polo Grounds this afternoon Vern Olsen, Hank Leiber, and the rest of the lads made up for lost time. They were nothing less than brutal as they plastered the New Yorkers, 11 to 0.

First big business was a first inning homer by Leiber with the bases loaded. It was Hank's third home run, all of which have been made in the first inning with runners on the bases.

Today there was no letup after Hank got the boys off to a flying start. In the fifth, Bill Nicholson lifted the ball clear over the towering two deck right field stand with two on base, increasing his runs batted in total to 49 and his homer aggregate to 12. Nicholson has driven in more runs this year than any other major leaguer. Rudy York of the Tigers, American league leader, has knocked in 47 runs.

Gabby Takes a Third Strike.

In accomplishing the Cubs' second shutout of 1941 [Jake Mooty beat the Phillies, 1 to 0, on June 1], Olsen held the Giants to seven hits, all singles.

It was Vern's second success in four decisions and today the Oregon Norwegian looked like the star he was figured to be from the season's start. He was aided materially by four double plays.

The only threat to his shutout came in the seventh. Morrie Arnovich and Joe Orengo led off with singles, and the bases were loaded and none out after Lou Stringer fumbled Bob Sturgeon's toss for a double play try. Gabby Hartnett then made his only appearance against the Cubs in 20 years of National league competition. Gabby was called out on strikes and Dick Bartell, another former Cub, bounced into a double play.

The game enabled the Cubs, who have won four of their last five games, to move within a game of the Giants, who entered today's affair in third place. The Reds, by beating Boston, passed the Giants.

McGee Keeps on Losing.

Bill McGee, whom the Giants got from the Cardinals in a swap for Harry Gumbert, pitched the first seven innings for his sixth loss against no victories. McGee suffered

They Couldn't Catch This Fox at Crete Track

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Neville Dunn, Lexington sports writer, bought a yearling from Ben Jones last fall, named him Little Red Fox, and then sat back and hoped. Yesterday he learned that maybe he's got something. For Little Red Fox, racing at odds of 8 to 1 against a field which had both speed and class, came up in the stretch to beat Butch Covington's highly regarded Kirwin by two and a half lengths in a five furlong allowance event at Lincoln Fields. Kirwin had run second to Al Sabath's fleet colt, Alsab, in the $5,000 Joliet stakes a week ago Saturday.

Trainer J. M. Goode, who has brought Little Red Fox up to winning form during the month the youngster has been under his care, said that on the basis of yesterday's performance this Missouri bred gelding probably will be pointed for the Arlington Juvenile stakes.

His Optimism Cools.

Dunn, who directs Little Red Fox's campaign by long distance telephone from the sports desk of a Lexington newspaper, faltered just a little in his optimism about a week ago. Like all owners of juveniles, he had hoped he had a Futurity winner when he sent his horse to the post for the first time at Keeneland in April. But as the weeks went by and Little Red Fox didn't win, Dunn decided that maybe he was worth only about $2,500 after all.

Accordingly, he authorized Goode to enter Little Red Fox in a claiming event at that figure last Wednesday. Running with a price tag on him for the first time, Little Red Fox overcame some bad breaks of racing luck and won by a nose. He got safely back to the barn without being claimed and his owner, flushed with new hope by the youngster's first victory, decided he wouldn't take that risk again.

Yesterday Little Red Fox made a big step up in class with stake horses such as Kirwin, Omathon, and other fast ones in the field of six. Warren Yarberry, who had ridden Little Red Fox in that winning effort last week, had the mount on him again.

Jockey Rides Perfectly.

From start to finish Yarberry never made a mistake. When Bird High batted out from the gate at top speed, Kirwin went right on to force the pace, but Yarberry took Little Red Fox in hand and rated him along in third place on the swing around the bend. At the head of the stretch Bird High had opened up a two length lead over Kirwin and the latter was another three in advance of Little Red Fox.

Bird High was thru soon after the stretch drive began and Kirwin took command. In the last furlong Little Red Fox came alongside the leader. Just for a few strides they hooked up in a head and head duel, then Little Red Fox drew out nicely and was running easily as he went over the line two and a half lengths in the lead. J. D. Weil's Halchow took third money.

YANKS FEAST ON RIGNEY'S HOME RUN BALL, 8 TO 3

Move Into 2d Place in Series Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

John Dungan Rigney, devotee of the home run ball, displayed his favorite art to the Yankees yesterday, with customary results. Johnny lingered long enough to be smacked with two homers which drove in six runs. This provided the bulk of an 8 to 3 margin with which the Yankees lowered the White Sox into fourth place and moved up to second. It was the fifth time this year Rigney has failed to prove there is any deception attached to his round trip pitch.

From the foregoing it doubtless is obvious that the Yankees heartily agree with the draft board which has postponed Rigney's induction because it "would work unusual hardship."

It's an Old Complaint.

Rigney, of course, wasn't to blame for all the grief laden happenings in the series' opener. His associates, who, after sneaking in to first place 10 days ago, were overcome by a hitless fever, had another bad afternoon. A lad named Steven Peek, nursed at the Yanks' Newark farm after prepping at St. Lawrence university, held them to one hit for eight innings. But they waxed a bit rough with him in the ninth, notching five hits and scoring three runs.

Rigney kept his affairs in order for five innings. Then various incidents in the sixth filled the bases. One of the incidents permitted a run to score, leaving the bases loaded. Frankie Crosetti cleaned 'em up with his first home run of the season. In the next inning Charley Keller unveiled his 10th homer for two runs in a three run rally that concluded Rigney's appearance with 11 hits and 4 passes. Joe Haynes finished the thankless task, and altho he was the victim of three hits and issued a pass, he permitted no scoring.

Peek Is Tough.

Rigney's homer mania, a weakness for throwing 'em too good when the count is against him, now has been helpful to various enemies on 11 occasions. He lost his first start May 7 because Ted Williams of the Bostons hit a pair out of the park. He beat the same team a few days later despite two homers. The Browns also whipped him with the help of two homers. Then a few days ago he went four innings against Boston, surrendering three more homers good for six runs.

Henrich opened the woeful sixth with a single and went to second when DiMaggio grounded to Lodigiani. Keller beat out a slow bounder to Webb. Rigney passed Dickey, loading the bases. Gordon hammered a grounder at Appling and the ball took an unexpected hop, plunking him in the Adam's apple for a single, Henrich scoring. Then with the count 2 to 0, Crosetti spanked his homer into the left field seats, rounding out the five to nothing lead.

That Terrible Sixth.

Rigney's distress in the seventh inning didn't set in until, with one out, DiMaggio singled off Lodigiani's glove, thus running his hitting streak thru 25 consecutive games. Rigney got behind while working on Keller, so he tried to slip over a cripple. Altho a left handed hitter, Keller plastered it into the left field stand. Dickey then singled, went to second on a passed ball and scored on Gordon's single to left.

Thru the first eight innings Myril Hoag was the only White Sox able to boast of a hit off Peek, but the latter profited by brilliant fielding. Then with one out in the ninth, Jim Webb singled for the second hit, only to be forced by Appling. Kuhel, Chapman, Lodigiani, and Kreevich came thru with singles in order and that's how the three runs were scored.

Eddie [Lefty] Smith, who held the Yankees to one run the last time he faced them, will try to do as well this afternoon in the second game of the series in Comiskey park. The White Sox will face Spud Chandler.

RIGNEY GRANTED DRAFT DELAY ON PAY "HARDSHIP"

State Director Seeks a Reversal of Order.

temporary deferment while the Sox were in training in Pasadena, Cal., on the ground that he had ear trouble. When the team returned to Chicago, however, River Forest draft board psysicians declared him to be physically fit.

One Brother to Go.

At the Rigney home it was said that a brother, Edward, 22, an accountant, would report for duty June 20, when Rigney originally was supposed to report, and that another brother, Thomas, an office worker, 27, had been deferred because of a physical disability. Both Edward and Thomas are unmarried.

The River Forest board released a voluminous report on the Rigney case when questioned last night.

A. F. Seegers, board chairman, who made a detailed answer to questioning by Armstrong on the case, said Rigney asked for a deferment in accordance with amendment No. 26 of the selective service act, an amendment providing that in any case "where unusual hardship will otherwise result" a 60 days' deferment may be granted, subject to further postponement upon good cause.

Board Tells of Plea.

"The registrant appeared before the board June 3 and made a request for a temporary postponement . . . on the grounds that he would lose 4-11ths of his annual pay," the board's report said. "He is paid twice a month for five and one-half months from April to the end of September. In addition, his contract includes a clause whereby he is to receive a bonus if he wins a certain number of games a season.

"He further stated that he had talked to Buddy Lewis and Cecil Travis of the Washington team and that they either had or expected to be granted a similar postponement.

"The board [River Forest] decided to grant the postponement requested. In arriving at our decision we felt that a loss of salary or probable bonus for 60 days was an unusual individual hardship on any man and that the army would suffer no loss because of the postponement, as he will be just as valuable in the capacity of a trainee 60 days from now.

Consistent Rulings Sought.

"We further felt that to be consistent with the treatment accorded other registrants in this board he was entitled to have the request granted.

"In none of these cases was the financial loss as great as in Rigney's case."

[The cases in question were those of a part owner of a gas station, given time to liquidate his holding; a fruit peddler, given time to sell his truck or turn the business over to some one else, and that of a man whose firm would pay the difference between his civilian and army pay only after he had been working six months. This man won postponement to enable him to meet this requirement.]

"With reference to the fact that nearly every registrant suffers a financial loss when inducted," the draft board continued, "we felt that in most other cases the loss the individual suffers is the same for any 60 day period, since the income is spread over 12 months, whereas in Rigney's case it is spread over only 5½ months.

"While we appreciate there probably will be some criticism of selective service in granting this deferment, there also would be some unfavorable comments if it were not granted."

The report added that David J. A. Hayes, a government draft appeal agent, was present when the Rigney case was being considered and approved the action.

Amplifies Board Statement.

Seegers amplified the draft board's statement last night. He said he and his associate members had not been acquainted previously with Rigney and were not White Sox fans. He added that the board had deferred only Rigney and the others mentioned in the lengthy explanation on the ground immediate induction would unduly harm them financially.

He was asked to elaborate on his formal statement that "there probably will be some criticism of selective service in granting this deferment."

"It's because of Rigney's prominence," Seegers said. "There wouldn't be any criticism if you newspaper guys would lay off. We considered it fair to give him the deferment."

June Quota 56 Men.

Seegers said the June quota for River Forest was 56 men. Seegers said amendment No. 26 provided that another postponement could be requested at the end of 60 days.

"Wouldn't the same argument he presented this time be valid then?" he was asked.

"He can apply again if he likes," was the reply.

"Has the board any idea what its decision would be in that event?" Seegers was asked.

"We have not discussed it," he said.

He was asked why Rigney stood in a different position from Greenberg and other ball players.

"Maybe they didn't ask deferment," he replied.

Armstrong made a brief statement on his reaction to the case:

"I am a White Sox fan," he said, "and a real admirer of Rigney. However, regardless of my personal feeling I am bound to carry out my duties as prescribed by law and laid down by my superiors."

Before receiving the deferment Rigney made a radio appearance with Maj. E. Mann Hartlett, state medical director for selective service in Cook county, in which he expressed willingness to enter the army.

COAST CIRCUIT UPHOLDS BAN ON 22 FRESHMEN

Atherton said the faculty men heard a review of seven of the eight cases at Stanford and of three of the four cases at Washington State where players were declared ineligible for enrolling in a manner in violation of the Atherton purity code.

No reviews were asked by Oregon in its six cases, or by Oregon State and Washington, who each lost two athletes. Atherton said it was unlikely those schools would press for a hearing.

The statement asserted "the activities of representatives of organized baseball on the campuses of the pacific coast will, unless some curb is placed upon them by appropriate legislation by the officials of the national game, result eventually in deterioration of the college game to the detriment of the professional sport itself."

ALLOT ILLINOIS SEVEN PLACES IN PGA FIELD

Hold Trials on Monday at Brookwood.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association of America has been allotted seven places in the national tournament of the organization, probably the most interesting match play battle in the game, year in and year out. The tournament proper will be decided over the Cherry Hills course in Denver, Colo., scene of the 1938 National Open, from July 7 thru July 13.

Eddie Gayer, tournament chairman of the Illinois section, said the Illinois qualifying rounds for the National will be held Monday at the Brookwood Country club, over the 36 hole medal play route. Two members of the Illinois section, Dick Metz and Horton Smith, will be exempt from the sectional trials by reason of their records in the tourney. Smith will retain his membership in this group until the fall, when he will report to his new post at Pinehurst, N. C. An entry fee of $5 will be charged for the rounds at Brookwood. Only those members who were in good standing as of May 20 will be eligible to compete. Gayer requests early filing of entries so that pairings may be made.

Today brings the first crowded program in the Chicago District Golf association's 1941 schedule. Three invitational events—the Beverly Revel, the Ridgemoor Jabberwalk, and the Sunset Ridge Stampede are on the calendar, as well as the opening session of the South District league at Calumet.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., definitely will play in the fourth Chicago Open tournament, to be held at the Elmhurst Country club on July 18, 19, and 20. Hogan made one of the best finishes the National Open ever has seen last Saturday at Fort Worth, a 68-70 that earned him a tie for third place, but came too late to catch Craig Wood's brilliant pair of par 70's on the same day. Hogan's 68 was the lowest round of the tournament.

Members of the Chicago Coal Merchants association will hold their first golf tournament of the year June 18 at Flossmoor Country club, home course of the group's president, Charles P. Thompson. The association's calendar also lists tournaments at Acacia Country club for July 16 and at Tam O'Shanter club for Aug. 13.

Baseball's Men in Blue

CHICAGO sports fans have seen Bill Stewart oftener in the last half dozen years or so than any other National league umpire. That's because they greet him at Wrigley field in the summer time and at a majority of the hockey games in the winter time.

Bill Stewart.

We have written more about Bill in his hockey phase, especially while he was manager of the Blackhawks and led them to the Stanley Cup, also when he bawled out a certain millionaire hockey magnate. Another time we touched on Bill's past in last winter's brawl game in which Giacomo Orlando, Detroit hockey player, slugged a couple of heckling gay fellows. This will be about Bill's baseball career.

Bill was born in Fitchburg, Mass., in 1895. Bill's umpiring partner, Tom Dunn, makes Fitchburg his residence, tho Bill doesn't live there any more. He resides in Dorchester, Mass., such times as he's able to get home, which isn't often, what with his baseball and hockey roamings and trips to visit his son Bill Jr., a football, baseball, and hockey player who has just finished his sophomore year at Notre Dame.

Bill Sr. started his pro baseball career in 1913 as a pitcher in the New England league. He was in the International league in 1917 until he went into army service. He had a trial with the White Sox in 1919, then became a teammate of Joe McCarthy's on the Louisville Colonels. Bill was a pitcher until 1930, then launched his umpiring career in the Eastern league. He was sold by the New York-Penn league in the 1933 season to the National league.

all the damage. Johnny Wittig pitched the last two innings.

There were two strikes on Leiber when he hit his homer, scoring behind Stan Hack, who had singled, and Dom Dallessandro and Augie Galan, both of whom had walked. Hack and Dallessandro also were base runners in the fifth when Nicholson delivered his home run swat. Stan had forced Olsen and Dallessandro was on after getting another walk. The fourth and fifth runs of the inning came when Clyde McCullough singled after Galan had walked and Leiber had singled.

Dallessandro's fly in the sixth scored Olsen, who had opened with a single. With McCullough on third and Stringer on first as a result of singles in the seventh, they executed a double steal for the 11th run.

STEINMETZ AND FARRAGUT NINES GAIN PREP FINAL

Steinmetz of the west section and Farragut of the Central section will meet in Comiskey park Saturday for the baseball championship of the Chicago Public High School league.

Steinmetz dropped Lane Tech, in recent years almost perennial champion, 8 to 7, in one semi-final game yesterday, while Farragut scored twice in the ninth to beat Schurz, 6 to 5, in the other.

Two runs in the eighth gave Steinmetz its triumph. Pitcher Bob Possehl singled in this inning, Dan Canadeo walked, Len Ozakewski struck out, and Russ Adams walked to fill the bases. A wild throw on Fred Marsh's grounder to third then brought in the tying and winning runs.

Farragut's final runs were gifts after the central section team had filled the bases on two singles and a walk. Interference by the catcher sent Divas to first to force in one run and Mark was hit by a pitched ball to bring in the other.

MUTUAL SEES NO THREAT TO RADIO IN FCC'S ORDERS

Recalls Roosevelt Son's Attempted Grab.

Washington, D. C., June 10 [Special].—The Mutual Broadcasting system does not believe the federal communications commission order directed against radio monopoly will have any "disastrous effects" in the future of the broadcasting industry, it was testified today by Louis G. Caldwell, counsel to the network.

Caldwell appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee's hearing on the resolution of Senator Wallace White [R., Me.] to hold up the report pending a study of its effects.

Offers to Take Programs.

Caldwell said that Mutual would welcome the opportunity to broadcast any programs which the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system decided to abandon because of the FCC order.

Both NBC and Columbia had asserted prior to the hearing that they would be forced to give up many sustaining programs if the commission's order were executed.

Explains Mutual's Course.

Caldwell said that Mutual signed exclusive contracts with its affiliates, a practice which the commission has outlawed, only after the proposed Transcontinental Broadcasting company, headed by Elliott Roosevelt, attempted to "take away" some of its stations in 1939.

Fred Weber, Mutual general manager, said that Transcontinental never got on the air.

In response to questions from committee members, Caldwell said that he is convinced the commission had the authority to issue its order and that ultimately NBC and Columbia would consider it "a boon." Caldwell will continue his testimony tomorrow.

Kishwaukee Valley Farm Using Yoke of Texas Oxen

Kirkland, Ill., June 10 [Special].—For the first time in many years, oxen are being put to use in the Kishwaukee valley. C. W. Ault received a pair of oxen from a friend, who shipped them from Texas. They are being used on Ault's farm.

DAY by DAY on the FARM
By GAIL COMPTON

It's Haying Time.

June 10, 1941.

THE farm's perfume factory is ready to swing into production again. It is haying time.

To the farmer and the city man alike there is nothing so sweet as the smell of a freshly mown field of hay. An evening drive thru the countryside during the haying season brings the refreshing odor of sweet clover, newly cut alfalfa, and the sweet sap of bluegrass.

The farm workers recently were talking about a new system for handling hay which may well do away with the "greatest smell on earth" and also may sound the death knell for the old saw "make hay while the sun shines."

Barn Curing Tested.

Farm experts have been experimenting with a method of curing hay in the barn that would make it possible to put the hay in the mow almost immediately after it is cut. They have been seeking a way of replacing the curing powers of the sun with man made machinery, so the farmer will not be dependent upon the weather for the success of the haying season.

During the last two summers a barn hay drying system has been undergoing tests at the University of Georgia. The system consists of a five horse power machine, a centrifugal type blower, and a series of air ducts laid on the floor of the haymow.

From a large air duct down the center of the mow, lateral ducts 8 inches high and 10 inches wide extended into the mow every 5 feet.

The hay was cut in the field as soon as the dew had evaporated. Only enough was cut that could be put up in two or three hours. The hay then was windrowed and allowed to lay in the field three or four hours and then was put into the barn and spread evenly over the air ducts. It was not piled more than six feet in depth at any place at one time.

Blower Removes Heat.

The blower removed the heat and a humidistat registered the amount of moisture in the hay. When the moisture content became too high the blower was turned on. Alfalfa standing in the field has a moisture content of 60 or 70 per cent. To cure the hay with the blower system required dropping the moisture content slightly below 20 per cent.

Some farmers who have built their own driers have found it practical to heat the air that is blown thru the ducts. A furnace and a hot water heating system have been used to warm the air as it is blown into the main air duct.

Barn dried hay still is in its infancy, and a great deal of research work is necessary before a commercially perfect system is devised that will be within reach of the ordinary farmer. As yet there are no driers on the market that the average farmer can afford to put in his barn. Those now in use are homemade systems.

RADIO SECRETLY TESTS FACILITIES FOR EMERGENCY

New York, June 10 (AP).—The National Broadcasting company suspended network services for 15 minutes today to test a plan whereby confidential information during an emergency could be broadcast to private listeners without knowledge of the public.

More than 200 NBC commentators and news men in NBC's affiliated stations tuned in at 12:15 p. m. [E. S. T.] to hear Maj. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr. and Rear Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn explain from Washington the methods of public relations in the war and navy departments. Their remarks were confidential.

Meanwhile, the public listened to local music and news programs without knowing the network had been diverted to private channels.

A. A. Schechter, NBC news director, predicted the plan would be of "great value" to officials who might want to reach their associates quickly in time of war.

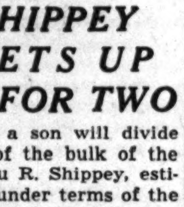
Starred with Edna O'Dell in Musical Show.

John Boles, star of movies, stage, and radio, and Edna O'Dell, W-G-N songstress, will be featured on the second broadcast of the Summertime Revue on W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tonight. The W-G-N Dance orchestra, directed by Harold Stokes, will present old and new melodies, mostly from the ASCAP library.



John Boles.

Miss O'Dell will sing the ballad, "You Stepped Out of a Dream," the rhythm tune, "Ol' Man Mose," and the new song, "Something Came and Got Me in the Spring."

Boles to Sing Film Numbers.

Boles, who has appeared in more than a dozen singing motion pictures, is featured currently at the Chez Paree restaurant.

On tonight's broadcast he will sing two songs which he sang in motion pictures—"Following the Sun Around" from "Rio Rita" and "Waiting at the Gate for Katie" from "Music in the Air."

Turning to a newer melody, Boles will sing a specially arranged version of "My Sister And I," incorporating other melodies which fit the theme of the child-refugee song. Boles also will explain whence the inspiration of this tune came.

Six Violins to Be Featured.

Opening the Summertime Revue, after the introductory theme of "Summertime" from "Porgy and Bess," the orchestra will play "Aurora," a Brazilian melody. Later the six violins of the orchestra will be heard in a novelty, "A Fly In The Fiddle," which will provide a demonstration of fast and intricate fiddle playing.

The revue is under the direction of Lou Jackobson. The script was written by John D. Hess.

BIG ALUMINUM STRIKE SETTLED AT CLEVELAND

Threat of Warplane Tieup Fades.

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—An agreement for settlement of the strike at the Cleveland plants of the Aluminum Company of America was announced tonight by the defense mediation board. Judge Walter P. Stacy, board member, said that production may be resumed tomorrow. The agreement is subject to union ratification.

Stacy said the agreement provided for a general wage increase of 1 cent an hour to all employés in the plant. In addition, added increases of 3 cents an hour will be given to workers on the "second shift," and 5 cents to those on the third, with the exception of employés in continuous process operations. Union and company officials agreed that relatively few employés were engaged in such operations. These additional increases amount to bonuses for night work, it was explained.

Alcoa's Largest Foundry.

The strike involved 5,500 production workers at five plants and had raised a threat of widespread delay in the aircraft industry. The plants, comprising Alcoa's largest foundry division, supply vital aluminum castings for such plane engines as Wright, Pratt & Whitney, and Allison, and make other armament gear.

The company reported about $60,000,000 worth of military orders had been tied up. Any extended delay here would have had serious effects on arms factories elsewhere, a spokesman said.

The CIO Die Casters' union, in calling the strike yesterday, said the company was "stalling" on wage demands and that negotiations sponsored by the national defense mediation board were "getting nowhere." The company has 1,500 employés in addition to those represented by the die casters.

[In Cleveland last night CIO organizers told a massmeeting of workers that they knew nothing of the settlement announced in Washington. A general meeting was called for Wednesday afternoon, but no mention was made of a ratification vote.]

Detroit Work Halted.

Detroit, Mich., June 10 (AP).—A strike by the CIO's United Auto Workers halted production of airplane parts in six plants of the Bohn Aluminum & Brass corporation today. A state labor mediator expressed the belief there would be no settlement before next week.

Strikers agreed to a proposal later today from Leo Lamotte, regional UAW-CIO director, to return to work if the company guarantees "wage adjustments retroactive to yesterday," but Simon D. DenUyl, company secretary-treasurer, said this would be refused.

Bill Would Let Military Import Needs in Duty Free

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—Legislation to permit the importation duty free of articles deemed necessary to the national defense was introduced today by Chairman Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] of the senate military committee at the request of the war department.

A Talk to Parents

President Roosevelt, on October 30, 1940, speaking to fathers and mothers on the selective service act.

"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers I give you one more assurance.

"I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.

"They are going into training to form a force so strong, that by its very existence, it will keep the threat of war far away from our shores.

Currency Mart Control Bill Nears Passage

BY THOMAS FURLONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 10.—A bill for state regulation of currency exchanges, of which there are more than 300 operating in Chicago alone, today neared final passage in the senate.

Handling millions of dollars weekly and performing quasi banking functions, the currency exchanges now operate free of public regulation. The business has flourished because of the lack of banking facilities in many metropolitan and smaller downstate communities. The exchanges got their start after the banking troubles of the early '30s which left many communities without banking facilities of any kind.

Bars Acceptance of Deposits.

Under the terms of the bill the exchanges are strictly limited in the services they may perform for the public and will be under the supervision of the state auditor's office.

The exchanges would be permitted to cash checks, which is their major function at present, and to issue their own money orders. They would be expressly forbidden, however, to accept money for deposit.

As originally written, the bill would have premitted the exchanges in communities of less than 3,000 population to accept deposits if a guarantee bond were furnished to cover the deposits. This provision, strongly opposed by the Illinois Bankers association, was stricken from the bill before its passage in the house May 21 by a vote of 122 to 2. It was introduced in the house by William G. Thon [R., Oak Park].

Some Get Around Bank Law.

Some exchanges, it is claimed, are now performing what amounts to a deposit banking business. They get around the banking laws, it is asserted, by giving their promissory notes to depositors. The transaction is thus not a normal deposit transaction. This practice would be ended, the sponsors claim, by the passage of the bill.

The auditor's office would license all exchanges. A $50 annual license fee, plus certain examination fees are provided for.

The measure has the support of many of the exchange operators. Certain operators, however, have opposed the provision that requires a bond of from $2,500 to $15,000 for the protection of persons who turn over money to the exchanges in return for money orders.

STUDY OF TRADE BATTERS STAND OF WAR SEEKERS

Nazi Europe Would Need U. S. Supplies.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 10.—If the Nazis should retain control of the European continent as a result of this war, the continent would still be forced to import large quantities of raw materials and maintain an active foreign trade. This is the conclusion reached in a special study of Nazi Europe and world trade released tonight by the Brookings institution.

The finding tends to explode the recent arguments of interventionists that the United States must fight Germany or lose her foreign markets, and that Latin America must be protected from German trade relations. The study makes no predictions on the outcome of the war nor effects other than economic.

Needs World Supplies.

The Brookings study, prepared by Dr. Cleona Lewis, analyzes trade movements during 1929 and 1937 and shows that continental Europe under the Nazis, like old Germany itself, relies upon the rest of the world, particularly the western hemisphere, for foodstuffs and raw materials. A Nazi-controled European continent, says the report, would have to import substantially more raw material than did Germany alone.

The study contains detailed analyses of the movements of trade between the Nazi area and other nations and continents, and it shows that the Nazi area buys a larger proportion of western hemisphere exports than any other country or continent. Five of the 10 South American republics sent as much as 40 per cent of their exports to Europe in 1937. This trade included a large proportion of the coffee, cotton, and rubber exported from Brazil; grain, wool, linseed, and meat from Argentina; coffee and oil from Columbia; copper from Chile and Peru; oil from Venezuela, and various other products of smaller aggregate value.

Principal Buyer in U. S.

In 1929, Nazi Europe was the principal market for United States exports, and altho these had declined substantially by 1937, this country still sent 23 per cent of its exports to that area.

"If the Nazi area were to be expanded beyond European boundaries to include all of the Mediterranean countries except Turkey, the economic unit would be somewhat better balanced," a summary of the survey said. "But it would still have to buy large quantities of raw materials and foodstuffs from the rest of the world and to export manufactured goods in payment. Even if Russia were included in the area, the need to import foodstuffs and raw materials would not be greatly reduced, assuming the continuance of

Pipes Handle Most of Crude Oil Movement

Petroleum and its products are moving in substantial amounts on the Mississippi river, but no crude oil reaches Illinois or Indiana refineries over the Illinois waterway, a survey disclosed yesterday. The waterway is, however, utilized for shipments of gasoline, fuel oil and other refined oil products.

While commandeering of boats for aid to Britain has emphasized the rôle of the tanker in transportation of petroleum from wells to refineries, the backbone of the crude supply system still is the pipe line.

Pipes Extend Into Canada.

Pipe lines serve not only numerous inland and lake points in the United States where refineries are located, but also supply a large refinery at Sarnia, Ont. Great Lakes vessel operators report a plentiful supply of oil for fuel purposes is available at Sarnia.

Government figures show that about 25,850,000 barrels of crude oil was carried in 1940 on the Mississippi by barges moving in both directions, with the main movement upbound. Shipments of gasoline on the river totaled about 16,795,000 barrels, and fuel oil movement was about 9,360,000 barrels.

Shipments by Waterways.

Illinois waterway shipments last year were: Gasoline, 5,471,181 barrels; crude oil, none, and fuel oil, 853,219 barrels.

The extent to which the pipe line is the mainstay of the crude oil supply system for refineries is indicated by the figures covering refineries in Illinois and Indiana.

In 1940, Illinois refineries received their crude supply as follows: By pipe line, 69,488,000 barrels; by tank car and truck, 4,330,000 barrels, and by boat, none.

Indiana, with its huge refining facilities centered in the Whiting-East Chicago-Hammond area near Chicago, received 74,105,000 barrels of crude by pipe line last year, only 750,000 barrels by tank car and truck, and none by boat.

For all refineries in the United States, the various transportation systems carried crude supplies in the following proportions: Pipe line, 939,732,00 barerls: boat, 277,589,000 barrels; tank car and truck, 38,990,000 barrels.

Latest available statistics for shipments of petroleum and its products on all of the Great lakes are for the year 1939. They show that in that year 7,868,676 barrels of crude oil, 54,444,236 barrels of gasoline and 16,149,194 barrels of fuel and gas oil were moved by Great lakes vessels. Several of the large refiners in the Chicago area, including Pure Oil company, Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Sinclair interests and others, own or lease vessels which carry gasoline, fuel oil and other oil products to various lake ports. Some also have barges and tugs which move refined products on the Illinois waterway.

The Sarnia refinery has a capacity of 29,000 barrels of crude oil daily. The plant draws crude oil from the mid-continent field in the United States by way of a pipe line which connects with a mid-continent line at Cygnet, O. Imperial Pipe Line company owns the line from Sarnia to the border, and Transit and Storage company, also a subsidiary of Imperial Oil, Ltd., owns the line from the border to Cygnet.

At one time Sarnia received some oil from Venezuela, but that source has been dropped because of the tanker shortage. The Venezuelan oil had been taken by tanker to Marcus Hook, Pa., and routed by pipe line from there on to Sarnia.

Daily average crude oil production in the United States increased 30,600 barrels last week, to 3,816,700 barrels.

Selling Trims Top Gains at Close.

New York, June 10 (AP).—The stock market extended its recovery swing today on the largest volume in more than a month.

Gains for favored steels, motors, rails, farm implements, and specialties ranged from 1 to more than 3 points but a little selling toward the close cut top marks substantially in some instances.

820 Issues Are Traded.

Not only were dealings unusually lively but the market was one of the broadest of the year. Individual issues traded numbered 820 against 695 yesterday when trends were rising. Of the total 566 were up, 94 down, and 160 unchanged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net advance of .6 of a point at 41.4, highest level since April 7. Except for one slight recession, the composite has been rising since June 2. Transfers of 825,780 shares compared with 440,040 Monday and were the best since May 6.

How Unwilling Sellers
Found Willing Buyers - for a Great Cause

Several months ago the investment world was set agog by the announcement that Britain, in order to acquire funds for needed purchases, would dispose of British-held American common stocks in the American market. Since then more than $400,000,000 of such securities have been distributed by investment firms, including ourselves.

To preclude unwarranted sacrifice of values which might have been the inevitable result of offering such large blocks of securities in the open market, the facilities of investment firms like ours were called upon to aid in fast, orderly distribution. Thanks to the cooperation of the New York and other Stock Exchanges, these securities found their way to American investors both on the Exchange and through "off the board" transactions. Thus unwilling sellers found willing buyers - and for a great cause.

The ready demand for these stocks prompted us to prepare analyses of 15 companies - the backbone of American industry - whose stocks figured in the British liquidation:

AMERICAN VISCOSE*
BETHLEHEM STEEL
CHESAPEAKE & OHIO RY.
GENERAL ELECTRIC
GENERAL FOODS
GREAT NORTHERN RY.
KENNECOTT COPPER
NATIONAL DAIRY PROD.
PENNSYLVANIA R. R.
SAFEWAY STORES
SEARS ROEBUCK
TEXAS CORPORATION
U. S. STEEL
F. W. WOOLWORTH

The attractiveness of these stocks from an investment viewpoint may be judged from the fact that a portfolio consisting of only one share of each, having a market value of approximately $557, would yield 6.8% based on 1940 dividends (except in case of American Viscose and Great Northern Railway, which are taken on basis of last dividend payments at annual rates of $2 per share).

If you would like to receive one or all of these analyses, without obligation, you are invited to write, telephone or call at our office.

Sincerely yours,

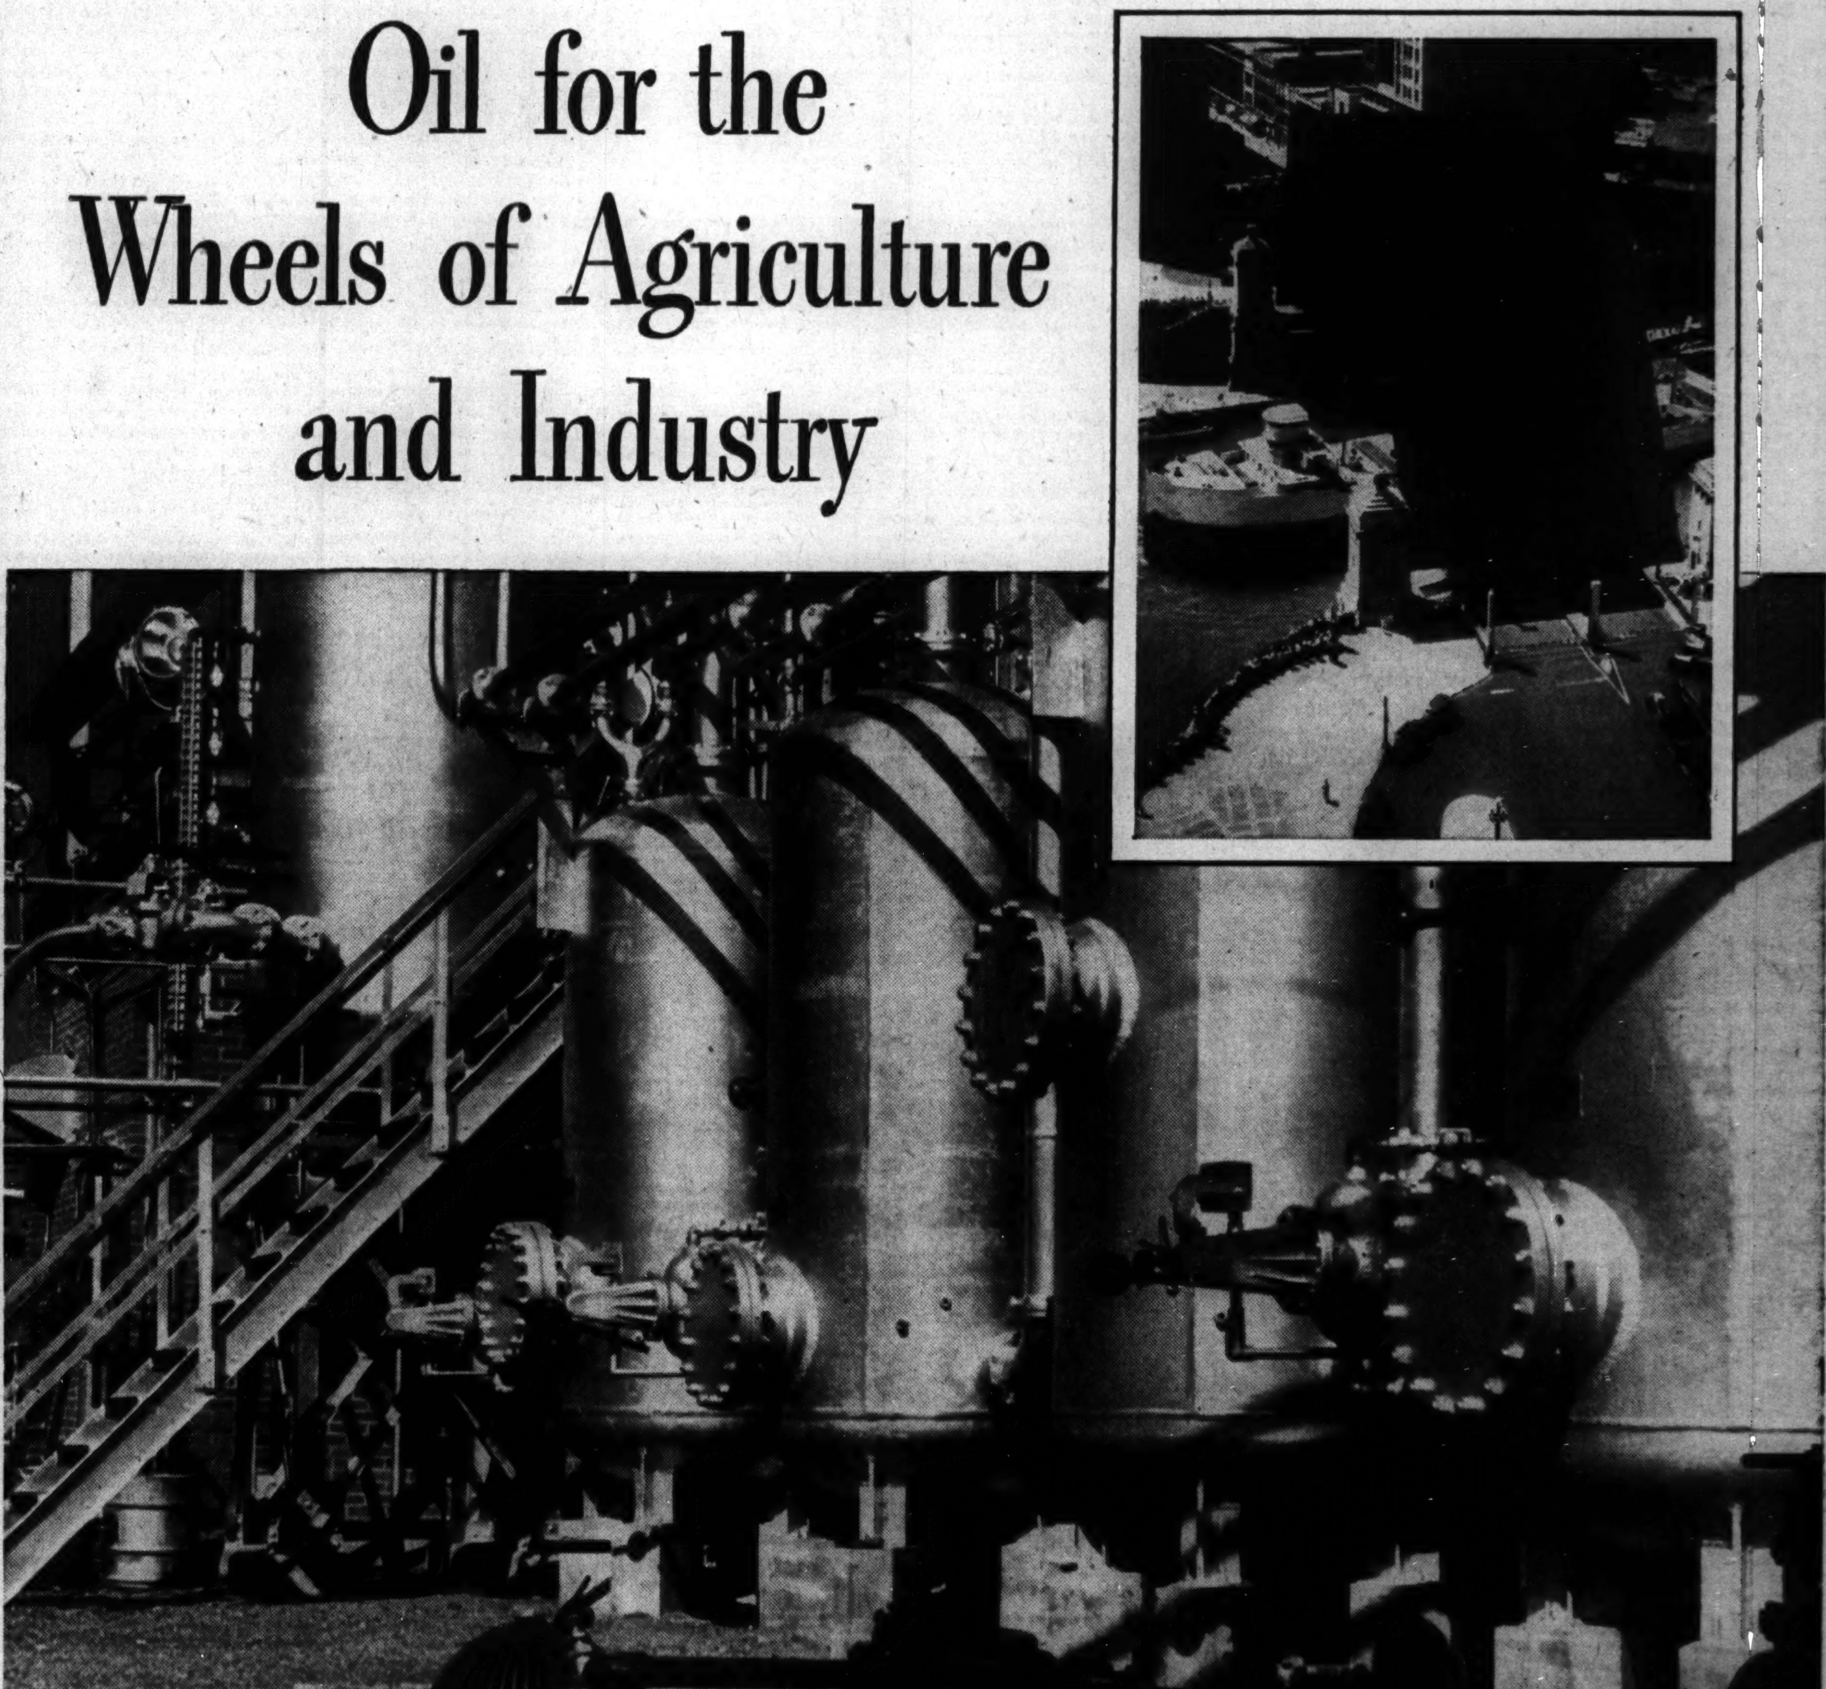
Oil for the Wheels of Agriculture and Industry



FOR years the Chicago area has been one of the leading oil refining centers in America. Its location is central and strategic—with pipe lines from producing fields, and a network of rail and water transport to the vast agricultural, commercial and industrial markets of the Middle West.

Refineries in the Chicago industrial area pay out over $13,000,000 in wages annually. They spend in excess of $169,000,000 for materials, fuel, electrical energy and contract work. The annual value of their finished products is more than $225,000,000. Year by year the refining industry has contributed increasingly to Chicago's progress.

Now, more than ever, all America depends on the lubricants, oil, gasoline and other products derived from petroleum. In meeting these needs, the Chicago area is playing an important part. And the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company takes this means of recognizing the achievements of another basic industry.

ington to crush armament strikes. In addition, bullishness was bolstered by growing indications congress may put out a tax program suitable to industry. Business developments served as a prop, especially the disclosure that United States Steel's May shipments established a new record for any month.

United States Steel common lost most of its run-up of the morning, finishing ahead ¼ at 56½. Prominent on the upside were Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Montgomery Ward, Eastman Kodak, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, American Can, and International Harvester.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Two issues reached new highs for the year in a broad rise on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Transfers rose to 29,000 shares from 12,000 on Monday. Of 100 issues traded, 72 advanced, 13 declined, and 15 closed unchanged.

The price peaks were recorded by Miller & Hart common, closing on its high of 1¼, up ⅛, and the convertible preferred of the same company, also ending at its top of 16, up ¼.

Three dually listed issues showed changes from the New York exchange close during trading from 2 to 2:30 o'clock. They were Commonwealth Edison at 26⅝, up ⅛; Peoples Gas, 39, up ½, and United States Steel, 56⅝, up ⅛.

BONDS SHARE IN RISE

November railroad loans pushed up major fractions to more than a point, the entire corporate list was dotted with gainers of fractions, and some specialties added 2 or more. United States government obligations and foreign issues remained quiet and mixed.

Total transfers of $8,102,300, face value, were the highest since May 12 and compared with $4,881,400 Monday.

SEC ISSUES NEW ORDER IN MIDDLE WEST CORP. CASE

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today ordered a corporate simplification proceeding against the Middle West corporation, top unit in the $500,000,000 holding company system which embodies much of what once was the Insull utilities empire.

The action also named two subsidiaries, Northwest Utilities and Wisconsin Power and Light company. A geographic integration proceeding is pending against the entire Middle West system.

The companies were ordered to submit replies by June 24 and a hearing was set for July 9. The proceeding was instituted, the SEC said, to determine whether existence of Northwest unnecessarily complicated the holding company system.

Air Line's Traffic in May Aided by Arms Program

Expansion of national armament traffic over its transcontinental and Pacific coast system was reflected in a gain of more than 36 per cent in revenue passenger miles flown during May compared with April, the United Air Lines reported yesterday. The line estimated 24,924,000 revenue miles were flown last month, against 18,213,497 in April and 20,798,794 in May, 1940.

COTTON

Cash cotton prices closed .09 to .22 cent higher with New York at 14.21 cents a lb: New Orleans, 13.38 cents; Houston, 13.28 cents, and Galveston, 13.26 cents a lb. Futures prices follow:

U. S. PRODUCTION OF MEAT IN MAY SETS NEW RECORD

Nearly 7 Million Animals Are Slaughtered.

Meat production in the United States last month soared to the highest May volume in history, it was disclosed at the stockyards yesterday. The department of agriculture placed the total number of animals butchered in plants under federal inspection at 6,983,245 cattle, calves, hogs, and sheep.

This huge slaughter represented an output of approximately 1,319,000,000 pounds of beef, veal, pork, lard, and lamb meat, market experts at the yards estimated. It was an increase of 120 million pounds or 9 per cent over the large output a year ago. The total stood 507 million pounds, or 62 per cent above the June, 1937, production, a year when meat output fell to record lows as a result of drouths and government curtailment programs.

Cattle Total a Record.

Beef showed the largest increase. Packers butchered 907,542 cattle, a record total for May. This compared with 795,807 a year ago. The 1937 total was 744,604. The calf total was 501,467 head, against 500,849 last year.

Butchering of hogs reached a total of 4,023,021 head, compared with 3,890,182 a year ago, and a low of 2,098,590 in May, 1937. The sheep and lamb total at 1,551,215 head, the second largest for May on record, compared with 1,420,186 last year.

All animals except hogs have been slaughtered in larger numbers during the first five months of 1941 than in these months last year. Packers handled 4,074,770 cattle during the five months, the largest for that period on record.

Hog Total Below 1940.

The hog total, at 19,976,920, compared with 21,114,372 a year ago, but was larger than any other five months since 1933.

Live stock killed in plants under federal inspection in the United States:

1941 WHEAT CROP ESTIMATED 12% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Hike Winter Production 45 Million Bushels.

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—A 1941 wheat crop of 910,699,000 bushels, surpassed only five times in the country's history, was said by the department of agriculture today to be indicated by conditions June 1. However, reports have told of some local damage from excessive rains since then.

The indicated crop would be 12 per cent larger than last year's 816,698,000 bushels and far above a 1930-'39 average of 747,507,000 bushels.

Winter Crop Total Raised.

The estimate included 697,692,000 bushels of winter wheat and 213,007,000 bushels of spring wheat. For the former, this was an increase of 45,000,000 bushels over the estimate of a month ago and compares with last year's production of 589,151,000 bushels. It was the first forecast on spring wheat.

If borne out, the department's forecast would give the country a total supply of nearly 1,300,000,000 bushels—including a surplus of about 385,000,000 bushels from previous crops—to meet a normal need of about 700,000,000 bushels.

Rye production is indicated as 44,828,000 bushels, compared with 45,623,000 bushels a month ago, 40,601,000 bushels last year, and 38,472,000 bushels, the 10 year average.

Indicated production of oats is 1,117,419,000 bushels, based on March 1 reported prospective plantings and the June 1 condition. The crop was 1,235,628,000 bushels last year.

GRAIN TRADING LAGS

Grain prices closed irregularly lower yesterday in a quiet session as traders awaited the department of agriculture's estimate of 1941 grain production, made public after the close of the market. Price ranges in most cases were narrow. Public interest was almost totally absent.

Wheat finished ⅜ to ½ cent a bushel lower after rallies started by eastern operators failed to bring in any substantial support.

Corn sold thruout the session at about ⅛ to ¼ cent a bushel under the close of the preceding day. Offerings were scarce most of the day.

Oats futures closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher while rye futures were ⅛ to ½ cent lower. Strength in the cottonseed oil market was reflected by lard and soy bean futures. Soy beans closed ⅜ cent lower to 1¼ cents higher.

CASH GRAIN

Receipts of cash grain in Chicago yesterday were: Wheat, 11 cars; corn, 41 cars; oats, 13 cars; barley, 6 cars, and soy beans, 10 cars. Cash grain prices in the leading markets follow:

PORK CONTINUES ADVANCE TO NEW FOUR YEAR HIGHS

Loins Up 19 Per Cent in Last 10 Days.

Wholesale markets for fresh pork rose 50 cents a hundred pounds more at the stock yards yesterday, to new four year highs for the month of June. The advance reflected competition from government purchases for Great Britain. Retail butcher shop owners paid up to $21.50 for top light loins of pork, an increase of $3.50, or 19 per cent in 10 days. This price was $8 higher than a year ago, a gain of 59 per cent.

Other Cuts Up More.

Pork shoulders that wholesaled yesterday at $17 to $17.50 a hundred pounds were $7.50 over the same day in 1940, representing gains of 75 to 78 per cent. Butts at $19.50 to $20 were $8.50 to $9 over last year, increases of 73 to 85 per cent.

Further gains in fresh pork stimulated buying of hogs at steady to 10 cents higher prices. Altho the $9.65 top failed to equal the 1941 peak of $9.70 a hundred pounds established Monday, most purchases were made at 5 to 10 cents higher prices than on Monday. The average for the day moved up 5 cents, to $9.45, a new four year high for a June average. This price compared with $5 a year ago.

Cattle Steady to Strong.

Most steers and yearlings sold steady. Heifers and bulls were strong. Beef cows, canners, and cutters sold steady. Calves advanced 25 to 50 cents.

Lamb prices slumped 25 cents, with top new crop natives at $13 a hundredweight. Top old ewes sold for slaughter at $4.75. Some ewe lambs went to farmers for breeding at $8.50.

JONES-LAUGHLIN STEEL PROPOSES CAPITAL REVISION

Would Clear Up Arrears on Preferred Stock.

New York, June 10 (AP).—Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation notified its stockholders and the Securities and Exchange commission today that it desired a complete revamping of its capital structure.

H. E. Lewis.

H. E. Lewis, chairman of the board, called the shareholders to a special meeting July 22 at Pittsburgh to vote on proposals for:

1. Merger into the corporation of two subsidiaries, Vesta Coal company and Shannopin Coal company.

2. Conversion into new securities of the outstanding $58,713,600 par value of present 7 per cent preferred stock, including accrued dividends of $45.75 a share, and of the outstanding 576,320 shares of present common stock.

No Payments Since 1931.

No dividends have been paid on the common stock since 1931 and no full dividends have been paid on the preferred since 1932. Directors today announced a dividend of $1.25 on arrears, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 19.

The plan provides for the exchange, share for share, of new common stock [no par value] for present common stock and the exchange of each share of present 7 per cent preferred for:

One-half share of new 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock, series A [$100 par]; one-half share of new 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock, series B, convertible [$100 par], and one and one-quarter shares of new common stock. The B preferred shares each would be convertible into three shares of common.

Plans Immediate Dividends.

"The new preferred stock is cumulative from July 1, 1941, and it is the intention of the board of directors, upon consummation of the merger, to inaugurate dividends on the new preferred stock beginning with the first quarterly payment date and at the same time to inaugurate dividends on the new common stock."

Nation's Radio Makers Face Their Big Problem: Priorities

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Government priorities will be the number one problem of all civilian industries until the emergency is over, the Radio Manufacturers' association was told yesterday by Paul V. Galvin, chairman of the RMA priorities committee, at the opening of the radio industry's convention in the Stevens hotel.

"It's going to be a bigger headache as time goes on," Galvin warned. "The greater the expansion of production of the defense efforts, the tighter the squeeze will be on civilian industries."

The confusion in Washington over rearmament, he said, threatens to engulf civilian industry with resultant unemployment and suffering to labor. The curtailment in nickel and aluminum, he said, will bring much stoppage unless this bottleneck is solved.

Radio Called Potent Weapon.

Galvin and James S. Knowlson, president of RMA, both asserted that radio is a potent weapon of preparedness and deserves recognition as an essential industry. With regard to priorities radio has been ranked as "nonessential," resulting in drastic curtailment of metal allotments, particularly aluminum, to the industry.

Knowlson said that radio now occupies a luxury rating in the priorities scale, placing it midway between toothpaste and hair tonic.

One thing that is all important in the preparedness program, said Galvin, is communications. "In a crisis, disaster or emergency, speed and reliability of getting information to the people is all important," he said.

Use of Substitutes Urged.

Galvin demanded a more realistic attitude on the part of the radio industry toward the future. With greater consumer demand the industry will face still greater curtailments in materials, he said, and he warned against unbalanced inventories and strongly urged the development and use of substitutions. He urged the appointment of a joint radio engineering committee to seek possible substitutes.

Knowlson stressed the importance of radio engineers and technicians to the armed services and said their services would be lost if the radio industry continues to be classified as nonessential.

Col. Thomas L. Clark, chief procurement officer of the signal corps in the Chicago area, told the RMA that bottlenecks in radio defense orders could be worked out if there were greater collaboration among various manufacturers. He also suggested pooling of engineers.

RAILS DECLARE WAGE DEMANDS ARE TOO SEVERE

Means 'Return to Depths of the Depression.'

Railway labor's demands for wage increases and adjustments in working conditions, made formally yesterday to the nation's carriers, were countered last night with a management spokesman's assertion that meeting the demands would plunge the railroads "to, if not below, the depths of the depression."

C. E. Johnston, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, replied to the demands of 1,150,000 employés organized in 19 union groups, who were joined by 3,500 red caps and train porters.

770 Millions Asked.

"The employés have asked the railroads for wage increases averaging more than 41 per cent and amounting, in the aggregate, to about 770 million dollars a year. It is obvious that nothing in the present situation of the railroad industry or of the nation as a whole justified these exorbitant demands. It is equally obvious that the railroads cannot meet them.

"While earnings have recently, and perhaps temporarily, improved because of the increased volume of defense traffic moving, the placing of any such additional wage burden upon the carriers would return them to, if not below, the depths of the depression.

Union Ground for Increase.

There has been no overall estimate of the increase from union sources, but spokesmen have termed the management's estimates exaggerated. The unions contend their requests are justified by increases in the cost of living and other factors.

Altho representatives of the five operating and fourteen nonoperating unions rely ultimately on the threat of a national strike to win their demands, elaborate machinery has been provided under the railway mediation law to prevent such a tieup.

Nazi Europe Would Need U. S. Goods.

"The whole area's net imports of food and raw materials have been considerably larger than its net exports of manufacturers, the excess being 1.6 billion dollars in 1929, and 1.3 billions in 1937."

The study said that in the past this gap between exports and imports had been bridged by other receipts such as tourist trade and emigrant remittances, shipping earnings, insurance, and commissions. A Nazi régime in Europe would be expected to cut the income from the latter sources, but the study observed that German trade in recent years had been a cumbersome process and the system would have to be altered in many ways before it could be applied to the large area of Nazi Europe.

Requires Outside Materials.

"Without large importation of food and feedstuffs, Nazi Europe's diet would not only become much more monotonous than in the past, but there probably would be a shortage of cereals and a very serious deficiency of fats," the study said.

"Without imported raw materials from fields and forests outside the area, the wheels of industry would turn slowly. Unless industrial minerals were imported, the area's manufacturing, mining, transportation, communications, and even agriculture would be severely handicapped.

"Nazi Europe's exports are wanted, but are not indispensable. Barring the use of force, her position in world markets will be as weak or as strong as her capacity to pay for the goods she needs. Clearly this is an issue whose outcome cannot be dictated entirely by Nazi Europe."

STOCK WINTER'S COAL NOW, U. S. URGES CONSUMER

Warns 'Grave Shortage' May Develop Soon.

Washington, D. C., June 10 (AP).—Anticipating "very grave danger of a shortage" of coal next winter, the government urged householders thruout the country tonight to "buy winter coal now."

At the same time Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes said definitely that easterners "will have to get along with less gasoline for their cars and probably less oil to heat their homes."

Shortages are threatened not by lack of supplies but by the demands the armament program is making on transportation facilities.

Be Cool and Healthy—Ickes.

Ickes, as petroleum coördinator, proposed in a formal statement that "all of us" reduce gasoline consumption.

"All of us can give up some pleasure driving," he said. "We will be glad to make such a small sacrifice. I also suggest that each of us see that his oil burner is in good condition. It will be healthier too, and more economical if we keep our homes a little cooler next winter."

Warns Against Price Hikes.

The appeal to "buy winter coal now" was issued by Paul Sifton, acting director of the Consumers Counsel, a government agency established to protect bituminous coal users. He said that "it is extremely important to get this coal moved this summer. If consumers do not buy now they may be in trouble later."

The counsel warned against "panicky buying at high prices," saying that reports had been received of price jumps up to 35 and 40 cents a ton in some eastern fields.

FUEL OIL FIRMS ASSERT MIDWEST HAS ALL IT NEEDS

Aroused over the curtailment of their business since Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes raised the alarm of prospective "gasless Sundays," a group of Chicago area oil burner manufacturers and fuel oil distributors acted yesterday to assure home owners of plentiful supplies.

Frank E. Spencer, president of the Burning Oil Distributors' association, called a meeting of manufacturer and distributor representatives in the Auditorium hotel, and announced the group had agreed, after studying conditions of production and distribution, that the emergency feared by Ickes was confined to the east.

"A survey of the fuel oil supply situation in the Chicago area demonstrates that there is and, according to the present outlook, will be plenty of oil available," he said. "This applies not only to present oil burner users but to those who buy burners during the next few months."

WESTERN UNION PROFIT NEARLY FIVE TIMES 1940

Four Months' Net Climbs Above 2 Millions.

Net income of the Western Union Telegraph company for the first four months of 1941 increased to $2,134,540, from $455,478 in the corresponding period a year ago, the company reported yesterday. The earnings were equal to $2.04 a share, against 43 cents a share in the 1940 period.

Pettibone-Mulliken corporation, Chicago manufacturer of railway track materials and manganese steel products, announced net profits for the fiscal year ended March 31 of $164,364, compared with $123,030 in the preceding fiscal year. The earnings equaled $1.51 a share, against $1.13.

Nearing Delivery of Arms.

Emmett J. Fallon, president, said the report does not reflect the production of 155 millimeter gun carriages for which the company received a $3,817,817 government contract last September. Delivery of the first carriage called for under the order is scheduled for this month.

Fallon said that incoming orders for the company's regular line of products are two or three times the level of last year.

Universal Pictures corporation and subsidiaries issued a report for the 26 weeks ended May 3, showing profit of $1,759,334 before federal taxes but after other charges, compared with $1,173,002 in the corresponding period last year.

REALTY MEN HIT STATE BUILDING PURCHASE BILL

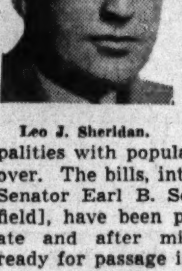
The Building Managers' Association of Chicago protested yesterday against bills pending in the legislature which would authorize creation of a "public building authority" to acquire and operate office buildings to house branches of the state government in Chicago and other Illinois municipalities with population of 75,000 and over. The bills, introduced May 6 by Senator Earl B. Searcy [R., Springfield], have been passed by the senate and after minor changes are ready for passage in the house.



Leo J. Sheridan.

One authorizes Gov. Green to appoint a building authority of three members for each qualified municipalty requiring a separate state office building. It provides that the authority can issue bonds up to $10,000,000 at not more than 4 per cent interest to finance acquisition, repair, and operation of the building, which would be tax exempt and house all state offices in that locality.

Provides State Ownership.

Rentals paid by the state to the authority would be used for current operation and amortization of the loan. Following retirement of the bonds, each building authority automatically would convey its property to the state.

The other bill merely amends the state revenue act to make the buildings tax exempt.

Commenting on these measures, Leo J. Sheridan, president of the Building Managers' association, said:

"At the present time the state is leasing space in various office buildings for use of departments needing quarters here. Undoubtedly these buildings are aided in meeting their operating expenses and taxes by reason of this occupancy. We are having trouble enough in Chicago with tax delinquencies without enacting laws to make this condition worse.

Says It Is Poorly Timed.

"Erection or purchase by the state of its own building would aggravate a highly competitive condition and further impair the ability of downtown properties to meet their tax obligations. The trouble with this proposal is largely a matter of bad timing. The state should hold off until it can be done without working a hardship on downtown property owners."

Senator Searcy said that the plan is the same as the one placed in operation several years ago by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn for erection of state owned armories.

CARIB SYNDICATE.

Why did the Carib Syndicate decide to go out of business? I read that the syndicate had a romantic history. What was its background and what was the nature of its business when the stockholders voted to liquidate?—P. H. B.

Answer: The management of the Carib Syndicate, Ltd., recommended to stockholders that the company be liquidated on the following grounds: Increasing taxes and administrative expenses, and limited capital resources. The stockholders on May 27 voted in favor of the management's proposal.

The syndicate was organized in 1915 to acquire and develop oil properties in Central and South America. It helped finance Gen. Virgilio Barco who early in the century discovered oil in his jungle properties in southern Colombia.

The Barco Oil concession was turned over for exploitation to the Colombian Petroleum company, in which the syndicate held a substantial interest until 1937, when it sold this holding to the Texas corporation and Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

Because the Colombian investment constituted the syndicate's principal asset, its sale left the syndicate with available funds, which it decided to invest in a diversified portfolio of oil securities and properties.

The syndicate's earnings have declined sharply since 1937, when $553,385 was earned. In 1938 net income slumped to $30,679, in 1939 to $15,700, but recovered to $41,393 in 1940. However, the management reported a net loss of $218,000 in the first quarter this year.

Intent upon liquidating the syndicate's assets, the management in the first four months this year converted almost all the marketable securities into cash. On April 30 the syndicate was reported as holding $844,584 in liquid assets, including $840,835 in cash and accounts receivable. Oil properties and other securities not included in liquid assets were valued at an additional $337,000.

The management announced that it plans a first liquidating distribution of $800,760, equal to $1.20 a share on 667,300 shares of 25 cent par capital stock. Liquidation under New York laws would require 3 years and the cost of dissolution was estimated at $40,000.
